Thread: r00t Now Live

Omniscient - July 19, 2018, 10:47 pm

The r00t group is now purchasable from the upgrade page. Price is $50.

<https://hackforums.net/upgrade.php>

Only L33t who meet the requirements can upgrade into the group.

Current requirements are:

100+ reputation

250+ posts

90 days registered

Ub3r and other r00t may gift upgrade L33t members too.

Please note that I still have a lot of work to do so that all permissions and settings are correct for the upgrade group. It should be done this weekend but don't fret if you upgrade and get a permission rejection in the next 48 hours. r00t will have all permissions that ub3r do as well as some additional permissions.

Hopefully all my logic for the upgrade is correct but if you come across a bug please PM me asap. I tested as extensively as I could but you never know.

Thank you.

Very reasonable I believe. The math comes out to 2.7 or 3 posts a day for 90 days. If you decide to reduce any of the 3, I'd say the days down to 60 days but probably best to keep the post requirement at 250+. 60 days is 4 posts a day which is very doable and what most active members do anyways.

I actually think it's fine, makes it atleast a little bit difficult. It also gives new user some excitement to get it.

It's quite reasonable honestly. 90 days isn't that long (gives a member a lot of time to realize whether they appreciate HF or not to donate). The 250+ posts just means they're at least dedicated to the forum.

Is it disappointing that r00t gets more permissions than ub3r or is it disappointing that YOU don't get those extra permissions? Honestly, the permissions we (ub3rs) have now are plenty.

Correct the permissions we (ub3rs) have are just fine.

I fact if (ub3rs) didn't cry so much back when the rep reset was done we

I do have one question. One of the features of r00t is "Additional private support for site problems". Is this just meant in general, for when they contact staff, or will they get their own support section like ub3r had in the past?

I think you should let Steve get r00t. He is very angry that he cannot start a new row with a diamond.

Perhaps $75 for ub3r's to upgrade to r00t?

Not true. Primary group can technically be changed, don't think Omni wants this though. They are both primary groups sure, but can be made secondary groups on any given user without affecting the actual groups themselves.

And he was saying to replace. ?

Ah, I just got this from what i read on the announcement post

I suppose R3KT would be a primary group also? To be honest I like that fact that UB3R will start to become "rare" once people start upgrading to r00t. Do you know if leaving the UB3R group will allow then to join r00t?

That's a kick in the balls.

Although I personally do not care that much to other UB3Rs who do care I can see it being unfair to them considering they are locked into UB3R and cannot purchase R00T from what I have read previously.

Weird comparison but...

It's like a person buys a Samsung Galaxy S9 which is an alright phone but then the Galaxy s10 releases with more features and only new people are allowed to purchase the s10 and s9 owners are forbidden to purchase the s10, if that was the case then eventually you might see people switch to an alternative company in this case the Iphone.

At the moment, it's said that there will be changes soon. Of course, naturally, there will be a lot of additions in the future as Omniscient continues to develop this usergroup.

I assume that he is only giving them permissions which he has tested to be secure so far, and will need to test any additional permissions before adding, but wanted to get the usergroup live (just a speculation).

Actually I think it's great. It gives newer users something to work towards. Something the older users can't instantly get. That's what makes it special and stimulates site activity for new users. If you think about it, this is a really smart decision.

Because I don't think the data would line up.

If I had to guess, I'd say there are more Ub3rs (not total, but active) that contribute to the site than there are normals+leets (under, what, 2k posts that weren't denied Ub3r?) who do.

Contribute is a broad term, but for the sake of this argument let's just say posts in public forums within the most recent 10 pages.

Edit: you just gave me a weekend project.

Time to get scrapping with the API.

I don't understand what that data would tell you though. That's like saying we shouldn't teach teens to drive, because only adults are drivers.

What I'm trying to say is, of course upgraded users generally contribute more, but this is because they are the members that are sticking around. Don't forget, we were all once new and un-upgraded users. Personally I was pretty much ghosting the forum once every few weeks for the first year after I signed up here.

Just because new members haven't contributed a lot just yet, does not mean they won't be very active in the future. We should encourage them to be, which is what r00t is doing. If they start being active now they'll get something older users can't get. That's special.

Btw, if you run those statistics I do think you'll see that the majority of ub3rs aren't that active & contributing a lot either.

Omniscient - July 20, 2018, 2:28 pm

I don't think activity is exclusive to ub3r. Judging by the Online list you can see a solid range of l33t, ub3r and regular members.

@xadamxk, I don't get what you're trying to accomplish or prove.

Ub3r will not be the future of this forum. Do you know how I can predict that? Because I'm going to make it so that it's true. You don't have to like it or agree with it to understand you can't stop it. I'm intentionally killing Ub3r group. It might be a slow painful death too. In 2-3 years I'll be shocked if even 10% of the online list is Ub3r.

