SIM-3257834 - May 7, 2018, 3:24 am

Just a basic black tee $10

AE jeans $30

Ultraboost $180

LG Style watch $160

Total $380, as you can see I spend more on my feet than on my clothes. I have knee pain so I can't rock Converse too long even though I love em.

I used to think this until I bought a pair of nice jeans. They are noticeably better in material and fit and its the one thing I wouldn't cheap out on now. They also hold their color a lot better.

I agree w the people that brag about the price of their clothes being hypebeast kids that fell for the supreme meme though

They are literally the laughing stock of the fashion scene

And I'd say cheaping out on dress pants is even worse because the fit is really important and usually its a nightmare to find generic shit that fits well off the shelf unless you want to get it tailored. Especially if you're trying to look professional instead of a dude who raided his dads wardrobe.

Either a Basic Black Tshirt (10GBP) or Adidas/Ellesse (50GBP)
Burton Jeans (25GBP) or Nike/Adidas Tracksuit (50GBP)
Retro Jordans (750GBP)
Aviator Gold plated watch (150GBP)

The most expensive thing always being my J's or Yeezys

TLDR: I'm really into my Jordans as I love basketball and it's a great way to flex on court

I normally wear extremely casual stuff, but here are the prices for a few different settings where I'd wear dissimilar styles:

Gym:

$70 - Under Armour/Nike/Alphalete hoodie

$30 - for regular t-shirt

$35 - UA/Nike shorts

$15 - socks

$90 - Roshe One

Casual lunch/dinner or movies etc.:

$50 - AE Flat Front shorts

$60 - T-shirt

$100 - Sperry boat shoe

V2:

$70 - UA/Nike joggers

$60 - Forever 21 / ASOS hoodie

But the real question at that aspect is how much are you carting worth of tools? ?

Haha. My tools are super expensive but whatever. I usually buy redwing 8" boots so they're a bit more expensive but my buddy works at their plant so I get a good deal. Boots are probably 200-220, jeans are like 60 but probably old and ripped, t shirts are free from whatever run or event I got it at haha.

My nice clothes are a little more expensive because it's all tailored.

(Sep 7, 2018 10:03 AM)Abxrpt Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What would you be wearing at a wedding, lets hear it? Usually dress pants, I like the polo microfiber ones that you can wash normally, nice fitted dress shirt, Calvin Klein makes really nice ones, nice pair of tan leather dress shoes, bow tie or a regular neck tie, and if it's cooler out I'll bring a suit jacket as well. On top of carrying all my camera gear.

My entire Dads side of the family are all Carpenters and trades.... ?

A dying breed....

Agent Shark - September 7, 2018, 11:31 am

My most expensive item on me is my watch. If you disregard my watch, my style is approximately 150.00 - 200.00

Yep we have a big labor shortage in our industry. Prices are going up to incentivize new people to join the labor force but everyone thinks we make like 20k a year because schools have told them you need a degree to make big bucks lol.

Poor suckers.

My watches on average cost $200, worst part is they are smart watches to they lose 50% of their value next year.

Woes - October 21, 2018, 2:11 pm

I don't wear any drip that's worth <200.

so shirt, pants, jacket, shoes, socks, underwear

$1.2K at least lmao

BTC BTC BTC - September 29, 2019, 7:26 pm

Average $500+

Most expensive around $1250-ish

I wear a few designer brands so adds up a little

TheRecklessZebra - September 29, 2019, 7:58 pm

I would say about 3-400$ dollars in my outfit not too if im not wearing a watch, or jewelry

scam. - September 29, 2019, 11:19 pm

oh god i dont even want to think about this now

c0ffee_c0de - September 29, 2019, 11:33 pm

Never really thought about it but more than I would have thought

T-Shirt: $20

Long Sleeved Shirt: $30

Jeans: $60

Socks: $10 (They're really comfy socks, okay?)

Shoes: $110

Total: $230

duck - September 30, 2019, 12:42 am

normally 5-10$ shorts

2-3$ tee

$30 shoes

$1 - 5$ underwear

i don't need any high end, used to buy some designer shit but it's the same as the cheap shit in my opinion

I'm terrible when it comes to clothes. I don't wear any underwear unless I'm going to work. I won't even put a bra on if I'm going to the store. lol So I guess I'm saving money. ? But I usually have on a $50 outfit, give or take, that consists of just a shirt and shorts or pants.

Vyrkfrir - October 3, 2019, 3:40 pm

I literally wear the same shit every day since I cba going out and doing shit. I just stay at home and chill after work/days off.

Work shirt - free

Work tie - free

Work pants $45

Work shoes $120

Belt $20

If I'm not going to work, change work shirt for old Tshirt, and a pair of jeans.

Hack - October 4, 2019, 3:30 pm

Probably around £300-400.

O.T

My daily outfit costs probably around 640$.

Shirt 20$, Pants 20$, Shoes 300$, Watch 300$. Considering the winter is coming that might go up by a bit. Still poor af.

PR1V473 - October 4, 2019, 8:58 pm

Armani T-Shirt 100-150 euros
Armani Jeans 200-250 euros
Armani Leather Jacket 600 euros
Armani Ceramic Watch 600 euros
Armani Sneakers 200 euros
Armani Wallet 100 euros

What else... Hmm, and 1000 euros in the pocket just in-case.
