

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Does the average income of Americans are high?

heihei0023 - June 15, 2018, 4:24 pm

Because the state system is different, the people in the eyes of the Chinese people have the same salary for one month, but the money is different. 1 dollars is equal to 6 yuan, is it equal to 6 times the wages of the Chinese people doing the same work, is that so?

OneHalf - June 15, 2018, 4:26 pm

You have to look at inflation of costs.. not just inflation and deflation of money across different currencies..

heihei0023 - June 15, 2018, 4:33 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 04:26 PM)OneHalf Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You have to look at inflation of costs.. not just inflation and deflation of money across different currencies..Are Americans very rich and their lives are easy

Omniscient - June 15, 2018, 4:38 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 04:33 PM)heihei0023 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Are Americans very rich and their lives are easy Compared to what? Easy is a relative term.

heihei0023 - June 15, 2018, 4:40 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 04:38 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Compared to what? Easy is a relative term.
:devilish:My English is bad. There may be something that I cannot express clearly,Thanks administrator for reminding test - June 15, 2018, 4:44 pm

You have to compare it to something. Just by using some basic Google stats the average American household income is somewhere around $50,000. The average annual income for a Chinese worker is around $5,000 - $10,000. So yes, Americans are technically 'richer' on average but you have you take into account things like the cost of living and inflation.

oscast - June 15, 2018, 4:50 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 04:44 PM)testaccountplsignore Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You have to compare it to something. Just by using some basic Google stats the average American household income is somewhere around $50,000. The average annual income for a Chinese worker is around $5,000 - $10,000. So yes, Americans are technically 'richer' on average but you have you take into account things like the cost of living and inflation.
And living fucking sucks here lol

Mr.Cat - June 15, 2018, 4:53 pm

You have to compare it from many many angles to make a conclusion.. From how much the local store is charging the consumers... to even how people are spending their money (in what way). its not as simple as you think. Hell even cultures are playing a role.

Americans may get more, but they might spend more also in many ways. Even the employees in america and china are acting different with their staff. Different laws, different standards, different expectations...etc

heihei0023 - June 15, 2018, 5:00 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 04:44 PM)testaccountplsignore Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You have to compare it to something. Just by using some basic Google stats the average American household income is somewhere around $50,000. The average annual income for a Chinese worker is around $5,000 - $10,000. So yes, Americans are technically 'richer' on average but you have you take into account things like the cost of living and inflation.

Mr.Cat - June 15, 2018, 5:02 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 04:50 PM)oscast Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) And living fucking sucks here lol
i could ask people in Africa the same question and most of the time i will get the same answer. This is happening because humans adapt... The more you have, the more you want and the more expectations you have. The less you have, the less you want.

heihei0023 - June 15, 2018, 5:03 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 05:02 PM)Mr.Cat Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) i could ask people in Africa the same question and most of the time i will get the same answer. This is happening because humans adapt... The more you have, the more you want and the more expectations you have.

Haha, this problem really does not explain, after all, the environment is not the same

Mr.Cat - June 15, 2018, 5:04 pm

Quote:You have to compare it to something. Just by using some basic Google stats the average American household income is somewhere around $50,000. The average annual income for a Chinese worker is around $5,000 - $10,000. So yes, Americans are technically 'richer' on average but you have you take into account things like the cost of living and inflation.

and a billion other things

(Jun 15, 2018 05:03 PM)heihei0023 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Haha, this problem really does not explain, after all, the environment is not the same

Like omni said.. easy is a relative term.. Because it focuses on the individual and his perspective. Its like happiness.

heihei0023 - June 15, 2018, 5:10 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 05:04 PM)Mr.Cat Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) PHP Code

<?php

You have to compare it to something.

Just by using some basic Google stats the average American household income is somewhere around $50,000. The average annual income for a Chinese worker is around $5,000 - $10,000. So yes, Americans are technically 'richer' on average but you have you take into account things like the cost of living and inflation.

and a billion other things

Like omni said.. easy is a relative term.. Because it focuses on the individual and his perspective. Its like happiness.

The United States is in the evening and forgets the time difference. There are still many activists on the forum. This is the first time I've come to the US forum.

