

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Laravel 5.6 Tutorial

WageWolf - August 8, 2018, 5:26 pm

As the thread title states, I am currently looking to learn Laravel 5.6.

I am either looking for a mentor willing to help for free, or a good course on Laravel 5.6. I do not mind if the course is free, or paid, I just need to learn everything in order to make a functional business website.

Thanks in advance! ?

manshu - August 8, 2018, 9:54 pm

Try Lara casts, it's one of the best to learn laravel.

WageWolf - August 9, 2018, 6:24 am

(Aug 8, 2018 09:54 PM)manshu Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Try Lara casts, it's one of the best to learn laravel. I will take a look, thank you for the suggestion. ?

Don Vito Corleone - August 9, 2018, 8:48 am

<https://laracasts.com/> is the first place you should take a look at, they got 710 videos just on Laravel and you can post your questions on there as well. If you are more looking towards a youtube series where someone builds a simple blog (so a basic CRUD application) so you can follow along, I can send you a link on PM. I'm not fond of posting these out in the open for several reasons that I don't need to mention :)

WageWolf - August 9, 2018, 12:43 pm

(Aug 9, 2018 08:48 AM)Don Vito Corleone Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) <https://laracasts.com/> is the first place you should take a look at, they got 710 videos just on Laravel and you can post your questions on there as well. If you are more looking towards a youtube series where someone builds a simple blog (so a basic CRUD application) so you can follow along, I can send you a link on PM. I'm not fond of posting these out in the open for several reasons that I don't need to mention :)

Thank You! Sending a PM :)

Question is answered, thank you!

/threadclosed