Thread: Medical Students here?

Zaki2297 - May 13, 2018, 9:56 am

Hey! I was wondering if there were any medical students here, like myself :)
Might need help and/or advice. I'm only a second year student, so four more years to go.
I'm open to any discussions.

I'm a medical student in a weird spot. A fourth year who came back from a 2 year medical leave. I'm in a unique position but I have sure learned a lot. Ha, I went from a medical student to an ICU patient that was almost killed by a liver laceration. For a while I was temporarily unable to walk and had a mild Broca's aphasia (among other things). As I get better and recover from the damage, I am pressed with a short time limit to finish my degree. Medicine is so much work, don't get hurt on vacation!

That sucks to hear man, hope you get better. Good luck with your degree, it sure is work, and the worst is you're not even halfway there, considering residency and all.

Damn that sucks, I'm quite late with a reply as I forgot about this thread. I'm in my fifth year now. How are you doing? Hope you've gotten a lot better:)
