Thread: Socialites - Recruitment #1 | A New Beginning...

Aurora - June 27, 2018, 8:34 am

A New Beginning...

OUR MISSION

Socialites' mission is to facilitate the growth of newly registered members within our community and to enhance the quality of their interactions on Hack Forums. We strive to develop real friendships and inspire the personal development and advancement of each member.

OUR USERBAR

RECRUITMENT

We are looking for active users who are an all round positive presence on this forum.

We don't look at account statistics when recruiting however we do take any negative reputation, warning level, deal disputes and scam reports into consideration when reviewing your application.

GROUP DIRECTIVE

We are aiming to be a positive presence on this forum, helping out new users and giving new users a reason to stay.

The first impression any new user gets from HF when signing up is the one that lasts. We are there to make it the best possible experience for them.

This includes but is not limited to:

- Being active in the introductions sub-forum, welcoming new users and helping them with any questions they may have.
- Interacting with new users in several ways. Every user has a reason for signing up to this forum. What we will do is get to know that reason and play into that.
- Attracting new users to this forum by posting quality content around the forum. This can be a tutorial/guide, a contest or just a fun lounge thread.

REQUIREMENTS

There are no set requirements at this time however every applicant will be reviewed to determine if they would be able to carry out the group directive and mission in one way or another.

INSTRUCTIONS

Fill out the application form found below and post it as a reply to this thread.

Why do you want to join Socialites? Was a prior member of Specialists and thoroughly enjoyed welcoming, and helping new members in the Investment Forums, as well as intermittently in the Education Nation. A Group devoted to helping, is my kind of group.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? 7-years here.. I sure hope so.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? I have made multiple threads about investing detailing different methods, as well as am currently running a resume padding service allowing users to put real work experience on their CV, from verified large companies.

Why do you want to join Socialites? Your group looks very genuine, and i would like to be part of something like that.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? Totally

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? I plan to contribute, i am working on service which will be free to everyone on this forum.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? Everyone is welcome here, so they need to feel that, you can see many users with low post count, why? Because most of the users are rude to new guys, the goal of your group is to change that.

Is there anything we can do for you? For me, its enough to be surrounded with people who have same goal as i do.

Have any additional comments? Lets change some things!

Ivex - June 27, 2018, 9:27 am

Why do you want to join Socialites? I like helping people out and sharing my knowledge and I like fancy userbars. Put these two together and you've got yourself the Socialites group. No, but, seriously having this group role would act as a further incentive for me to continue my contributions around the forum and to help other users.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? Yes, my account is a few years old now and I've got to know a lot about the forum. I also keep in touch with the rules and new announcements.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? I post a lot of free guides that have a huge number of responses and I give away things in the giveaway section from time to time. Not only that, I always make an attempt to help out in threads about mental health and things of that ilk as I feel I have a good understanding of psychology and humanity that allows me to be of assistance.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? By posting a lot of free guides, especially ones that require the user to reply to access the guide. I've had users make their first post a reply to one of my money making guides meaning I'm attracting new users. Not only do I offer free guides to new/existing users but I contribute around the forum to add high quality posts to a variety of sections which will help increase user retention.

Socialites Application

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?

Yes I would hope after the years I have been on this Forum I would be able to give constructive information or at least redirect the user/users to the correct part of the Forum.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?

I have ran many giveaways a few graphic's threads which where free for all users a couple of Podcasts aimed at teaching new users about Hack Forums with more to come and a Samaritans thread with many more to come. I can provide links If needed.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?

I would hope people listening to my Podcast may be interested In joining after hearing some members speak out about there time here. Also giving constructive criticism and helping members with there issues would make them more inclined to stay rather than being trolled.

Is there anything we can do for you?

Nothing I can think of at the moment but If I do I will be sure to let the correct person know.

Have any additional comments?

I feel I would be an excellent addition to this group I try to remain as high quality as possible. If you need any more information or links to any threads mentioned I can provide them. Thank you for the opportunity join and overlooking my application. Good luck to every one applying.

Pseudo - June 27, 2018, 10:15 am

Why do you want to join Socialites? I would like to personally join Socialites so I can partake in conversations and keep the group active. I do get bored when I answer all the threads in the lounge and then end up jumping of hackforums because of it. I want to build myself a good name and reputation within the community.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? Yes, indeed.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? I've not made much contribution to hackforums apart from sharing my knowledge in fields however I just finished serving in the military and you are able to see that in my threads.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? I'd be friendly to them, make them feel at home.

Is there anything we can do for you? Don't bully me.

Have any additional comments?Nope.

DENIZ - June 27, 2018, 1:26 pm

Why do you want to join Socialites? I want to meet new people whom I can talk about several topics. I also want to learn new things and get some help from other members.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? Yes, without a doubt.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? Other than contributing in several threads, where I helped people I have made a few threads, mainly in the Innuendo section. I will start to make Graphic design tutorials soon in the GFX subforum.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? By showing them that they can benefit from being active on HF. I would try to reach this by doing giveaways or tutorials and so on.

Is there anything we can do for you? Consider my application and take me in. ?

