Thread: Fix for contract System

Contact System should be updated so its can be alot more easier to use for new users , because mostly i have to explain users to mark contact as complete and give rating ,,
It should be something easy to understand as paxful or local Bitcoin contract system

I have an update written that greatly simplifies the process and also includes a new contract design ("look"). The next update will be considerably easier to understand.

Here is a preview (note this design may change slightly before release).

Should be live this week.

It's just should be easier to understand so I don't have to explain 5times to each member really frustrating .also they forget to give rating afterwards

A help document being posted about contracts asap would be really beneficial to everyone, especially new members.

Like I said, the new update will be easier to understand. The process is changed and coupled with the new design it will be very apparent what needs to be done.

Yes. Vitani does have a very nice thread that he is releasing when HF has the newest version of my contracts code. Some of that literature would work well as a Help Doc.

Like Xerotic said, after the new update is released, things will be a lot easier to understand already. The progress bar alone will greatly reduce a lot of confusion and hopefully help users remember to mark contracts complete and rate them.

We are still in the early stages of the new Contracts system though, so I'm sure that if you have a good suggestion to make things even easier, it will definitely be looked at.

I have one ready to go, just waiting for the new update to be released. I'll post it in the Marketplace discussions section, since that's probably where most users will see it and benefit from it.
