Thread: Sending message to phone numbers

Roberto Scorpius Malfoy - July 9, 2018, 9:40 pm

I remember that I could use textnow.com to text to different phones without paying, do you guys know a similar website that offer the same thing?

I wanna send out text messages to pepole in Sweden.

I can use website that requires me to pay so please can you tell me a good website I can use for that?

Are you looking for a website that you can use to send text messages for free or are you looking for a paid service?

The first option, if it was a paid service I would have put this thread on the marketplace :P

Back in the day a lot of mobile phone network operators would allow customers to receive messages in the form of email, most mobile networks no longer support this feature due to people sending messages for free and email SMS bombers.

Also OP this thread is in the wrong forum.

So there is no website that offer this kind of service? I am willing to buy a subscription on the website if that requires.

For some reason I am unable to create an account, thats so weird.

It worked now, however I am unable to send messages I can only make phonecalls?

Twilio is made for developers, but you might be able to send messages to Sweden from their console. It's like $0.010 for a text (To a U.S. number, atleast)

Is a custom sender ID required?