Have any additional comments? That's everything for now.

Why do you want to join Socialites?

I am interested in joining Socialites as I feel that a group that specializes in the new and upcoming rather than the elite and established is something that HF has been missing. This type of group is something that I have been secretly dreaming of in the forums. I would love to be a part of the process and the evident evolution of interaction through the forums.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?

Yes of course.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?

Normally, this is where someone would post threads that they have made and are proud of, but in this case I feel that my replies throughout my whole 4 years on HF can be seen as a positive contribution in terms of making those who are browsing feel welcome. Over thousands of replies and hundreds of old reps, most were about being friendly and a good person, rather than business.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?

Some activities that I have been planning to do but under a group that will support it would be forum-wide puzzles, chatrooms, and other social events that could be organized. These events could be bonding experiences that when deployed by the right group of people will be very influential to the forums as a whole.

How can we help each other on HF?

I decided to change the question of what can you do for me, to this, as having a mutualistic mindset is something that can greatly benefit the forums as well as each other. Providing a platform of support both as the receivers and the givers can benefit everyone in the group as those who put in will surely get out of it, whether it be through smiles, or new friendships. We can also focus on the betterment of those around us, rather than those that we are comfortable and friends with.

Have any additional comments?

Thank you for making a group where the direction is pushed towards the new and not the old.
Thank you for reading!

Why do you want to join Socialites?

After I read Socialites is recruiting, I'm truly interested to join since I'm a newcomer and willing to learn, In exchange I can give my loyalty, honesty and I can help with I can.

I like the idea to be part of an active community.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?

Yes sure.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?

Well, I'm the last ub3r.

I helped some users with mature comments in innuendo and health wise's forums, since I survived 2 cancers 3 years ago.

I don't have so much knowledge (in some important subjects of this forum) as others members but I'm grateful to people who helps me.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?

People who likes to be active in a community and/or want help to earn money, its the place to be. How to make them stay, helping them to avoid scammers, try to help them what they need if they truly deserve to be helped.

How can we help each other on HF?

Well each user has his own needs with some patience and true willing, its possible to help everyone with respect and honesty.

Some users only want to be part of a community, others just need help with their sites, others just need money but I truly believe in Karma.

Have any additional comments?

Thanks for the opportunity to fill a form to an official and great group.

Why do you want to join Socialites?I don't think I have a shot but here it goes, I just returned to these types of forums but I had to make a new account for HF. I got a little spare time on my hands and this group seems pretty legit reminds me of the old days.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Yes, I am very knowledgeable.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?In the past, I did a few give aways such as Liberty Reserve, accounts and leaks. Sadly I do not have any proof of this due to this being a new account.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?Just being back in the past 2 days it seems pretty easy, I plan on doing BTC give aways weekly or monthly depending on the amount. A lot has changed on this forum, everything from the past that was allowed isn't anymore so I am still trying to figure out give aways/contests that is different and fun..

Is there anything we can do for you?Not sure what everyone skills are in their private life but I wouldn't mind learning a few things, i'm pretty much open to anything if it gets my interest.

Have any additional comments?PS: This would be my first official HF group in my life. Let's do great things :D

Two-Ton 21 - July 8, 2018, 11:20 pm

Why do you want to join Socialites?Helping other members sounds like a constructive activity. I'd like to put my efforts towards strengthening the HF community.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?I'm more than familiar with the myBB forum software and I keep myself up-to-date with HF' rules.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?I've helped members with coding errors, and created plenty of free graphics.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? Rapport is super important. New members post in the wrong section all the time and get warned, which is easy to get butt hurt about. I would show them sub forums to post in so they have better interactions and overall impressions on other members instead of just calling them out.

I'd be friendly in general, interact with their threads, etc... (e.g. Introduction threads)

Socialites Application

Why do you want to join Socialites?

After a conversation with a fellow Socialites member; I determined this group might be best fit for me than others. I'm the type of person who truly does believe in the old saying "you are who you surround yourself with". I have recently decided to move onto my college campus (dorms) due to this very statement. I saw myself getting away from the goals I set in place; and took it upon myself to move forward once again. Which was quite literally a move, but determination beats laziness any day. Gotta take that risk sometimes. I enjoy being around like-minded people who are open to discussions of any form. On site or Off site topics. Its truly hard nowadays for young people, like myself, to find a a positive group online, or offline, to help further our ambitions and goals. I'm looking for a generalized group for intellectual conversation and discussion; since there isn't many other places besides the "Lounge" to do so. [/list]

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?

Yes; not the oldest member. But I do consider myself more educated than the basic user.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?

Fairly new to joining back after 2-3 years; so nothing recently. I do tend to help as much as I can in the eWhore section. Planning a few unique giveaways eWhore based soon.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?

I've recommended this forum to people even in real life; It's overall just a good place to share knowledge and conversation with others in the tech world. There's a lot of members that bash new users; so as a group I feel like we can start changing that outlook on the "elite" members in this forum. We need to realize not everyone here is as informed as one another. Treat everyone with respect that they show you.

Is there anything we can do for you?

