Thread: Which crypter for best runtime results?

YUGOBOSS - August 8, 2018, 4:29 pm

Hi,

Im searching for a runtime fud crypter in combination with netwire.
I need to clone file info and ico from a executable to make it look legit as possible.

Best if it have private stubs, no real budget, It just need to work.

I would say for long-term FUD the only real options are PolyPE or NTCrypt with their custom stubs, I tried about 5-6 of the cheaper pinned ones in HF in the past week and I regret spending all that money. I purchased a "custom stub" from CyberSeal for $300 and it was junk, still required tweaking/was showing detections without spread. Purchased the 5 stub package from PolyPE for $350/mo and got a 0/30 on antiscan and 0/12 on run4me as well as bypassing Windows Defender with Real-time/Cloud protection on without changing anything (it generates you a new icon everytime if you don't choose one). That was with Netwire. Other than those two I would probably only recommend MOHX's crypter he just released for the price of $80 it's the best buy, comes with 50 custom stubs and a bunch of extras.

Keep in mind PolyPE does not have a lot of the features other ones do it has

- Startup
- RunOnce
- Clone Assembly
- Change Icon
- Custom Stubs

none of the super in-depth features that the public crypters offer.

if you have some brain and to know how to use resource hacker to change icon & assembly, you will know cyberseal is the best, not like some other commplain or you can just PM me and we can discuss to make crypt for you :) without need to change icon/assembly.

Whats the offer on your Root Crypter?

How often do you Update/Re-FUD

How quick is your support?

Whats your Scantime/Runtime Warrantee period - (1 day, 3 days, 1 week, 2 weeks)?
