Thread: What happened to Red Lions?

Kraith - June 14, 2018, 4:25 pm

Does anybody know what happened to Red Lions / Nokia? Seems it has all vanished

EDIT:

Yes I know Red Lions still exists, however Nokia hasn't been online in almost 2 years. His group has halted to a stand still..

Just asking if anybody knows what the deal is

Deany - June 14, 2018, 4:25 pm

I think I heard Omni say in the Mr. Robot stream that he was gonna delete it IIRC

NoSuchAgency - June 14, 2018, 4:26 pm

I imagine it's just super exclusive so you don't see many people anymore. It's still on the group list, so

Nokia hasn't been online in nearly 2 years.

What do you mean?

It still exists

It still exists

I know it still exists. But nokia hasn't been online in 2 years. And the group has basically come to a stand still.

He said something like in 3 months he will delete the group if the owner doesn't login before that (been offline for 21 months apparently) or something similar.

Ah, the guy is probably too busy swimming in his money

I wonder whats going to happen to the group. Typically from what I've seen in the past, Omni likes to get rid of dead groups

Seems like you missed my reply.

He also said that if he removed the group and the (old) owner came back he would take it from there.

Well I assume they've paid big money to make that group, idk if it's going to be as easy as 1 2 3 to delete it.

But shouldn't "!!* Alone Vampire *!!" be the one to make the group active again, or doesn't he have many rights?

Who knows? Maybe he got bored of/forgot HackForums. I also took a long break before coming back.

Maybe he might start revisiting the forums in the future.

Does anyone actually keep in touch with Nokia off of this site? I know he's a busy guy, but never saw anyone mention if they did.

Yeah man sorry about that. I missed your reply.

I highly doubt that but its possible. I'm sure he's just a very busy guy that doesn't have time to go on internet forums. like many of the greats that have left this place.

I doubt that the guy who has invested thousands of dollars into HF would risk perm ban.

We are also working on things within the subforum I obviously cannot speak about.

If you guys really want to know:

We are alive, we are pretty inactive in the forum but still talk to each other frequently and share info.

Nokia has been gone for a while, haven't seen him on skype or HF for at least a year or possibly 2 years. The last time I spoke to him was about an old stub that he didn't even remember or seem to care about. He is most likely busy with real life and simply does not think about HF with his current methods.

Vampire is also very busy with his own company and also is very inactive due to the time requirements of his company.

We are still pretty talkative within the group and share amongst ourselves, but yes, you are right in that our group is sorta dead. We try to report posts and be model forum members, but our activity has halted in terms of meaningful forum contributions due to a lot of inactivity and inability to hold accountability.

We have attempted to rectify the leadership situation with RL multiple different ways from both internal structures to talking with Omni personally.

If you're asking where Nokia is, the answer is I don't know.

If you're asking if we are dead, the answer is sorta....we talk amongst ourselves but yeah, as a forum group we are unable to hold members accountable for forum tasks and this you may consider us dead.

We are also all adults, some in the military, some with companies, some with full time jobs....it's hard to keep active with the group we have, and its hard to get new members and keep them on-task with no truly active leadership.

That's right. I'm pretty sure he disappeared, came back to donate 3-4 GA awards, and then disappeared again.