Possibly; Help expand contacts to more community members; who aren't on here for LQ posts obviously. More knowledge is always helpful.

Have any additional comments?

Excited to await a reply; if I don't make it this round. I'll try again next time; this is defiantly something I want to be a part of.

Neta - July 20, 2018, 9:44 am

Why do you want to join Socialites?I would like to join this group as I would like to maintain a positive 'aroma' in HF, doing this alone isn't that powerful but having a group of welcoming individuals is a lot better!

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Yes I do believe so, I've browsed on the wiki and heard about it a lot before.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? Not yet, my skill set isn't huge but it is developing! I love programming and any White hat stuff/Black hat/Pen testing stuff intrigues me greatly. By saying black hat, I don't mean I am malicious, I mean the way the people that call themselves 'black hats' go about and what software they use interests me.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?Well I would probably suggest many new events and tournaments if you will. Giveaways and just general community events that everyone can enjoy! Possibly have events specializing within certain groups like a GFX making contest and so on. In my opinion getting members to the forum isn't a huge issue it's maintaining the base of people once you have it.

Is there anything we can do for you?I don't think so? I'm relatively new to HF so I'm not sure. Just new people and new experiences would be nice!

Heartboy - July 20, 2018, 11:14 am

Why do you want to join Socialites?I wish to join The Socialites because I've been apart of the forums for about 7 years now and this is one of the groups that's caught my attention from the perspective of helping out newly joined members within the community. I recall some groups doing things similar, but they usually just ended up being in it for the Sub-Forums and not actually helping any of the newer members that have graced their presence on the site. I'm a helper at heart so this group seems to fit right up my alley and would love to help newer users get accustomed to the site and help improve the quality of such members as quickly as possible or over time. After all if it wasn't for HF, I honestly wouldn't be as "HQ" as I am irl. This site taught me how to be have a bit more quality and substance as an individual.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Yes. I've had the chance to be apart of this site for several years now, so answering questions has become second nature.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? When I first joined HF, I was only a kid, but I had a great deal of influence with Basscode, lolaka and several other individuals in the Minecraft section. Over time I branched out and had made many contributions to the community by posting helpful threads and overall just being a quality member to others. My main area of exposure was in GFX, Lounge, E-Whoring, Social-Engineering (Oh how I miss those days...) Marketing & some Vice / Innuendo etc.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?As for getting members to join that's a tough one. I've recommended friends to the site for different reasons, some which have stuck and others who haven't but overall I feel my skills would lay in helping people get their barrings here and helping them with any start up questions they have. I've always been one to help newer members when available and now that we actually have an introduction section (Don't recall having one back in the day) it's become a lot easier to find and help steer newer users in the right direction. Being apart of a group that has the same interest is just the icing on the cake.

Is there anything we can do for you?In the future if someone wants to lend me some money or buy me a game during one of the Steam sales I wouldn't complain... Maybe check out my music? Lol. In all seriousness, I would just like to be apart of a group that shares similar interests and have genuine intentions in helping others throughout the community.

Have any additional comments?Love me... ?

Why do you want to join Socialites?I love to help other members and it is what I'm doing since I became a member here. Welcoming on their first introductory thread and giving some resourceful links/answers to their inquiries. I also do love the group userbar.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?I have been answering the question from newly registered member since I became a member here. You can find it in my post.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?I only posted one thread on how to prevent malware infestation in your machine. I also have one service which I make a thread design for free.

My other contribution was with my post/reply to others thread that is in need or has some questions.

Why do you want to join Socialites?I'd love to be a part of socialites, I enjoy helping new members when I can I've warned multiple members who cannot use the trust scan feature saving countless new members from being scammed, and I try my best in pointing them in the right direction.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?I've been on the forum for a little over a year I know most of the rules what to say and what not to say. I can answer pretty much anything you're allowed to do I cannot remember the last time I even received a warning on here.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?I gave away an account worth over $1,000 <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5826292>

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?Well, I've never really been good at advertising forums, especially a hacking forum lol. But I can certainly help when needed, I will point new members in the right direction to the best of my ability!

Is there anything we can do for you?Hopefully, you find my application appealing enough I know I haven't really expressed myself that much but you can trust me when I say I will try my best at engaging in this group.

Have any additional comments?Thanks for taking the time to consider this :)

Why do you want to join Socialites?I would like to join Socialites for a few reasons, and one of them is to do my best and contribute as much as i can to the group and HF.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Yes.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? Well, to be honest not any huge contribution or contest was made by me, except helping members in need with anything i could, advices, resolving similar issues from my personal experience and so on, but im planing in the future to host a few contests, help members around and contribute as much as i can to the community.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?Making them feel good here, by being friendly and always haveing a positive attitude toward any player, especially new members.. clarify their confusions and so on!

Is there anything we can do for you?Not for now, i guess.

Have any additional comments?This is all, thanks for giving us the opportunity to try and contribute/help around the community itself and the Socialities group.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?

Start by showing them what they stand to gain personally people are selfish in nature so thats always the most effective motivator.

