Thread: How do you guys commit immoral acts?

NewRules - July 28, 2018, 2:46 pm

Like E-whoring for example. I almost started crying one time when I jaywalked and noticed there was a cop nearby.

How can you guys do immoral things and not cry or feel sad?

JAS - July 28, 2018, 2:48 pm

Because business is business.

luke - July 28, 2018, 2:50 pm

Don't do immoral acts, they're bad.

Ganja - July 28, 2018, 2:52 pm

Almost nobody is the bad guy in their own story, altho many people might like to make you think they think of themselves that way. People just find a way to justify it for themselves (a process we call 'cognitive dissonance reduction' https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Cognitive_dissonance)

Chief Turbo - July 28, 2018, 2:54 pm

There are no feelings when doing business

Fact, you will lose money if you think any other way.

Because "Moral" is something we made up to preserve human kind, it's not built into our DNA.
Also has a lot to do with one religion views.

People consider different things immoral, clearly you're on the lower end of that spectrum

DenizZ - July 28, 2018, 5:00 pm

I killed so many people in the wilderness of Runescape. Never felt sad.

Killy - July 28, 2018, 5:01 pm

Because we a terrible people

Buzzdrone - July 28, 2018, 5:55 pm

I set a limit for how far I'll go. For me personally, at the end of the day I'm pretending to be a model selling her pics. I don't try to go the full catfish. I'll offer the conversation for free but I won't go as far as pretend to meet up with them for money. The money side is strictly transaction. If conversation makes them feel like it isn't, that's their prerogative, but I don't string them out with lies. Instead I string them out with promise of more pictures or video if I can provide. I may be capitalistic but I try not to be a total asshole.
