Data Protector or DarkEYE Crypter?

I am looking to purchase a crypter to protect my files

I have been recommended this two above and I can purchase only one.

I want to seek the expertise and experience of HF members.

Which one is better or recommended?

Thanks.

How do you mean by 'anything'?

logvamse1234 - June 6, 2018, 3:54 am

Data Protector is MUCH cheaper 225$ for lifetime where DarkEYE is better but expensive 75$ for basic plan per MONTH and professional plan for 225$ FOR MONTH

SENTINEL ain't cracked.

Why do you have to call that shitty?

s??l?s? - June 6, 2018, 7:22 pm

close your eyes and go with Data Protector, you will be satisfied.

red - June 6, 2018, 7:42 pm

Would highly recommend DarkEye. It is more expensive, but for good reason. You cannot expect long FUD times with a public crypter like Data Protector sold here on the forum. Literally every crypter on this forum lies about FUD times and detection's to further improve their sales. DarkEye will not disappoint you. I have used probably every "main" crypter advertised here on the forum and can tell you none of them live up to their expectation compared to DarkEye.

Not going to say anything else because this forum also has a bad reputation for harassment when giving an opinion.

So DARK EYE is a private stub crypter?

With every customer having their own unique stub?

No but updates are frequent.... Is you are using native malware go with darkeye and if you are using .net then go with a .net crypter

I think DARK EYE offers public stubs at $75/month and private stubs at $225/month

As stated on their website. Or is their "private custom stub" not really private as they portray on their site.

what are you doing here when this forum has bad reputation.

This is the best forum and a user can learn lot of things here. there are bad and good people everywhere.

nobody can stop you for giving an opinion,its ur right.

You just seem to be a marketing guy for darkeye . Because you blindly said that all cryptors owners lie here about there runtimes.

people like you try to cut the tree that you are sitting on. Go find a forum that suits you,instead of crying here.

Okay, first of all I am not a "marketing guy" for DarkEyE. Second, me saying that this forum has a bad reputation for people that buy ranks and "abuse" their reputation powers is true and can be seen literally in almost any thread that criticizes someone or something they do. Third, people can technically stop someone from giving their opinion even if it is their right to freedom of speech. For example someone that is displeased with a product here on HF that creates a thread explaining why the product they purchased was bad will almost always get negative reputation from the owner of said product or will get hate for even spreading their opinion. Now to people on the outside this makes them not want to speak out about how the product they have bought is bad because they know in return there is a chance they will be given negative reputation for simply giving their opinion. Fourth, I did NOT blindly say that "all cypter owners lie here". I know that they lie. The reason I know that they lie is because I have used almost all the "good" crypters here on the forum. I've used Topher, DarkEye, CyberSeal, ByteCrypter, DataProtector, and PrimeCrypt.pw. Those are just the few that I can think of off the top of my head. Oh, and Janna. All of them have very short FUD lifetime and that is for good reason. Because they are extremely public and are saturated crypters that have been out for long spans of time and offer lifetime subscriptions. Now that I have explained that, all of the crypters sold here on HackForums claim to be "the best crypter on HF!", when in reality none of them are the best and will protect your files for a small amount of time, but in the end will be detected by tons of AV's after just a couple days. I really have only had my attention on updates from Topher and have seen the owner does release frequent updates but it is not enough to keep the files from being detected within a couple days like I said. Each crypter has different amounts of FUD times each time they release an update so it's hard to pinpoint and put into text the exact amount of time they stay FUD for. But like I said none of them have "long FUD time" like they advertise and again, it is for good reason. Now the last and final thing you said. "People like you try to cut the tree that you are sitting on, go find a forum that suits you instead of crying here.", now this would have been a good reply to me but unfortunately I have spent money here on the forum and honestly do like it and think to some degree it offers something. But today this forum has much more strict rules than what it used to have, a way larger user-base, and way more donators (ub3rs, 3p1cs, etc that can just neg rep you for no reason). Not only that, but the current rules are easily skewed by loopholes. For example the "valid reputation" rule. Valid reputation is completely subjective. If I were to leave someone a negative reputation saying "I don't like the way you smell.", that is considered valid reputation and cannot be punishable at all even though the person I negged has no prior conversation to me at all. There are many more rules that have flaws and I honestly am just too lazy to type them all out.