And then show them all that they can learn and the depth of community that can (and does) exist on this website.

Is there anything we can do for you?

Maybe. I enjoy having a sense of comradery with my peers.

But some knowledge from experienced business people would be useful too ?

Have any additional comments?

Seems like a legit group. Hope I get in!

Why do you want to join Socialites?I would like to join Socialites because I have awesome people skills and Im a very positive person, and with these skills I could show new users that hackforums can be a positive and helpful,and I could help new users around the forum!

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Yes I would be able to answer general questions about HackForums

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?I have made lots of positive contritions here on hackforums I think, one was some ewhoring help regarding steps on how to do it, and one is a free website I have started to help users with instagram growth!

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?I would first try to get users to stay by offering a service such as help with maybe a project of theirs, or if they are looking for a tool or ebook I could search for them and help them find it so they could always refer to hackforums as the best place to get various tools for the correct price!, as for new members I would befriend them, why I stayed on hackforums was the fact that I made a friend or two and I enjoyed their company, especially since I had high social anxiety and well they helped me over come that so I could be more social and of course, friendly!

Why do you want to join Socialites?I want to join Socialites because I feel like it is a rare environment that has a lot to offer in regards to diversity of backgrounds and people. I enjoy the format in which the recruitment process is being handled and feel like it'll allow for people of many kinds to learn, educate, work, and/or chat together.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Of course, I've been fairly active (with some time away in the past) over the past 5 years and have enjoyed every bit of it.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?If I'm honest, it's been a while! However, I used to do a few social media services & random giveaways, I'll link them below-<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5218012>

RsVace - July 31, 2018, 8:19 pm

Why do you want to join Socialites?I have been in a group of users on a different forum before and the experience was amazing. I was taught many different things and the community feel to it was really helpful. I want to join Socialites because I want that intriguing feeling in learning from others and having social interactions again would be of great benefit to me as a person.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? Yes I would. I have been a lurker on this forums for quite some time but I thought it is finally time to actually join the community.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? I have not made any contributions on hack forums for mostly I am a new member. The only interactions that is hack forums related are the one I have with Vyrez family and that is over discord.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? Group events and building more personal relationships with people on the forums. Another idea would be to teach them the ins and outs of how to use the tools of Hackforums to make a profit and have the most benefit of being in a forum.

Is there anything we can do for you? Help me fully experience the ins and outs of a group. Teach me things I don't know and give me that reminiscent feeling of being part of a community.

Have any additional comments? Nothing in particular.

hash - August 3, 2018, 4:35 am

Why do you want to join Socialites? A community is what holds this forum together. But why me, I'm brand new. As an active member on multiple forums in the past I enjoy welcoming people and get to know them. I joined HackForums to share my passion about programming (real life expertise) and business (hotel expertise). With knowledge and experience in social interaction, running a business and computer related stuff I think I am a qualified candidate. What do I give back to Socialites? Through the years I gained knowledge in multiple fields. I will be writing guides soon if I see people frequently having the same problems. But what will those be about? Running a business (hotel, restaurant)

Programming (Java, React, Node, C# (a bit), IoT (AWS and Azure))

How to interact with customers, harder than most people think

Investing (Tech stocks)

Doxing since I would like to see the private investigation sub more active

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? Yes, feel free to ask any questions.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? My previous account (~3 years ago) was both Ub3r and in Instinct. That account is marked as hacked (staff knows about it). At the time I was really active in the signature market. Made a lot of signatures and avatars for members. Since my interest switched a lot I don't do that anymore. For a more detailed explanation about this please contact me. I want to focus on making multiple guides. Currently scanning what people are missing, will probably start making a Java(script) guide since I see so many redundant questions over and over. Right now I'm mainly answering questions regarding programming and business.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? Greeting new members and making them feel part of the community is key to make them stay. Trying to guide them towards certain subs and replying to their share as well. Posting quality content and replying in a serious way is key for me.

Is there anything we can do for you? Would love to hear your view on keeping members active.

Have any additional comments? Although I am 'new' I would love to talk about this application and hopefully join as well. I wish you the best of luck with finding members that are qualified!

Why do you want to join Socialites? It would be my first group, therefore I'd be able to spend a lot of time helping the group grow and practicing the values of the group.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? Yes, I can answer basic questions. If not, I know how to use the Help Docs ;)

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? Yes, I believe so. I've shared lots of value with various members privately, also have purchased things from members to encourage a healthy HF economy, and I'm currently doing a giveaway (plan to do many more in the future).

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? I already link to HF threads on other platforms. Since joining last year, I've grown to love this forum! I want to share my love and passion with new members to help the community grow and prosper.

Is there anything we can do for you? No, thank you. What can I do for you?

