Thread: PM delays

y389525 - May 10, 2018, 4:25 am

Hi there, I have been on HF for about 3 months now and back then when I first joined and started doing free giveaways when I sent someone a PM, I noticed that there is about a 30 second delay before you can send the next one(I'm guessing its to prevent spamming) but right now when I send just one PM it takes 5 minutes to send the next one. Did something change about the PM system? I was not an upgraded member before, and not now either but waiting 5 minutes to send to someone is annoying cause I have to send it one by one, or did HF change PMing system allowing to send the same message to multiple people without being upgraded? I would really like to know, thank you.

I've never experienced this but I'm gonna assume its a non-premium restriction.

Neither I experiencing it. Lately, there's slow on page loading in hf but it was fixed right away. Have you checked your internet connection?

I believe it does not have to do with a internet connection , yes there have been slow loading of pages in the past month if im not wrong but this is a restriction that is set up.

He is talking about the message that tells you that you have to wait longer to send another message. For him it is 5 minutes for some reason

The wait time was increased due to spammers pm'ing people some shitty hf clone.

If you don't want to wait, just upgrade.

The time between sending messages for normal members was extended to cull spamming of a specific competing forum in private messages.

PM spammer prevention method.

Sorry, you should just upgrade.