China has a wall. Usually we cannot see the U.S. world. We can only look at the VPN.

GoodVibes - June 15, 2018, 5:35 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 05:10 PM)heihei0023 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The United States is in the evening and forgets

the time difference. There are still many activists on the forum. This is the first time I've come to the US forum.

China has a wall. Usually we cannot see the U.S. world. We can only look at the VPN.

Activists. I haven't been to China but I could imagine from what I've read and seen from friends that have visited, it's nicer to live in the US. If you can learn English decently enough and can get to the US and whatever paperwork you need to live here, it'd probably be worth it. Shit, while you're still learning English or whatever you can work at Chinese food stores, they always have lots of workers that speak Chinese.

jcbullet - June 15, 2018, 5:40 pm

Being from the UK i get a decent wage but it is counteracted by the cost of living.

West Coast Ghost - June 15, 2018, 5:46 pm

Here's this for something to think about. I make about $5000 a month, but it also costs $2000 a month for a 3 bedroom apartment not including utilities, I pay $4+ for a gallon of gas and also vehicle fees are pretty high.

Manks - June 15, 2018, 5:54 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 05:46 PM)West Coast Ghost Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Here's this for something to think about. I make about $5000 a month, but it also costs $2000 a month for a 3 bedroom apartment not including utilities, I pay $4+ for a gallon of gas and also vehicle fees are pretty high.

Meanwhile, at the same time, a Chinese person may make $500 (in terms of USD) a month, and it only costs him $100 for rent, leaving him $400 for whatever he wants.

While West Coast does seemingly make more money, he also has higher expenses.

heihei0023 - June 15, 2018, 6:02 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 05:54 PM)Manks Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Meanwhile, at the same time, a Chinese person may make $500 (in terms of USD) a month, and it only costs him $100 for rent, leaving him $400 for whatever he wants.

While West Coast does seemingly make more money, he also has higher expenses.

You are quite right. China is indeed the status quo for most people.

(Jun 15, 2018 05:46 PM)West Coast Ghost Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Here's this for something to think about. I make about $5000 a month, but it also costs $2000 a month for a 3 bedroom apartment not including utilities, I pay $4+ for a gallon of gas and also vehicle fees are pretty high.

$2,000 a month in housing expenses, then $2,000 in daily expenses, and $1,000 left, about RMB 6,000. A newly graduated university student in China will have a monthly salary of 6000 RMB.

Grim - June 15, 2018, 6:15 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 04:38 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Compared to what? Easy is a relative term. Exactly money DOES NOT always equal happiness. many wealthy people i have met first hand can tell you that. You will still have many of the problems when you were broke just different problems.

AwakenGP - June 15, 2018, 6:17 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 04:24 PM)heihei0023 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Because the state system is different, the people in the eyes of the Chinese people have the same salary for one month, but the money is different. 1 dollars is equal to 6 yuan, is it equal to 6 times the wages of the Chinese people doing the same work, is that so?

Foreigners code for Americans for a reason

Nuworld - June 15, 2018, 6:44 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 05:03 PM)heihei0023 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Haha, this problem really does not explain, after all, the environment is not the same
I live in the U.S. however i was married in china.
My wife is from Chongqing.

We travel from the U.S. to China just about every year to visit family and friends.

To this day 12 years of marriage i still get my wife saying things are to expensive in the U.S.
This is because she always compares u.s. dollars to RMB. 1-6 conversion rate.

What might be expensive to her is cheap for myself and vise versa.
It all depends if we're in the U.S or in china.
For myself it's very cheap for me while in China.

Now on the other hand my wife works here in the U.S. and still does that conversion of money.
Her weekly take home pay here in the U.S is about 550$ a week.
A 1-6 conversion rate would be 3300$ RMB a week in China.

Now this the Wife likes very much.

SIM-1097664 - June 15, 2018, 6:45 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 05:46 PM)West Coast Ghost Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Here's this for something to think about. I make about $5000 a month, but it also costs $2000 a month for a 3 bedroom apartment not including utilities, I pay $4+ for a gallon of gas and also vehicle fees are pretty high.
Holy dicks that is expensive lol. I thought my $1100 for a two bedroom was high ?

heihei0023 - June 15, 2018, 7:14 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 06:44 PM)Nuworld Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I live in the U.S. however i was married in china.
My wife is from Chongqing.