Have any additional comments? Thank you for your consideration!

dvlpr - August 6, 2018, 1:55 pm

Why do you want to join Socialites? Since I have joined, I have practiced adding a professional vibe to the HF community. Joining a group will only leverage my account here on HF and deliver a more professional response.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? I am familiar with all the rules, sections, and the ins/outs of the marketplace.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? I am most active in the hacking section. I generally am posting in the beginner or request subforums. I am most noted for educating new users on the moral/ethical paths they take when trying to hack accounts. I am law-educated so I always like to drop some blurb when they request a (not-allowed) blackhat activity. I am also always educating users that HackForums is more than what the face value of its name reads. I show users that the hacking sections are a platform for education, not a place where I am going to sell you access to your girlfriend's Instagram. [\[Exhibit A\]](#) [\[Exhibit B\]](#) [\[Exhibit C\]](#) [\[Exhibit D\]](#) I have even received a few posts of gratitude, as you can see here [\[Exhibit A\]](#) [\[Exhibit B\]](#)

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? Unlike most shit posters here on HF, I usually take the time to answer the most asked "how do I start" thread. It is the first post that makes users comfortable within a community. When it's my professional post, versus someone's shit post, they usually feel a little bit more at ease when they realize not everyone is a dick. [\[Exhibit A\]](#)

Is there anything we can do for you? Yes, you can help me continue to build my profile here on HF and make it more professional. It has been my mission to grow my profile on HF and build a network of like-minded enthusiasts. I have already partnered with two individuals I met through the course of my HF posts.

Have any additional comments? Take a scroll through some of my posts and you will see what type of activity I share here on HF. You can learn more about me personally here.

Why do you want to join Socialites?Although ive only been here a smaller amount of time than most respected members I love the community and what it has to offer with a wide selection of everthing to tailor to peoples individual need's. I think the Idea of the Socialites group is awesome we need to help and welcome new members its what will keep this community strong and here for the future.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Honestly yes I will admit in certain areas like Crypto im not the most knowledgeable but ive only but time to learn everything.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? Personally speaking I am a big user of the Ewhore section on this fourm, ive helped quite a lot of new members getting started out supplying them the sources they need to get started, I just wrong a full guide for new members in the section itself which is having a lot of good positive feedback from old and new members which feels awesome to know hard work pays off.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5872647>

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?As awesome as this forum is we do have members who are not willing to help new users out or give them 5 minutes out of there day to guide them in the correct direction or even answer a few simple questions they may have. I believe everyone is equal a post count or a join date is irrelevant to me, a person is a person. this fourm is filled with countless amounts of amazing information. and by letting others experience this only makes us as a community stronger.

Is there anything we can do for you?just keep being awesome & growing and making our community strong and bigger!

Why do you want to join Socialites?Sounds like a genuine and welcoming group that I'd love to be a part of. I like the mission, and I would more than like to be a part of it while representing Socialites.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Yes definitely.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? I've made a single giveaway which was free Youtube intros (still running). Other that I try to answer questions all across the forum.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?A key to make them stay is to make them feel comfortable. Teaching them about the forum, sections, Staff team, reputation systems etc. Make them feel like they are ready to let loose.

Is there anything we can do for you?Well, I certainly hope I get considered although I'm no upgraded member or someone big on the forum yet.

Have any additional comments?I spent between 2 and 3 minutes writing this application. Rather short and honest than long and filled with empty words. Thanks in advance.

Don Vito Corleone - August 13, 2018, 8:02 pm

Why do you want to join Socialites?I'm all about positive presence towards everyone, mainly what I'm trying to do is help people in the PHP subforum since I'm a (junior) PHP dev and that's what I can help people with the most. You can check out my posts or the links below. I'm also actively involved in currency trading (BTC and PP) and I'm loving the new B-rating and contract system for checking someones previous deals.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? Yes I would, I've been reading many subforums and I've got a good understanding of the marketplace.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?

Mostly in the PHP section in terms of actually helping people out:

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? Not sure about getting new people to the forum But I'm trying to help people out whenever I've got the knowledge to do so. This means mostly PHP / front-end coding (in the sub-forum) or even small gfx work.

Is there anything we can do for you? Accept me into your friendly sub-forum.

Have any additional comments? Nothing I can think of.

Why do you want to join Socialites? This place is filled with bad people and good people, but mostly the good ones, i want to join a group to seem more HQ and help this community however I can.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? Definitely, it's been only few days since I've joined this forums and I've already read the Help Docs twice!

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? I do free graphics for people who need it, and I will try to expand my work here.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? I've always been friendly to both people, non-upgraded and upgraded, and I'll do anything to make em stay, already helped bunch of nonupgraded people in the requests section too.

Is there anything we can do for you? As of now? Not really, nothing other than adding me to the group I guess, haha!

Have any additional comments? Acceptance/Rejection won't change my views about HF, I love to stay here and contribute and I will continue to do that no matter what.

Not only will it give me a reason to post more on the forum, but as a high-quality member, it will also entice a good impression of the group.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?

Yes, I will respond with answers that are reasonable. There will be some questions that I have more knowledge to, compared to the others.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?
Although these weren't impactful as I wish they would've been, I would still like to count them as positive contributions to the community.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?

Ensure that this forum isn't like others and that they will enjoy it as this forum has sections and sub-section that will lure them in the forum more.

The reason for this would be mostly due to our fellow members of the community.

If any of the new members or invitees are having trouble with anything, they can resort to me to help them out.

