Thread: Having " Trusted Member" in your user title.

CYB3RM4N - May 25, 2018, 6:24 am

Recently, I've noticed some members having "? Trusted Member" or some variation of that in their user status.

Is this allowed? Since I believe it might deceive newer/less experienced members into believing they're actually trusted.

Thank you!

This is probably allowed.

Members deal at their own risk.

There is no specific rule against it

I completely understand what you are saying! If I was a new member I would think they are trusted because of that.

You can write pretty much anything in your user title as long as it complies with the help documents. We don't have any rules against that.

All deals are at your own risk.
