Thread: HF live stream - now live

Mr. Robot - August 11, 2018, 4:30 pm

<https://www.twitch.tv/unblinking/>

--Dropping a few frames right now. It'll get better as the day goes on.

I live in the middle of nowhere - literally. Cheap land.

Anywho - Rain is horrible and i'm on copper lines right now, streaming isn't an option while it's pouring down. Looks like i'll be fine tomorrow but friday is also looking a bit fucked.

I will be able to live stream again Mondays to Fridays starting tomorrow if anyone is interested.

This will include having people on voice to chat while I browse the forum answering questions and discussing politics. If this is something still wanted that is. We had a number of people follow the channel (214 directly from Hackforums, 130 other possible HF too)

It was doing well enough for twitch to offer me an affiliate/partner but that requires using personal information which I don't wish to do.

Stream times will be around 5:30 PM UTC to 2:00 AM UTC

Includes webcam, my HF browsing session and the occasional YT video to talk about/discuss.

I've had Omniscient on and hope to again so you can ask questions. Will also try get other webcams on for other users when possible. - now li

Should of taken that Twitch Partnership since the chances of having your Twitch compromised is pretty low unless there are other security reasons.

As I connect it with my HF account, any associations I have with other users could potentially be used against me one day. Whether they scam, fiddle with something they shouldn't or just take my advice the wrong way and it's used against me.

I might consider it but i'd have to be a bit careful about it.

That's true, but the only personal information someone would have would be Twitch themselves unless you include paypal donations, but there are some sites that allow Crypto Currency donations. Bits have no charge backs or anything of that sort. Just a Twitch Currency and it's the same thing with subs that goes to your personal accounts that only Twitch has.

Twitch is Amazon who will 100% give up your information to feds. I assume you don't mean partner you mean affiliation. It's not really worth putting all your information in if you put a couple donation panels.

You can accept paypal credit card crypto donations no sweat.

PM me your twitch I wanna follow

I voted for "Yes - possibly voice too". I watched occasionally when you were doing it awhile ago. Stuff like this adds some fun to HF. ?

yrnGarry - August 11, 2018, 5:43 pm

I would enjoy watching this stream. I think you should do it. Perhaps get in the HF XMPP while streaming

I'm not too worried about donations as I doubt I will get any, it's mainly subscribers which would give some revenue to the channel if I chose to grow it and teach hacking on there or something similar.

But if they're willing to throw out $5 through amazon to sub I feel like they'd be just as happy to donate $3. You have to make $100 in revenue to begin the payout process, which is 45 days after the month you break that $100 threshold.

Unless you're banking on all these twitch primers out here which would be understandable. Then I say yolo that tax information like any good hacker would do

Couldn't you have someone put their information in as a surrogate and collect the revenue from the stream, then use it to reinvest in the show? Like doing live reviews on marketplace hacking tools, or like in-stream giveaways to members such as bytes or awards?

I'm not sure I trust anyone enough that isn't associated with me. Plus I doubt HF members will twitch prime sub.

I don't really understand this logic because if you use somebody else as a surrogate there's no risk to you other than them running off with the revenue. Use someone trusted on the forums who's interested in helping out with the show, you and them could get a small percentage for managing the revenue and the show then anything else donated could go to live giveaways games and contests.

Even write a script where users can donate bytes to you and the script broadcasts it to users in the stream with the custom text included, that would be bad ass

There isn't a single person on the forum who i'd trust with doing that.
