Read / watch the "Support" folder. Solution is there.

Hello,

You might have the wrong/not official version.

You need to use the plugin compiler and change the password.

Thanks,

Lime is fickle sometimes.... You may need to close/re-open your control panel a couple of times. Ensure that your anti's are turned off if you're using a VM for testing in the same network.

I have the same problem sometimes but it always comes back after some time.

The way you'll know everything is working correctly is when you can execute the chat window and it comes up. If it doesn't, your file manager and remote desktop won't either.

Is the version you're using directly from Nyan or another source?

You don't have the original / offical version. Look for a trusted download.
