I cannot fully comment on this script, but I do know that the old version (CPANetworkScript) was full of security flaws, among other problems. Are these things addressed in the new version, and is this version utilizing newer technologies?

Dogcorn Limited - July 27, 2018, 10:12 am

Looks interesting, waiting to see some reviews of this version.

mic141414 - July 27, 2018, 11:38 am

This is not a new version. This is an entire different script.

The old script (i am not the owner anymore of the site ..since march 2018) was badly coded (i was told by some other developers) and used old technologies (old php and sql) so yes you are right there were some security flaws that nobody could fix for me.

The new one uses the latest php language and SQLi. It is secure.

Do you offer an on premise version besides the hosted one?

Cannot imagine a network getting 40M hits a month running for a lifetime for 279$

I would never recommend running a network on a hosted version, let alone a premade script. There is a reason why networks using cake, hasoffers, etc end up going bottoms up after a year, not to mention potential security flaws.

mic141414 - August 6, 2018, 10:15 am

Yes we have a version that you can host yourself
PM me if interested

Yes a big customer would get invoiced for bandwidth. Those prices are for my old customers who are trying to start a cpa network not for established ones. Big customers are better off with the script by itself and not hosted by us.
