Thread: High Frequency Radio Recruiting \(HF Radio.\)

Honeybun - May 31, 2018, 3:14 pm

A lot of interested has been expressed in a Hackforums related station so...

I'm gonna keep this short and sweet to save details for the official promotional release.

An online radio station has been discussed a lot here, nobody has done it. I am.

It won't be a Hackforums station, but it'll have heavy ties to hf. We'll talk about forum happenings, news, etc etc.

I'm looking for a couple trusted DJs and some people to contribute ideas, music etc to the station.

I'm the General Manager of multiple stations IRL, and I know that it takes help. It's not going to be a shit sounding station - Mass Market sound only with me.

If you're interested, don't miss out - pm me. I'll probably find people quick.

If you're not interested in working with it, stay tuned for the release. We'll open up with a dedication to hackforums and it's members, along with station contributors.

I know there was, lol. And they all died. There is still obvious interest in something like hf radio.

Also, this isn't going to be entirely HF based.

Excited to be helping out with this.

Gonna be one of the coolest projects in a while.

Back in the fly by night days we set up a radio station and there was basically no interest. People said they were interested but no one cared after a couple days

And maybe a live youtube channel radio too that constantly plays pop songs (or whatever songs) you like.
