Hello, people

Do you guys have any goals in your life? Like lots of people have goals to achieve something, To be with someone or to travel somewhere, or to make your love ones happy by earning enough money. Definitely Everyone have something in mind, but do you think you're really working hard achieve it ? or just wasting time on YouTube videos, or on Social Media.

My goal in life is to live freely without any kind of disturbance whatsoever. That disturbance could be from my neighbours whispering about me coming home late, or from people at the mall looking at me weirdly because I'm wearing pyjamas etc.

I want to make sure I can afford an environment of freedom for me and my family. I don't want me or any of my family members to think twice about 'what will people say?' before doing anything perfectly normal.

For the second part of your question, I still have no plan for doing the things I stated above. Actually there were. Many. A lot. One was to become a pilot, another one was to become a judge on a reality tv show and now I'm thinking about doing something revolutionary using Python! So no fixed plan yet, but your question intrigued me. I guess I'll be working on working out a plan.

My only goal in life is hapiness. I just wanna have a nice family and if I can get it I would really love to have a boat in my life haha. I don't know why but I'm obsessed with the idea of having a boat.

And no I'm not working hard to achieve it sadly, I'm watsing time on youtube netflix and other shit like this. I'm not working much, but I'm working on a big project (not very hard tho) to begin to create my life like I dream it.

I think when i finished this year, I will begin to work hard and become the person I really want to be.

Haha it's quite idealist what I'm saying

First of all, Stop thinking what everyone else is talking about you behind your back, Be careless fuck them.

And make a goal in your life, Don't just waste your time, Everyone is working hard everyday Don't just sit and waste your time, Be responsible for yourself and for your life, We only live once.

You need to work hard, Everyone want a nice beautiful wife, But the fact is No girl will choose six pack abs over six BMW Cars

To pull through as a rapper/singer (I'm 21).

Also, to do what I love in life and be myself.