So just to clarify something, will the R3KT group still exist? I don't really mind any of the new permissions for R00T but just wanted to get the award and the new name color is awesome. I understand why because some UB3Rs do flash around their group like its some proof of their intelligence but for UB3Rs that don't do that and are respectful/helpful members it would be nice to still have something to work for. Like I said, I support the changes but it would be cool if we could just purchase the award or possibly just a username color change.

The more I see you comment regarding Ub3r changes and making us feel obsolete, the happier I get. There has been an Ub3r entitlement ever since I've been here. If there's anything that can make us feel more normal and less egotistical, R00t seems to be the way to go. I'm excited for more changes. It's special because it's still new, and I'm sure that there will be a noticeable activity spike because of r00t's requirements, but I just don't see the advantage of making it exclusive to new members, especially in the long run. I doubt that any new member would buy it just because old members cannot obtain it.

I'd like to ask for you to clarify if you may please.

I'd like to say without sounding like an asskisser (which ofc I will) I like a lot of the changes, but I also don't like some of them, either way I'll be using the site because I love the core of what it is.

Me, personally, think that you are right in some respects (my opinion doesn't matter but just please know I'm not trying to be an asshole), that Ub3r is not the future of this site, personally I don't think any user group should be the future of any site though, and that killing off the usergroup makes no sense to me, which is why I ask for clarification into you saying you're intentionally killing it. While false privilege is obviously retarded and you have every right to fuck them over for boasting it, I don't think Ub3r should suffer for this as a whole.

Not being able to view bans is whatever, I could give a fuck less honestly, but with the lottery creation and the fact that we won't be able to contribute to making these new features a bigger part of the community honestly sucks. Because me personally, would like to support this site as much as I can (I would with money but I haven't got any lol) by promoting these features, and as I'm sure more features will come, I would really hope you could let us help in them thriving and not becoming some forgotten gimmick (Using that term not in a bad way hope you understand).

Am I stepping on eggshells while writing this? Fuck yeah I am, I don't want to get closed, and by no means am I trying to defy you or hate on your site, because as I said I'll be using it no matter what changes you make, but I just thought maybe I could voice my opinion in a constructive way. I haven't been here super long and I didn't pay for my upgrades so I will never know the importance of what I say truly but all I'm really saying is this, if you wouldn't want to read this thing:

TL;DR: Me, personally (and many more I'm sure) as an Ub3r member would like to contribute helping this site's new features thrive, and while you seem adamant on your stance and I respect your decisions I just think that trying to kill off a primary group with such a large (and yes, sometimes arrogant and retarded) number of people that have been supporting and doing their work with this site for years, is not ideal, as we want to help in any way we can and be a part of the future, while the group we are in as a whole may not be in it.

If you choose to ban me or close me over this then so be it, but I just wanted to share my opinion, and I apologize if I beat around the bush or seemed skiddish and weak in my words (as I'm not trying to get fucked lol), but I really do stand by what I said.

And before I go I'll restate: I respect your decisions and will use this site regardless of any changes you may make to it.

Yes but why penalize older users?

The support feather award for example.
It was available for a limited amount of time for users that contributed to the sister forum.
That makes sense. You do the work, you get the award.

Once that was removed, Omni didn't say "here's an award for everyone that didn't get that".
That's the equivalent in my eyes to Ub3r and R00t.

So why is it that the existing user base (Ub3rs) are (potentially) getting penalized.
I'm just trying to understand that O.o

If I have time this weekend, I'll use the API to get general data for me to query from.
If I'm right, I think it will be eye opening.

I don't think the online list is an accurate measurement of activity.
Lurkers vs posters. Etc.

DATA WILL TELL!

Where do you see ubers getting penalized? Because they can't start a lottery? I hardly consider that penalized. He gave them incentive to upgrade and be unique like what uber is.

Laughable your crying over a ban page and a lottery. I consider Ubers to be the OGS that helped make this forum what it is today.

Omniscient - July 20, 2018, 4:00 pm

Everyone might want to know there are about 3 times more L33t on the site than Ub3r. There is more potential for a future imho at the L33t level. Most of the problems on the site come from new members and from Ub3rs.

I think that L33t have to be inspired to join r00t as a successful group. If you were L33t and never got Ub3r would you still be jealous and desire Ub3r? I think less so if r00t was properly heralded and given a strong position on the site.

The changes are intentional and they are not meant to appease or appeal to Ub3r. They are meant for L33t and new members who wish to aspire to our top tier group.

We got problems on HF that I'm finally addressing. I'm changing the site drastically in both form and function. I want nothing more than a new generation of members willing to accept and embrace that change. I'm not feeling it from the Ub3r members overall. You can tell they want the status quo even if it means HF slowly dies over the next few years. They don't want change. They want an archive of their glories days at the expense of my website and family income. So excuse me if my attitude is "FUCK THE UB3R MEMBERS", but that's how I feel at this point. It does. I think it shows as far back as 2013, or whenever Omni started using CoinPayments.

