Thread: Sheepgang vs Skill

What is the difference between these groups?

Both are gaming & lounge groups. I do apologize if that question has been around before - I couldn't find a thread about it though.

Idk all I know is I applied to skill and got no response so I gotta rock wit sheepgang even tho not a member just bc of that

Deany - June 6, 2018, 9:02 pm

they both equally as dead lol

SheepGang is more on the keyboard warrior side of things as you can tell.

Not entirely true lol.

I was in skill for a long ass time and I'm probably the best cod player you'd ever see ;)

sheepgang has a nice userbar

I don't think that's what he meant..

OP: This is how you start disputes btw.

I don't think there's really any difference tbh, haven't been in Sheepgang. Sheepgang members seem to be more vocal outside their lounge(most skill members don't wear the UB.. from what I've seen.)

People in SheepGang actually play real games and not guess what I draw.

Also we don't fuck other people over like Raptor xx.

These videos were fun though.

One plays games, the other plays skribble.

Hmm I think I have been in both groups after they invited everyone publicly. I know I was in SheepGang, and maybe I'm getting Skill mixed up with that old group called Synergy, but I do recall being in a few gaming groups.

Fusion too actually. I think that was one of the best organized gaming groups I've ever seen. Nice userbar too. They used to have 2 'colors' lead by different leaders who would fight/play against each other and compete for prizes, points and generally compete for overall control.

I liked that idea and felt that the competitiveness within the same group allowed them to be a really good gaming group, and they had a LOT of members.

Sheepgang from what I do recall had a lot of posts and provided a general platform to meet other gamers and I really can't remember what skill was like, although I think I may have been in it once.

OT: I'd love to see more groups do what Fusion did !!

We haven't played Skribble.io since Starstruck left. It was fun though lol Applied for both, got denied by both even though I've proven my game hours played, majority of my posts are either in Instinct or various gaming forums. Groups are nothing but friends, friends of friends or buy ins. Last true gaming group was Instinct and we actually gamed together in there when we werent shit posting.

Sorry to hear that my friend. It really seems like the purpose of hf groups have been smashed to shit by these ring members.

I agree with you on that one. I post a lot within the Xbox and Gaming categories on this forum, presented my interest with my gaming consoles and Gamerscore hobby with Xbox within the sheepgang application and still got denied. Some people even gave it their all into their application and still get denied. It's all a circle of friends, that's it.

Skill was only a Discord/lounge group. Literally did nothing gaming related.
