Thread: Monetizing on basic skills, making 15000 to 25000 dollars a month !!!!!

Noximilien mactis - May 21, 2018, 10:20 am

Hey guys I'm new here and I want to share with you how I started making up to 25000 dollars net profit by monetizing basic skills:

- 2 years ago I dropped out of college, fueled by Gary V, Tai Lopez, Grant Cardone, Alex Becker I decided to become an entrepreneur at the age of 19, so start making up to 25000 dollars a month by monetizing on basic skills such as email marketing strategies, ads setting and offers ranking ect ... and how i acquired those skills.

-Now at the age of 21 and reflecting on this decision, I want you guys to learn from me and benefit from my experience, my trial and error, the skills i learned how i learned them and how i landed my clients:

- At first I tried fiverr, realizing the only skill at the time i had was translating from arabic to french and english, I didn't rank hire so no one hired me and i made no money.

-I then decided to go create content on YouTube, supersize I didn't make it either since i was quick to give up and there was no pay off, but i learned how to edit videos add basic effects and edit photos.

-After that I wanted to learn SEO, and same happened after a while I gave up again, but still i learned basic SEO.

-After that i wanted to get into CPA or affiliate marketing but supersize, back then i had no money or capital so yeah ... things went bad again and i gave up, however i learned how to set up ads and I learned a whole deal about internet marketing in general ? .

- the goes on goes on for a very long time of me trying something and giving up time after time, it was hard guys, but then i decided to try dropshipping and stick to it for over a year a made no dime, I was in a labyrinth of giving up and then go back at it, starting stores and closing them after no success, until I hit it....

-I noticed that the main reason a was failing was because i wasn't even trying, i had the illusion that i was working but what i was doing was surfing facebook group and youtube all day, and taking no action at all.

-With the experience I had as a video/photo editor, basic SEO and marketing experience, and hard work creating offers and ranking them, optimizing them, seeing what works and what doesn't, I finally made it, within 10 days I started making about 50 dollars a day, I optimized it and built upon it and i started making 300 dollars 1 month later.

- with my little success in hand I started helping other people on facebook groups, soon business owners started contacting me and offering to pay me for consulting/managing their ads/ creating their offers, ect only 21 years old, I had no access to any mentor, I was just addicted to porn and lazy.

If i'm able to do it, you can do it too, i believe that everyone have the capacity to turn their success switch on. if you have any question please do no hesitate to ask me I open to answer any question you have.

peace out. ?

Best thing about things like this are you truly get what you put in, which is why so many people are doing it. You're not grinding a 9-5 for shit pay, youre grinding and getting paid what you put in! been doing this for about a month, probably most success i've had in awhile.

Your testimony is pretty important to a lot of people. The problem for many people is that they don't even put into practice what they learn, many people are looking for magical methods to make money, when they find a good method they read it or just see it and then decide not to do anything, this is pretty typical, and they are always looking for methods and more methods but they don't get to work.

Even though the formatting of your thread gave me cancer, this one actually is really important for most people in this section trying to make it.

Think about it and reflect.

MM true story or not, people struggling to make it online should also realize that it's their fault they're failing and should work harder. Best of luck op, cya ^^
