Yeah, but we're actually pretty close to 100% again.

With Xerotic assisting me with development I'm able to focus a lot more.

Since adding automation for Stickies my available time to work on projects has definitely increased.

Unfortunately summers are always a busy time for me and it's not the best season for work to get accomplished even though we have actually achieved imho a great deal. September-November is normally one of the better times of the year to get things done.

Coming soon is the server move which is going to open up a lot of things, mainly development of APIv2.
