Thread: Nulled forums - my new project need opinions

Sick. - June 18, 2018, 6:52 pm

I just started a hobby forums about nulled stuff since I have more spare time to waste. Yeah I know it's generic to post threads about forums and since I'm a long time lurker I have seen people criticizing that. For now I'd like you to give me some general opinion on how to improve, what to change and so on, you get the drill.

The forums are based on mybb theme with the rework secommunity theme. I included and optimized many things, but there is still lots of things to be done.

The address is nulledforums.org and right now I'll look for helpers too if someone has an interest to work on project like this as a volunteer.

I'm not planning to add any kind of ads for like one year or so, since this is purely a hobby project. (probably won't even then, just would ask for donations to keep servers alive if there is traffic and people to visit it)

I-I-I - June 18, 2018, 6:56 pm

What more attractive things your forum got so that peoples will join a newly made forum of yours?

TaylorCTU? - June 18, 2018, 6:58 pm

Seems like there's already 3-4 huge forums named nulled already.

Yeah but like I said given the time (several months) or so and if there are people who would like to work with it, it could be more alive. I'm not saying that it will succeed, but I'm just trying it out to see where it will go.

hmm, well it doesn't have a hacking section and it's not fully register to view, so I guess it shouldn't be against the rules.

Sharing a warez site in the HF showcase forum? Yeah, this will probably be trashed. Don't post this kind of garbage. The world needs fewer people like you sharing nulled scripts that developers work hard on.

But it says that you shouldn't spread warez on HF as posting download links and such, it doesn't say you can't promote site containing downloadable links into showcase.

The theme is cancer, and is also stolen.

You've also got tons of forums that are empty, not very appealing to the general people.

Red is also pretty aggressive, doesn't always workout but if you do choose to stay with red try different dark color schemes and alterations of red.

Top Contributors could use some position adjustments

Don't need VIP, you just started.

all I can think of from a glance, good luck though.

VirtualFrost - June 19, 2018, 10:12 pm

My only main issue with the site is there's absolutely nothing new with it. No new ideas and plenty who run off exactly the same layout as you've got here. I know it's a hobby which is another reason why there's no hope for it. It doesn't make you sound dedicated until it actually kicks off and that's not how all sites work. Especially since there are plenty of others out there, unless you have some unique leaks, people are just going to go to those forums where there are already thousands available over there. I just heavily dislike 'hobby project' forums because the owners never take it seriously and expect the users to do all the work in getting it going which just wastes their time when it doesn't get populated.

I don't mind the theme but it's also one I've seen plenty of times, the banner though that says "Registration is required" looks horrific, 3D looking elements don't fit at all on a flat theme.

Overall it's just conflicting to call it a hobby but also have you hoping to see people joining up to the site, and I don't really like the niche as we've all seen it come and go, there's a reason why people point it out because they very rarely take off unless you're going to spend hundreds advertising to a new crowd that aren't aware of sites like this. Hope you learn something using MyBB though and grow your skills if that's what you're trying to do.

Thanks for a suggestion, I will try to make this project alive, I mentioned this as a hobby only because I will not include ads or anything like that. Also, did a heavy edit on the theme too. Colors should be more user-friendly now.

Also, this is also my 'mid-to-advanced' progress experience with JS and PHP

Used a black theme as an example first day, now it's fully redesigned for my needs.
The forums just started takes time to populate.
I did VIP thingie so I don't have to do it later.
Yes, red is too aggressive so I did a borders coloring only.

Add Padding to a lot of elements, and get rid of most of the borders.

Gradients all over the place isn't all that appealing, try some solid colors instead.

Give the sidebar's more Width, they look smudged and cluttered.

space the breadcrumb a lil from the navigation/toplinks and the boardlist/tabs

Footer Bullet points are kinda unappealing too, remove those idek honestly its just so much wrong with that theme. I do custom themes for $50 currently if you're interested in that; <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5847105>

I know you're doing this as a hobby or whatever but, always cool to have a nice design at least.

Lol, this is HF, not quora.com. This is something like saying "you should eat more meat, farmers work really hard by growing their livestock" on vegans forum. Is every single setup/movie/song/ebook in your downloads folder purchased legally? I doubt that.

OP - good luck with forum, like many others mentioned, it will be hard on going big since there are few big ones with similar names in the market already, but I hope you succeed. I don't know whether you updated it since first posts, but it looks pretty clean and simple to me, maybe a little bit darker red would be better, but it's a choice of taste.

Actually, yes, everything on my computer was 100% paid for because I'm not broke and need to download nulled scripts. I've got a good job and don't mind supporting developers for their software or any releases. We've got a huge list of developers here on HF, how would they like their top-selling software to suddenly be on a stupid Warez Wordpress site? They wouldn't.

No shit this is HF. But, HF has rules against blackhat activity. Omniscient doesn't endorse ANY of this shit on HF.

Despite it being put down, just stay dedicated to it and worry about forming quality discussions. Users will flow in, but it will take time just don't become discouraged. From my experience, here are a few suggestions: Learn more about web design, it'll help through the journey.

If you're in the position, customize your theme so it doesn't seem so heavy with features.