Is there anything we can do for you?

I would just like to have an opportunity of enjoying the group as it is and embracing it.

Have any additional comments?

I do not have anything else to add.

RAT - August 15, 2018, 3:56 am

Why do you want to join Socialites? To help new members become a part of our community. I can clearly remember the reason behind my initial involvement & activity back in 08' was triggered by another member who was very helpful & showed me the way around @HF. There were many douchebags & trolls, but a few great members were enough to throw me in the right direction. So yeah, that's probably the main reason - to help new members feel like at home.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Of course.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? Quite a few giveaways in the very past. Recently the Shopify giveaway & the giveaway of HF L33t. I have also helped people the best way I can. One has to reach up to me if his/her is in need of any help (if in any case, I am not there to offer it).

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?By being the way I am, positive & helpful. Show them around, help them with different problems. Promote most interesting things for them (can be derived from the things they say they're interested in).

Is there anything we can do for you?Let me broaden my ways of helping others - so the whole community can be a better place for us all.

Have any additional comments?There is no exercise better for the heart than reaching down and lifting people up

Why do you want to join Socialites?I am often helping out new members already on the forum, so why not add a really high-quality userbar, and the fact that my step-dad Vamure is in the group?

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Yes, of course. I have only been a member since early 2018, however, I have been quite active on the forum in general.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?In my opinion, I have made a decent amount of contributions, to where it will seem like spam to list them all. I have made plenty of contributions, from helping fellow members, loaning users money, free e-book releases, quality marketplace threads, quality and hot lounge discussions, which can all be seen from my posts and threads. ?

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?Currently, on occasion, I will post replies to the introduction threads, with some information, a warm welcome, and an offering to ask me at any time for assistance.

Is there anything we can do for you?Besides considering this application, I cannot think of anything else.

Have any additional comments?If you couldn't tell by the first section, Vamure referred me, seems like a great group you have going here! ?

Lithe - August 20, 2018, 8:00 am

Why do you want to join Socialites?Most of the members I've seen in this group seem helpful around the forum.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?With how long I've been here I would hope so.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? Under the username "Doxxie" I've hosted 2 membership giveaways as well as a free GFX request thread. Nowadays I'm primarily in SRPP. Aside from this I've tried to just be generally helpful around the forums.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?Create a fairly welcoming environment. Post in lounge quite a bit more since a lot of new members tend to gravitate there.

Is there anything we can do for you?Nothing that I personally need right now.

Have any additional comments?Nope

Why do you want to join Socialites?I want to join to learn more and to have a space to share ideas with other members.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Yes, for sure.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?I have created signatures and threads for many people. Soon, I will start posting tutorials and creating more GFX soon.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?Educate them and help them. I strongly believe in helping people and teaching them new ways of things.

Is there anything we can do for you?Let me share my ideas with your group.

Have any additional comments?I hope you consider my application, that's all.

Why do you want to join Socialites?I would like to connect with a much larger base here on hackforums and i feel by entering myself into as many social circles as possible i can hit as many people as possible

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Of course i feel like with the years here i can most definitively answer anything about the forum

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? Everyone can list off positive threads and giveaways for a sense of validation every post i hope to at least help one user with my response then i see it as a positive contribution if its not positive i wont post

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?Make it worth staying which i have to say is why i came back hackforums has and is always improving on the daily eg bytes i can see a big area for grasping peoples attention and it can have so many positive implications that will bring business back to hackforums, i feel like hackforums is what you make of it. If you are here to make friends join a group if you are here to make money start a business, if you are here to learn something new find the section and go nuts, Everyone on hackforums is so helpful at a time you really need we just need to promote new users to ask for help where they need.

Why do you want to join Socialites?text here As a new member here on HF, I am commonly overlooked as I have no stats to back my credibility. I feel joining a group could boost my greatly boost my credibility as a member. As corny as this may sound, but a new member on HF doesn't always have the broadest spectrum of friends on the forum. I feel joining Socialites would help me, as a new member, meet some cool people around the forum, and hopefully open some doors for me on the site.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?text here Yes, although I am new, before I actually started posting, I was still quite active scrolling through the site. I have investigated each sub-forum thoroughly.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? text here Unfortunately, I haven't made many contributions to the site yet. Besides responding to some threads with answers to their questions, I haven't had much opportunity to help the community. Though I haven't really contributed to HF, I was inspired by the 'Code' sub-forum to start learning Python, and hopefully in the coming months, I'll be able to create some useful programs, which I plan to release for free to the forum!

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?text here I would show them exactly why I joined HF and why I plan to stay. I'd tell them that there are a plethora of helpful members on HF, but also warn them not everyone on the site is trustworthy. I would also point out that with the variety of sub-forums, there is at least one they will for sure enjoy if they explore deep enough. I'd definitely direct them to the giveaway section as a fun starting point.

Is there anything we can do for you?text here Consider my application despite my lack of a great rep on the site, and lack of contributions to the site.

Have any additional comments?

