Thread: Warning popup/removal of 'Change User' button on new thread interface

SIM-964740 - June 12, 2018, 6:56 am

While making a new thread I encountered a little mishap where my account was instantly logged out from accidentally clicking the 'Change User' button on the new thread interface. Quite frankly it doesn't seem as though such a button is necessary for this forum. Regardless, would be nice for at least a warning popup alike the warning you get when you press the 'Log Out' button.

Couldn't find any similar suggestions on this matter.

PS: May be duplicate thread due to lag (Unrelated to thread).

Yeah, never really noticed the button either.

It's just a weird button to have on a forum in general IMO (as default). How many forums by default expect users to jump between accounts often enough to need a reminder?

I used to have a javascript check on that link. I'll add it again. It was probably lost in the 1.8x update.
