

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Free google home on eBay with 150\$+ purchase

50cal - May 14, 2018, 3:53 pm

When you enter eBay you can see they are making a event until the 20th of may that when you make a purchase that is over 150 dollars you get a free home mini. Now my question is (obviously I'm not going to do it) couldn't you just post an article on eBay that costs 150 dollars, buy it yourself and you get a free home mini? Like could you theoretically do it

Like said I won't even try it cause eBay can be very strict sometimes but someone please answer me cause I think it's a big lack in the security

N?ght - May 14, 2018, 3:54 pm well fuck.... i already purchased something and didnt realize this

Faith Connors - May 14, 2018, 4:31 pm >willingly letting a botnet into your home to spy on you hahaha why would anyone even consider this

Minesweeper - May 15, 2018, 6:00 pm

If you did buy something from yourself, remember that eBay will take 10% of that $150, and PayPal will take $0.30 base plus 2.9% of the $150. You've gotta buy and ship tracked postage if you want eBay to release your money at some point in the next few months (at least $3). You're at about $23 invested so far, when the home mini regularly goes for less than $30 online. Not worth the hassle.

#buzzkill