

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Facetime

Cheatah - May 26, 2018, 10:31 pm

Hi guys,

I recently bought an iPhone 6s and it turned out to be a UAE region phone with model number ending on AE/A.

Is there any way I can get facetime on this thing?

kiwi - May 26, 2018, 10:41 pm

Quote:If accessing and using FaceTime in those previously restricted regions is something that you are interested in doing then we have all of the necessary information for you below. You simply need to invest a very small amount of your time to make it happen.

Requirements:

In order to navigate through the file system as root, on a non-jailbroken device, you will need to have the FilzJailed app installed. This is a file explorer app for the iOS directory structure which bundles in the Ian Beer exploit to allow access to directories but only on iOS 11.0 through iOS 11.1.2.

Alternatively, if you do happen to be jailbroken, then you just need to have a regular file explorer installed on the device, such as iFile or Filza.

Step 1: On your device running iOS 11.0-11.1.2, open up the file explorer on the device and navigate to the following directory: /var/mobile/Library/CarrierBundle.bundle

Step 2: Inside of that directory you will find a property list (plist) called Carrier. Open that file. Click on the "+" to tell the explorer that you want to amend the file and add a new entry.

Step 3: Make sure you type in AllowsVoIP as the entry and set its type to be boolean. Save that new entry into the carrier.plist file.

Step 4: Make sure that the AllowsVoIP is turned on in the carrier.plist file and exit by tapping on Done.

Step 5: Exit the property list, the file explorer app, and entirely reboot the device. Once it has rebooted you should notice that FaceTime is now active and offered as a service on that device.

Facetime is prohibited on UAE phones because it is illegal in that country. Have you tried inserting a SIM card from a carrier outside of that country? Otherwise, follow the steps provided above.

Cheatah - May 27, 2018, 4:45 am

I am not in UAE, I bought it used forgot to check facetime at the time of purchase.

(May 26, 2018 10:41 PM)kiwi Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Facetime is prohibited on UAE phones because it is illegal in that country. Have you tried inserting a SIM card from a carrier outside of that country? Otherwise, follow the steps provided above.

This wont work I guess.

itsMeCherry - May 27, 2018, 6:07 am im sure you can just crack the lock

Amp - May 27, 2018, 7:06 am

You can probably just change the device ID?

Neodraxis - May 28, 2018, 8:42 am

Chances are, you cannot because Facetime is prohibited on UAE.

Cheatah - May 28, 2018, 4:10 pm

(May 27, 2018 07:06 AM)Amplifies Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You can probably just change the device ID?
How would I do that?

(May 28, 2018 08:42 AM)N?bility Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Chances are, you cannot because Facetime is prohibited on UAE.

I am currently out of UAE

(May 27, 2018 06:07 AM)itsMeCherry Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) im sure you can just crack the lock could you please elaborate a bit? or link me to a tut? thx!