Nope.text here

Why do you want to join Socialites?I won't hide the fact, that this group is indeed of high quality. I am friendly and I would love to help other new members around this forum not to feel like so-called "noobs". I also experience myself in malware analysis, so it wouldn't be a problem if someone needed any help with their infected computer. That's why I think I am a good fit for this group.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Definitely. I'm here since May and I know the rules on this forum. I've read all the Help Docs and I'm an upgraded member, so you can tell I have gained some experience here.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? Yes, for sure. I have distributed my method for getting unlimited phone numbers for simple stuff like account verifications. You can see the full thread here:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5877261>

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?I won't be rude to them and if they do something wrong, I'll kindly explain it to them. I was new too and I know that feeling. I believe they need more care and attention so that they can assimilate themselves into our community. I'll also welcome new members in the Introductions section. I believe they will be satisfied that someone is paying attention to them, which can lead them to stay here.

Is there anything we can do for you?Not at all. Considering my application would be much appreciated.

Have any additional comments?Thanks for your time reading my application ?

Why do you want to join Socialites?I'm interested in getting to know the people in the group better and not just helping new members but really all members that have any problems or issues with anything at all I'm already in Samaritans and we have similar goals in just being positive and trying to help others out.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?yeah I could answer many different questions about the forum to the best of my knowledge if I don't know something I may do a bit of research or ask another mate out and then answer the question after I find out what the answer is.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? yeah I have done a few giveaways and helped users with all kinds of questions onsite and offsite and I'm planning on doing plenty more.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?just try to stay positive and help people to the best of my ability and try to make hf seem like a good place to be.

Is there anything we can do for you?I'd just be happy to join the group.

Have any additional comments?just interested in joining to help others out meet some new people and also because I have a few friends in the group.

Why do you want to join Socialites? I would like more presence in the community, as well as an opportunity to meet members and get my name out.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? Indeed

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? I've sold a few ebooks on social media, garrys mod, and I also ran a small service for disabling FB accounts

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? I would encourage current members to not give up, and keep trying at whatever is making them feel like quitting. And for future members, I would try to help them start up and services etc they may need help with.

Is there anything we can do for you? Consider my application <3

Have any additional comments? As of now, no.

Why do you want to join Socialites?Because the last group I was in was very toxic and now I'm looking for a group that is serious.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Usually I am able to but I don't.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?
No, I am usually not very active on HF.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?Make sure they feel like they are contributing and that they feel trusted.

Is there anything we can do for you?Just help me out here and there, let me contribute and not make fun of me for my mildly young age/.

Have any additional comments?Hope to get in the group. If you want to ask any other questions DM me on Discord : VZIP#4015

Why do you want to join Socialites?I like to chat and interact with new people.

I think being in an interesting group will help me to grow as an individual and contribute something back to the group.

Interacting and helping others is something I like and want to do.

I'll get an opportunity to contribute something to HackForums

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Yes, in fact I will love to do so.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?
This is currently on my bucket list as I haven't been here for more than a week. But I'll try my level best to do so.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?I'll provide shoutouts to this forum by promoting it on different social media platforms like reddit, twiter, instagram and quora.

And in order to keep them engaged to HF. I'll try to help and guide the beginners.

I am planning to write a quick guide/FAQ for the new members to get a hold on the workings here.

Is there anything we can do for you?I'll love to hear feedback/criticism towards my application

Have any additional comments?I like to post smilies ?

Why do you want to join Socialites?New members is great, but new members who stay and get the help they need and the knowledge they need to stay and be an active member of the forum is what keeps it alive, new members means more threads and more posts, having a group who's soul purpose is to better the new members and give them the tools and help they need on here will help reduce spam posts, posts in the wrong areas and just help the forum as a hole be better, the Socialites mission statement is what I've lived off since I joined the forum.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Yes I would, have read Help Docs a couple times and refer to them often

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?
Other than upgrading, I have in the past greeted new members, and given them options to message me if help was needed

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?Greeting the new members, offering them help if needed, and pointing them in the right direction in my opinion is the best was to keep members, as for the recruitment to the forum I'm not really in many other social media groups or forums so other than the I've had join from Xbox live I'm not to sure how I would get new members, but am sure I could get some ideas from others in the group if accepted

Is there anything we can do for you?Not that I can think of!

Have any additional comments?Was a part of the group before it was sold here a couple moths or so ago, liked the people, love the idea of the group as well!

Why do you want to join Socialites?Seems like a respectable group to be in, all the members I've seen in the group have been super friendly around the forums and just seem chill.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Yes of course I can, I've been on the site since 2011, and even tho you can't see it in my post count I'm always lurkin.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?I try to add positivity and guidance around the forums at all times really. I think this is a great forum and it's just a nice feeling helping random people with whatever it is they have going on in their day to day life.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?Of course I would the expansion of the site is already going so well but I feel we need to focus on getting them to stay longer than just a month or two. I feel like a good portion of it might be to how a lot of non upgraded members are treated, scammed, and what not but I think it's important we treat all members on this site with respect so we can have a growing, sustainable community for years to come.

Is there anything we can do for you?Not really, this application is a shot in the dark.

