

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Space suddenly appearing.

Shadow Reign - June 15, 2018, 1:35 pm

I don't really believe this is the correct subforum but it's the only one I can really think of to post this in.

So, lastnight I was fiddling around trying to install a game which was about 2.5GB

I had 2.3GB of space, so I deleted a few of my movies to make space and installed the game.

About an hour later I grew bored of it and uninstalled it and was about to install Space Engineers when I noticed I suddenly have 60 gigs of free space.

Where the hell did it come from? I didn't delete or remove any programs. My recycle been is emptied daily of not multiple times daily. I have no cleaning software and there's nothing in my event logs or anywhere notifying me how or why this occurred. I'm not really complaining, I'm just confused and want to know where it all went.

SlowMehMo - June 21, 2018, 6:17 am

Its possible that you uninstallation also uninstalled other programs that the game used to run, there are some games on steam i have played and uninstalled that used unity, and when i uninstalled them i was missing .NET resources.

but since you were able to make this post, you shouldnt be missing anything too important if that was the case

4b33r - July 7, 2018, 6:32 am

Have you tried running a disk check? Maybe your HDD fucked up

CyberError - July 7, 2018, 6:34 am

(Jul 7, 2018 06:32 AM)4b33r Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Have you tried running a disk check? Maybe your HDD fucked up have you ever tried reading dates of thread ? maybe your brain fucked up

Lil Ricky™ - July 7, 2018, 10:55 pm

(Jul 7, 2018 06:34 AM)CyberError Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) have you ever tried reading dates of thread ? maybe your brain fucked up

Does that mean mine is too, since i'm here? ?

Lukas - July 7, 2018, 11:07 pm

(Jul 7, 2018 06:34 AM)CyberError Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) have you ever tried reading dates of thread ? maybe your brain fucked up

It's not even a month old?