Too short as4uif - August 5, 2010, 3:04 pm

This file is neither allocated to a Premium Account, and can therefore only be downloaded 10 times.

This limit is reached.

To download this file, the uploader either needs to upload the file again or first log in to his/her Premium Account and then upload the file again. The uploader just needs to click the delete link of the file to get further information.

Just a heads up, PDF Files can be viruses, please scan before opening.

Col2eight - August 7, 2010, 12:57 am

I scanned on novirusthanks and it came up clean. It's a short PDF and just shows one way to get your money back after you won your item. It's stupid and every effin' word is colored a different color and is typed out LiKe THiS. He could have just copied and pasted the whole thing here and just posted the source...

Edit: Here's a picture of it.

DarkShadowz - August 7, 2010, 1:22 am

I'm afraid that this exploit may definently get us into custody lol. I could do this already since I just got headphones shipped to me just yesterday, however I doubt that I will just get it off free.

pushl %ebp - August 7, 2010, 1:29 am

Wow, this is a pretty neat method. Pretty well thought out and could be hell in the wrong hands.

Roy?? - August 7, 2010, 8:29 am very nice method, i would be fuckin pissed if that was done to me though.

Rezo - August 7, 2010, 11:44 am

-Rezo

Oh, and by the way... eBay does not have anything in their infrastructure that allows them to monitor users that consistently report flags as "being suspicious." If they did, many hardcore scammers would be done for.

Rezo - September 11, 2010, 9:19 pm

Show you proof? Try it, and have $10 ready. On this forum, <http://www.nextgenupdate.com/forums/computer-lounge/191960-tut-ebay-exploit.html> they have been talking about it.

nateman2323: I did it with an autographed picture of Allen Iverson, I seen this on another site about 2 weeks ago, I received the item fine, no problems so far .

So... it looks like you are the only person on here that isn't getting free shit.

-Rezo

DeadOwnage - September 11, 2010, 11:38 pm

This method looks like it could get you into serious trouble if you did it alot.

Rezo - October 7, 2010, 7:06 pm

It works though, I've had many success stories. Can't deny the facts (although some users would like to)

-Rezo

Alan - October 7, 2010, 7:20 pm

I might try this out just to get a V for Vendetta Mask.

I quit this site - October 7, 2010, 7:57 pm

Maybe this will encourage ebay not to treat their sellers like shit.

bubadye - November 7, 2011, 5:46 am

That is ebay all over x10. Its like you walk into the store and the security guards are there to watch the checkout guy instead of the customer.

Don't know if it still works though, you'd think eBay would've cottoned on to it by now. Anyone tried it recently?

Rezo - December 5, 2011, 8:57 pm

It should still work.. not sure if anyone is going to verify it though. Good luck all.

Mpggh1 - January 21, 2012, 7:28 am

(Nov 19, 2012 08:12 AM)sam50 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Are you people out of your mind? This is about 2 years old, how is it supposed to work?

I have a working link and downloaded it ..

It does not depend on how old it is the method might work or not, personally I do not think it will work at first, if it works then only for certain items, but I think that the seller just will call eBay phone support to get things sorted ..

.Twilight. - November 28, 2012, 5:50 am

Mods should junk this thread it's pointless and blackhat... also it's old and not working for a long time so many low quality threads these days..

anatho - November 28, 2012, 8:25 am

I don't know if this works, it is kind of blackhat and if I was the seller you practiced this method on I would guarantee you that you would not get it for free

Oh boy, gotta love the gravedig.

It ain't gonna work, the author of the thread has his account closed, he can't reupload, people don't release 0day's for free seeing as how a real one can cost upwards of 1k$.