Remember that it's a forum and not a site like Facebook. You don't need to be the site with all of the features, just the site with good engaging discussions.

Consider feedback, but ignore negative comments.

I wish you the best of luck!

Heh, there is a lot of traffic. For 10 days having 1.6k unique viewers a day is actually far from dead.

Code i.imgur.com/kkVr8TA.png

As for copying nothing on nulledbb is coded themselves or unique, most of the stuff is already available on the internet.

Pre-load screen by ihatetomatoes mybb avatars which are available as a plugin and i customized them on a similar way, but a different code and post background with template conditionals by zinga burga and again stylized and implemented differently.

So now can you be more specific about how I exactly 'copied' it?

2018 standars are those which I hate the most

Transparency

Lots of box shadows

A font size of 1.1+ em

and more shadows

I actually tried to follow it and it just downgrades the overall look.

As for example

preview.themeforest.net/item/h2o-action-gaming-responsive-phpbb-32-theme/full_screen_preview/21290777

This is following 2018 standards, at first, it looks cool but after looking a bit into it, you see that it's not that cool as the first time you saw it.

Some small updates.

- There are around 80 new registrations per day.
- 1000 - 3000 unique visitors per day.
- Several HF members offered to help which I really appreciate.
- Getting really big Alexa rank improvements.
- With members donations, upgraded servers to handle more traffic.

- Had to add ads for guests so we can cover the monthly cost of VPS since I didn't expect this volume of traffic.

I took a look at it and the theme looks slick, but you could do nice with a light touch. Maybe even a light version of it as many people like lighter themes rather than dark themes.

As for activity it seems to climb its way up, mostly thanks to your dedicated member Shadow. It does at some points feel a bit empty and some forum merges would do nice here, at least until you get more active members.

Donation privileges seem fine but the price is a bit steep this early consider lowering it a few bucks.

Disclaimer: I did not bother to register and may have missed some parts i couldn't see. These are the things i feel could be fixed and does not resemble a proper review.

Yeah, shadow is my friend so we both got an idea of making the board, him providing the content and I, maintaining the site.

I thought of creating a light time in the future. Actually, we have a good amount of donations to cover monthly costs for a server.

Guest access is just a 'fake' layer of a site preview. Once logged the real activity, content and functionalities pop up.

It might be overused, but we are the second biggest in just 4 months (by visits and activity) even though we are closed to the public.

PS: As for the theme I consider it complete since it follows nowadays standards.

Pretty interesting that Omni is allowing this to be advertised, whereas Doom and Oseax were saw as competition as small as we were and were disallowed.

Wonder what you did that we didn't, or what we did that you didn't.

Fascinating

Time changes what to say ?

And this is in no way related to hacking hence no competition at all.

Neither was ours yet still disallowed and yours is far more of a success than ours thus making it more ignore a threat.

Quite strange, also the niche yours is based on I don't believe is allowed either but I guess you must be the exception.

Well Anyway I don't care all that much, good luck with your forum.

A new dark theme (based on the default light theme framework) has been released.

Dark theme

Light theme

Sick. - January 8, 2019, 7:02 am

Here are some further updates.

1. A new logo to make it more unique instead of using Font Awesome + web fonts.
2. A shorter domain <https://nulled.ch>
3. Better improvements to both light and dark theme.

Any way one can get an invitation or people interested cannot at this moment?

What in the world. Why would a growing forum be invite based, not only that, but you can't view the thread listing until you're logged in. New domain is trash.

Everything I just witnessed is an absolute deterrence.

S2K - January 10, 2019, 7:38 am

Logo ripped from another forum, theme looks like a public one and not good looking, fake `most online`. They are all I found at first look

It was never supposed to be open based forum at all. With over 6000 unique visits on daily basis, it is more than enough to keep it semi-private.

As for a logo, no it is not a rip-off, because I made it myself in Illustrator 2 weeks ago and it is exclusive for Nulled Forums.

Super happy you've kept this going 6+ months, ignore hateful criticism, accept constructive* criticism and make the sure the site continues its sole purpose: discussion.

Theme colors remind me of the old MarketForums

Logo reminds me of that other Nulled forum (hence the other guys reference to it being ripped)

I'm pretty sure this Is against the rules but Omni hasn't said anything yet so everyone can go ahead and stop saying that lol.

OhKarma - January 24, 2019, 1:35 pm

Why is this thread still active? ?

realsunjester - January 24, 2019, 1:36 pm

it looks like its just a gaming forum, and why is it invite only? I'm not sure I see a point to invite only for gaming stuff. no disrespect.

Winds - January 26, 2019, 7:36 am

Good luck! Just so you know there are a lot of popular communities that are called "Nulled" so it might be confusing.

If thats the case, a name change should be done as that can get confusing tbh...

Also if its invite only, that will not help you gain people to join your forum... i dont see the point in that tbh.

Edit: For the first question, at that time, my naming inspiration was actually this site hackforums. I had no idea that there was a black market forum named Nulled.

The logo is not similar to any aspect, I have built mine based on this

Code <https://www.graphicsprings.com/logographics/gsletternnew11>

Their logo is not actually theirs, they just took it from logoground store.