We travel from the U.S. to China just about every year to visit family and friends.

To this day 12 years of marriage i still get my wife saying things are to expensive in the U.S.
This is because she always compares u.s. dollars to RMB. 1-6 conversion rate.

What might be expensive to her is cheap for myself and vise versa.
It all depends if we're in the U.S or in china.
For myself it's very cheap for me while in China.

Now on the other hand my wife works here in the U.S. and still does that conversion of money.
Her weekly take home pay here in the U.S is about 550$ a week.
A 1-6 conversion rate would be 3300$ RMB a week in China.

Now this the Wife likes very much.The Chinese always wanted to earn 3,000 U.S. dollars a month in the U.S., and then get China to convert them into renminbi. For example, working in the U.S. for 36,000 U.S. dollars a year, or 198,000 RMB dollars in China, it is very good for Chinese families. It may be nothing in the United States,So the Chinese are willing to compare the U.S. dollar

Fours4 - June 15, 2018, 8:42 pm

Well I dunno about prices in China, but in the UK, I make around £2000 a month, house and bills is around £800, vehicle insurance for me is around £200, so that is half of my monthly salary alone, how about in China?

heihei0023 - June 15, 2018, 9:35 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 08:42 PM)Klumbers Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Well I dunno about prices in China, but in the UK, I make around £2000 a month, house and bills is around £800, vehicle insurance for me is around £200, so that is half of my monthly salary alone, how about in China?

In the same way, only China's average wage is not so high. The monthly salary is about 300 to 500 pounds, and the rest is half.

CyberError - June 15, 2018, 9:41 pm

yeh amercians are living a easy live with high paid jobs and less working hours , here we doing 10-12hr+ per day jobs are still underpaid most of them , minimum daily wages are 5-7$/Day

1000$ On hand per month is considered a high paying job here

heihei0023 - June 15, 2018, 10:53 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 09:41 PM)CyberError Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) yeh amercians are living a easy live with high paid jobs and less working hours , here we doing 10-12hr+ per day jobs are still underpaid most of them , minimum daily wages are 5-7$/Day

1000$ On hand per month is considered a high paying job here

Excuse me, where is Mr.

CyberError - June 15, 2018, 11:15 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 10:53 PM)heihei0023 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Excuse me, where is Mr.
am sorry ? you mean where am from ? India

Fours4 - June 16, 2018, 6:17 am

(Jun 15, 2018 09:35 PM)heihei0023 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) In the same way, only China's average wage is not so high. The monthly salary is about 300 to 500 pounds, and the rest is half.I guess actually living in each country is probably around the same cost of living, you might get 300 pounds a month, but your shopping per week might cost 10 pounds, where as in England you might make 1500 pounds, but your shopping is 50 pounds per week.

But the cost is probably different when it comes to international costs, flying somewhere etc, in England it costs about £30-60 for a flight ticket anywhere around Europe, around £400 to America or China.

jesuschristisfake - June 16, 2018, 8:36 am

If you compare that to my country where the average salary is cca $800 (even less usually).
Americans are rich as fk.

dogsmix - June 16, 2018, 9:05 am i am looking at paying $2000 for 780 sqft :)

i also get the privilege of paying $4 a gallon but the weather is great though

heihei0023 - June 16, 2018, 4:35 pm

(Jun 15, 2018 11:15 PM)CyberError Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) am sorry ? you mean where am from ? India
India is also an industrial power

(Jun 16, 2018 09:05 AM)dogsmix Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) i am looking at paying $2000 for 780 sqft :)

i also get the privilege of paying $4 a gallon but the weather is great though
Your house is big (Jun 16, 2018 08:36 AM)Aesthetik Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If you compare that to my country where the average salary is cca $800 (even less usually).

Americans are rich as fk.

Aren't Americans very profitable? Apple, Qualcomm, Microsoft, Google, Nvidia, Intel, but our country does not have this core technology company, most of which is a company that assembles these components.