[iOS] Get Spotify Premium Without Jailbreak [Simple]

Step 1: Navigate to <http://appvalley.vip> on your iOS device. Click "Install AppValley" on the front-page, and allow time for the shortcut to download/appear on your homepage.

Step 2: Go into your iOS settings, then navigate to the General tab. From there, click on Device Management. Click on the new developer profile that has been added, and click Always Trust This Developer.

Step 3: You have now granted access to the third-party developer, and you're now able to open the AppValley shortcut that was placed on your homepage. Delete your old Spotify app first if you have it. Open AppValley, allow some time to load and skip the advertisements, then go to the Search tab. Search for Spotify++, click the app, and begin the download.

Step 4: Open the Spotify++ and login to the app as you normally would. This will function as regular Spotify, but will give you unlimited skips, let you download songs, and the other perks that come with Spotify Premium. Every few weeks or so, the developer profile will be blacklisted by Apple, so you will have to delete the apps and go through the process again, but your playlists/downloads will still be saved to your Spotify account.

Voilà! You now have Spotify Premium. This is a simple, and widely known method... but, if this helped you, bump this thread so other people can see it! Thanks!

Possibly the app is on an old version, but when I posted this thread, I still had songs downloaded. The app is tweaked, so I don't see how it's impossible to have saved that feature. I'll have to go and check.

I love having this for free. Love, love, love.

Sadly it goes away after a bit. At least it's not hard to redpwnload.

I better pay for an upgrade, it's worth it.

But still that's really good and I already knew about this since been jailbreaking phones before.

Thank you for this man
