Well I don't care even to lose my time with your shitty service those builders are all over in public and you can't do anything your doc builder is caught almost from every antivirus. So have a nice day and keep the money. It's not about the money it's just people will lose time like me and at the end it doesn't work.

Also when you create xls file it gets back .doc I can assure everyone here that your service is a kid service.

I think you should post some info here and not send us to contact support macros aren't exploits.

1. contradiction on the title.
2. you require victims/users to allow macros on the doc file, which basically has to be put on the thread, its basically a dependency which should be noted clearly. = execution rate 2%.
3. you hide behind a cheap price but in reality 100$ a month, save up for 2 months and buy yourself a decent working and actual exploit!

How come no customer wants to vouch for the product?
Even the seller has refused to give us update.
They're always quick to sell, buy slow to give updates and reFUDs

There is plenty of vouches to whoever said this. Look on first page, also look at old thread for even more vouches.

If you have issue with FUD rate. PM me.

No Sir. ! the doc is fud but the exe is simply executed. So whatever the detection rate is, that remains.

Well, it will last for days depending on who you spread it to, etc.

I'm not expert in Infections but I'd assume it won't be FUD for too long if someone tries to upload it to virustotal etc,

The file will get checked, then marked as a virus. I kind of like this tho, never actually have used RATs before or anything related to malware but this with good social engineering skills, and the proper ways to get mass infections would be GOLD. Will make sure to use this in the future. ?

You're right. Good social engineering and a method of infection are needed for work.

No no. You crypt your exe file and upload it to a direct download link. You build your doc and use that download link in the builder.

Builder is done by you, on site.

Really? Open .doc, click enable content and it executes. Some macros will make you to click again and again before it can execute.

Again in some silent exploit, you must enable editing before it can execute, similar to this case.

If not that and what i used to know, best of luck to you guys.

My Honest Review

I bought a build for $10

Maybe my screen resolution is different than others. I filled in the details on the website and pressed the build button and waited for a while. It LOOKED like nothing happened so I pressed the Build button again. Just then I scrolled back up the page and seen a download section. Unfortunately it said my download was already used. So I said OK i fucked up by pressing the build button twice I just need to contact there support even though you would think there was be an option in their website to download the last build.

Oh know bloody discord support bunch of kids and I can't find the user for support.
So i add him in jabber, almost 2 days no acceptance, tried sending a message he seems offline.

So I emailed the fella Othella about my problem, Waited a full day for a response and this guy gives me the most retarded answer "You pressed build twice without downloading your file. That is why it did not work."

Obviosly I figured that out by now. Coudn't you just refill my credit or give me a link to download my Build. Or you just decided to take my money because I pressed the Build button twice.

Maybe the exploit works. I payed for it but I have no idea.

There you are, sorry if you got an honest review because people are afraid to give an honest review on here. Because there are so many ass buddys that kiss each others ass.

My review. I bought the exploit, I still don't know if it works. But Othello support is the worst support I have experienced in 5 years after buying something.

Why did you even answer my email if you were going to be absolutely no help at all?

Thanks for taking my $10 guys and wasting my time. Learn how to fix a f* problem or add an option to download the builded document even if somebody presses the button by mistake.

Did you not realize everyone has a different screen resolution and sometimes an internet connection problem happens. It does not say anywhere you need to scroll up the page to find your build.

Angry customer. Waiting so long for support to answer and got a half assed answer that solved nothing. Utterly Disgracfull

Yes, I agree with that, the same thing happened to me.

It was never FUD for the whole month and I never used it in the end, the developer did not have time to refud it, he was learning for exams. And the error on the runtime was all the time (link was supposedly the problem, but I lost a lot of hours and tried a lot of links).

And I don't agree that he is an idiot, he was nice and always responded to PM.

So I don't recommend this product at all, spare some money and buy something better.

EDIT: So after I wrote this honest review, he wrote this to me. This is not a way to treat old and new customers.

WD kinda detects it as well as Eset, overall its a really really good macro exploit. Please is there a way to get WD of the list of AVs that detect it?

5sparrow - November 24, 2018, 2:58 am

Hi, bro/ How long will this project exist?

carnegie32 - November 24, 2018, 4:02 pm macro exploit is being detected by av!

moneyscammer - November 27, 2018, 10:38 am detected with win defender, that's the main problem

Always a lot of detection (Min 5). Bad product. Working, but every day detected moneyscammer - November 28, 2018, 1:09 pm

the doc has 6 detections, including Win defender
so this product is useless, don't waste your money

What's up man. Must say I'm pretty interested in buying. Had 2 questions tho, is it just a macro builder or a silent exploit? (title says exe - > doc). And if it's just a macro, can you recommend any websites to use to host the executable file on?

Thanks in advance!
