Thread: How do I change my profile picture to something decent

WoodBoxLittleDrumzCap - May 23, 2018, 12:34 am

All of these pre-made avatars available on here are pretty lame and ridiculous for my personal tastes so I was wondering where the function was to change my profile picture to something actually more decent like some I've made myself in Photoshop?

Also, I was wondering how to change my signature as well, there simply does not seem to be an actual option for it in the User CP while obviously others ARE changing theirs so either my browser is bugged or your website.

Thanks! ?

Earlier there was an option to link your own avatar, I don't know if it's still there. If there isn't, only way to upload your avatar is to upgrade to l33t membership. Signature will be enabled automatically after certain amount of posts, I can't remember how much it is. I read somewhere it was 500 but I think it was lowered. Again, upgrading to l33t would solve this problem.

You must upgrade to use avatars from links. Until then you will have to use the ones provided in the avatar gallery.

What? That's ridiculous. What good is there in taking away one's natural sense of identity by now even allowing them to display a 100x100 picture of their choice on their very own public profile? This is just beyond me. I seriously suggest and recommend that whoever the webmasters may be managing this forum make the appropriate corrections suggested - it will benefit not only me but everyone on this forum. Thank you.

Appreciate your Public Interest Litigation but the forum should self sustain and that's possible when users contribute. ?

If a 100x100 picture matters to you that much then upgrade, if not, stop crying