Have any additional comments?Just wanna meet some new peeps and joining groups seems like the best way to do it on this site, good luck to everyone that applies!

Business - September 22, 2018, 3:22 pm

Why do you want to join Socialites? I really like the idea of helping new members grow. When a new member gets a warm welcome and finds what they came here for, they stay. A group dedicated to giving users the best possible experience throughout the community sounds like a great idea. So in short, the main reason I want to join is because I believe in what you're doing and think it will leave a positive impact on our community.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum? Definitely. Hack Forums has been in my life for a very long time. I always try to stay up on the HF News, and make a point of rereading the Help Docs from time to time so I am up to date on the newest changes.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? My start here on HF was all about helping others. I was very active in the RAT Section, where I posted numerous tutorials, help desks, and demo videos that reached into 20-40 pages of comments. This resulted in my helping of over one thousand users. I was given the RAT Expert award for my efforts. Besides helping in fields I am knowledgeable in, I try to help all users as best as I can. Other contributions include product giveaways, group activity, site donations, the list goes on. Here is a list of some of my most popular threads in terms of helping the community:

Spoiler (Click to View)

RAT Expert | Best Help Desk | Answer All Questions | Team Viewer Support \(125 pages of helping users\)

[Have RAT Questions? ASK ME! \[Experienced\] \[Free\] \(40 pages of helping users\)](#)

Official jRAT Setup Tutorial | Port Forwarding | Noob Friendly | Troubleshooting

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? Often times people see new users post threads that are...well... lackluster. This usually results in the newer member getting neg repped and hated on. We have to understand that this may be their first time on ANY FORUM. Our goal should be to help them learn to post better quality threads so that they can get the most out of their HF experience. I would accomplish this by being active throughout the site, welcoming members and getting to know them a bit. This would center mainly around Introductions and Lounge, and branch into the rest of the site. I would be very interested in brainstorming with the group to figure out what sort of threads/activities we could come up with to encourage new members to stick around. However, getting a member to stay doesn't have to include a grand gesture. Simply writing a welcome PM or throwing a few Bytes their way accompanied by a positive note could give someone a great first impression of the community.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay? The only two things I could ask of you is to work with me to leave a positive impact on the community, and to try to get to know me better. The closer the group members get, the greater your impact will be! Working together is always better.

Final Note: Thank you for the opportunity to apply for your group! It's nice to see a group focused around helping members throughout the community, not just it's own members. Best of luck to everyone applying! If you have any further questions, my inbox is always open!

Pledge - September 26, 2018, 9:54 am

Why do you want to join Socialites?I would like to join Socialites because I have no life outside of the Internet, the people I talk to online are the only people I talk to in life, I would love to get a chance to be apart of something that doesn't just involve making money, hacking, and gaming. A few things I can say about myself is, I am always brutally honest with everyone, I don't rob, steal or cheat people, I have been called the most genuine person someone has ever met more then a few times. I like to help others if they aren't feeling to well, or if they're just having a bad day, or some bad luck, I have talked multiple people OUT of committing suicide even people I barely knew, or did not know at all. I actually give a shit about quality of things in general, I never follow trends or try to emulate what someone else has started. This group seems to be the most fitting for myself, I don't normally ask to join groups, but The Socialites really caught my attention. Thank You.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?Yes, I believe so, I'm not an expert on ToS and i'm not currently updated on all the new rules they recently added, but I have been a member of Hack Forums for a Long time now and I pretty much know the ins, and outs of the forum.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it?I offer my help to people in the Vices section about what drugs SWIM shouldn't do, I have also shared my knowledge about cryptocurrency and trading a few times, I Upgraded to L33T then UB3R (obviously lol) I don't have a lot of money ill admit, but I would give you the shirt off my back if I could.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?First off, I would explain to them what NOT to do, because more or less once you do something wrong or against the rules on this forum, your reputation as a member is automatically frowned upon and nobody will trust you in future dealings, I would try to explain to them that they need to be patient on here, don't get jealous of other members "fancy" Userbars, Awards, and so on, the people that have those kind of Profiles on the forums dedicated A LOT of time, effort and especially money, Donations never hurt either if you want to up your coinage on here. I would also make it a point to NEVER SCAM anyone on here

Is there anything we can do for you?The only thing I would ask of your community is that you give me a chance to become a part of your community.

Have any additional comments?Like I mentioned in my first paragraph, I'm not the kind of person that feeds off of attention and envy, I just want to be a part of a group of people that I can not only relate to, but learn from, and teach any and all information I have in my tool box. Thank you for taking the time to read and review my application.

Why do you want to join Socialites?I would like to join socialites because it would give me a purpose to become a lot more active and interactive on the forum.

Would you be able to answer general questions about this forum?I would try and be as helpful as I could.

Have you made positive contributions Hack Forums community in the past, and if so what was it? Only one giveaway so far, made a lot of good friends.

How would you try to get people to this forum/make new members stay?Comment on their threads, let them know they're apart of this forum just like everyone else is.

Is there anything we can do for you?Not really but I like what you do as a group.

Have any additional comments?No