The purchase for L33t on that page literally goes to some other member.

Bluffer - July 20, 2018, 5:36 pm

(Jul 20, 2018 04:00 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Everyone might want to know there are about 3 times more L33t on the site than Ub3r. There is more potential for a future imho at the L33t level. Most of the problems on the site come from new members and from Ub3rs.

I think that L33t have to be inspired to join r00t as a successful group. If you were L33t and never got Ub3r would you still be jealous and desire Ub3r? I think less so if r00t was properly heralded and given a strong position on the site.

The changes are intentional and they are not meant to appease or appeal to Ub3r. They are meant for L33t and new members who wish to aspire to our top tier group.

We got problems on HF that I'm finally addressing. I'm changing the site drastically in both form and function. I want nothing more than a new generation of members willing to accept and embrace that change. I'm not feeling it from the Ub3r members overall. You can tell they want the status quo even if it means HF slowly dies over the next few years. They don't want change. They want an archive of their glories days at the expense of my website and family income. So excuse me if my attitude is "FUCK THE UB3R MEMBERS", but that's how I feel at this point. When I added Contracts, I was slapped in the face by the negativity. It was a very telling moment for me.

FUCK YOU UB3R's. FUCK YOU HARD. You ain't shit here anymore.

The NO CHANGE!!! kind of attitude has been here for years, I like your thinking of preparing HF for the next generation. Please know that not all UB3Rs are like that, a lot of them including myself take what we like from HF and leave the rest.

It's your site, your decisions to make and yes all members I strongly believe should have input but you are the one who makes the decisions, a lot of edgy kids don't like that feeling of somebody having authority over them in real life and its the same thing on the internet.

Keep up the good work.

Even though I'm ub3r i fully agree with this statement.

It's a fucking shame to see the bitching and crying from select few that feel ub3rs are entitled to everything.

We're not entitled to anything and it's a "privilege" to be a member of Hack Forums it's not a 'Right'
We ubers have already lost some permissions only because of the few bad apples in the bunch.

Keep it up and keep crying about the changes and see what happens.

You very well could wake up tomorrow and find "ub3r" gone/history for good.

In fact i wouldn't be surprised if Omni just closes all ub3rs accounts and be done with it.

How would you feel then?

Omni has already stated many times that the ub3r group is getting fazed out within 2-3 years.

You might as well get use to it for it's coming and enjoy it while it last.

I can understand 100% how onmi feels each time i visit the site only to see back talk and flak.

We all must understand this is business.

What would happen if your employer changed some policy and you bitched and cry about the new changes everyday?

trust me you wouldn't be employed there much longer.

You would be Fired and shown the door.

I myself have lost permissions here on Hack Forums that many would never have.

It was Vitani, if you actually think I'm an asshole then you are too soft and have not even looked at my other posts helping people.

What do you mean intention? I have no specific intention with the upgrade, one of the perks of it is the ability to neg rep. I am fully allowed to use it like everyone else on the forum does.

I am aware rep does not matter, but why are you crying about it on this thread then?

You both have completely gone off topic with this thread to start a dramatic argument. And it's all because you are upset I took away 3 little green pixels from your profile. Gonna leave it at that, rep is just a number and you both are taking it way too seriously.

Hey everyone.

I've been on a bit of a rollercoaster in the last day or so. Here's the story:

My thread gets pulled for selling accounts in the secondary sellers section.
Been here 8 years, bought a few things, sold a few things. Been under the radar.
Then get told to be a ROOT and the thread must go in another section.

OK, let's buy a ROOT upgrade. Been here 8 years, may as well.
But you can't. You have to buy LEET first.

So LEET is bought and go to click ROOT upgrade and BAM
"You need 100+ rep for this upgrade"
Why?

Let's leave that and go get 100 rep which I did

Lets, now, go back to the upgrade path for ROOT and click on the button
"You need 250 posts for this upgrade"

Omniscient, I respect you a great deal for what you have achieved here.
But I don't want to diminish the quality of my posts, by awashing your forums with bile, just to get an upgrade

How do I go about an UBER gift upgrading me (I know a handful seen them come and go)

You may also want to update the upgrade page, to tell people they need 100+ rep and 250 posts or an UBER gift

To be gifted r00t, you still need the requirements. Just post in the lounge, you'll get your remaining 130 posts in a few weeks maybe shorter. Come on during peak time and bang out 10-20posts within an hour.

No one can gift OP ub3r.

Ub3r is a discontinued group.

r00t is the replacement group for ub3r..

Have a read here for all current HF changes.

You say the UBER can grant me ROOT

But I just got a PM saying this Code Ok, so just went through the upgrade and put your details in. But it wants me to pay $50. So not sure what that's all about.
Is there a code etc., to put in somewhere?
Omni says it can be gifted in post#1
