

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: ERASE DATA ON PC

oluwo - May 31, 2018, 5:25 pm

Hello guru's

Please I need a software to erase data on my pc with just 1 or 2 clicks. I'll be glad if I can get few suggestion.

Thank you

WhiteTiger. - May 31, 2018, 5:38 pm

Some anti virus programs come with a file destruction tool.

You could try Eraser. It does exactly what you want.

CCleaner seems to be a popular choice as well.

I've always used the one that comes with my anti virus so I can't really tell how good the others are.

Kind regards,

~WT

SIM-3717028 - May 31, 2018, 5:42 pm

Not sure if the software is trustworthy, but running without internet should do.

CCleaner, tools, drive wiper choose wipe entire drive, 35 passes, and select all drives you want to erase.

WARNING:

erasing with 35 passes may take many days but it is more secure than faster methods.

javinzplayer - May 31, 2018, 5:58 pm

Filemenu tools has an option to shred files.

oluwo - June 1, 2018, 3:07 am

(May 31, 2018 05:38 PM)WhiteTiger. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Some anti virus programs come with a file destruction tool.

You could try Eraser. It does exactly what you want.

CCleaner seems to be a popular choice as well.

I've always used the one that comes with my anti virus so I can't really tell how good the others are.

Kind regards,

~WT

I believe CCleaner will still have the files stored somewhere on the computer and could possibly be recovered. What I'm looking for is something that can crash the HD immediately and files wont be recoverable or very difficult to recover

DBS2017 - June 1, 2018, 3:11 am

(Jun 1, 2018 03:07 AM)oluwo Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I believe CCleaner will still have the files stored somewhere on the computer and could possibly be recovered. What I'm looking for is something that can crash the HD immediately and files wont be recoverable or very difficult to recover
Telling you again, neodymium magnets will do the job.

Chris.fussner - June 1, 2018, 3:12 am

(Jun 1, 2018 03:07 AM)oluwo Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I believe CCleaner will still have the files stored somewhere on the computer and could possibly be recovered. What I'm looking for is something that can crash the HD immediately and files wont be recoverable or very difficult to recover
Simple answer. Take your HDD out and smash it to pieces... every fragment of data to enter a HDD can be recovered using recovery programs via windows, even though you format, it doesnt mean the data cannot be retrieved.

Or design a program that will flood your HDD resources and cause it to burn out.