Thread: So i almost got stabbed during a robbery today

Pronouncer - June 6, 2018, 6:09 pm

So I'm on my way home, he's walking in front of me onto the way to my old secondary school as I live next to a field which has a path. He turned around and pulled out his knife and told me to give my wallet and watch :joy: so I show him he's not the only one with a knife as he looks down at my knife punch him, and stomp on him, my boy who lives on my road (also my drug dealer) on his way to college saw and I mean I ain't a violent guy but I can back myself so he runs over and stamps on him and takes his knife then we dipped, we left him on the middle of the road blooded and out cold

TheLocker - June 6, 2018, 6:17 pm

You should probably carry pepper spray. Non-lethal but can get you away in such situations.

America here. Stabbing someone with a knife is considered, and charged as harassment

A knife has it's own charges, you get anything between 12months to 5 years if I'm correct just for carrying. Using isna whole other thing.

Well, carding (mainly talking about U.S in this reference) you're basically taking money from the banks in the end, which takes advantage & robs the public lol. Banks control the world.

Anyways,most large corp banks will do an investigation and compensate the funds that was lost in the unauthorized purchase('s). Now, if it's some local banks, yep you're fucking them over.

Glad you're not the blooded one OP.

I conceal carry everywhere and I don't think I'd get in trouble for straight gunning someone down if they did that shit.

That's pretty ballsy on his end.

There's a line between not letting some rob you in your area and knowing that you can end up killed if you even try. I lost a friend few years ago who had the same situation and was trying to protect himself from getting his bike and stuff stolen, tried to attack the dude but turned there was a second guy bidding who stabbed him twice in the back. Glad it didn't turn bloody on you.

Pikachu - June 7, 2018, 1:34 am thats why i always carry a knife on me at all times, for that reason right there. I live in a ghetto area, so i need to protect myself from all the crazy's out here.

Protecting yourself with a knife isn't as easy as you'd think lol. Especially if they say fuck it and come at you with theirs anyway. Or they pull a gun. I carry a knife everywhere but I doubt I'd ever use it to defend myself. I'd either use the gun that I carry 99% of the time or just give them my shit

Supposedly a person has to have a good reason to be carrying a knife and there is knife restrictions there.

For example in order for someone to carry lets say my KaBar BK16 an acceptable reason is bushcraft because a lot of people still do bushcraft there.

Folding knives cannot have a lock as well to my understanding so that leaves liner lock, lock back, etc banned so that leaves slip joint as an option.

At least this is what I have picked up over time not sure on how accurate it is.

Well I would keep carrying knives if I was there think of this, if someone wants to stab someone do they really need a knife to do it? what is to stop them from using a pen, pencil, garden shovel, scissors, etc.

I don't think it is right to have a ban on one of the oldest tools in the history of man kind.

Seems like a really believable story.

Truly - June 8, 2018, 12:53 am

Good for you OP, i'm glad you didn't let that piece of shit steal from you. I learned a lesson from this, I purchased a weapon recently because I realized the police are fucking useless. I got robbed in the same scenario you did, and I filed a police report and they found the guy but let him go free. Fxxxx THE POLICE $4,000 restitution was all I wanted
