

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: \(Car Accident\) Helped a Girl out of her flipped upside down Car!

Sigma - August 12, 2018, 3:30 pm

The accident happened right in front of me on the highway. The car flew up into the air and landed upside down. I pulled over and had to rip her car door open and gently take her out of her seatbelt so she didn't fall. She was okay just blood all over her hand and in shock. Pretty crazy seeing that; I felt so bad for her.

frsnix - August 12, 2018, 3:33 pm

Damn dude, that sounds pretty legendary of you. I hope she's okay.

Moon Rock - August 12, 2018, 3:35 pm

That sounds pretty insane, how did she even end up flipping the car? Awesome that you were a witness and helped her out.

SysAdmin - August 12, 2018, 4:28 pm

Was she in any kind of danger? If not - it would be better off if you let her stay in the car.

See, if she had any kind of spinal injury, you could have made it way worse, even with the car flipped on it's roof, Firefighters and Medical personnel should be the only people extricating the victim out of the vehicle. UNLESS there is an imminent danger to life. Due to shock, after leaving the car she might have been perfectly fine, but since that is adrenaline doing it's work, she may have been down and out 5 minutes after that.

Good on you for helping out though, not many people would even stop and think on what to do.

oRequiem - August 12, 2018, 4:29 pm

I thank you for doing this, some people usually just bring their phones out and shit to get some of those clicks.

You sir are a hero. Thank you for this ?

WageWolf - August 12, 2018, 4:29 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 04:28 PM)SysAdmin Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Was she in any kind of danger? If not - it would be better off if you let her stay in the car.

See, if she had any kind of spinal injury, you could have made it way worse, even with the car flipped on it's roof, Firefighters and Medical personnel should be the only people extricating the victim out of the vehicle. UNLESS there is an imminent danger to life. Due to shock, after leaving the car she might have been perfectly fine, but since that is adrenaline doing it's work, she may have been down and out 5 minutes after that.

Good on you for helping out though, not many people would even stop and think on what to do. This right here. Glad for you OP, but please be careful in the future, if she had any terrible injuries, it could have ended WAY worse than it had.

Sigma - August 12, 2018, 4:47 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 04:29 PM)oRequiem Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I thank you for doing this, some people usually just bring their phones out and shit to get some of those clicks.

You sir are a hero. Thank you for this ?

I cannot tell you how many cars drove by with their phones out recording everything. It was absolutely disgusting to see that.

(Aug 12, 2018 04:39 PM)James! Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How did the accident happen, that's what I'm more intrigued in?

The girl rode up the backside of a car and it just made her car do a 180 and land on the backside.

oRequiem - August 12, 2018, 4:48 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 04:47 PM)Sigma????? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I cannot tell you how many cars drove by with their phones out recording everything. It was absolutely disgusting to see that.

Thats whats wrong with us. People just watch and not take action.

It's just disgusting.

Sigma - August 12, 2018, 4:50 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 04:48 PM)oRequiem Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thats whats wrong with us. People just watch and not take action.

It's just disgusting.

This girl was screaming for help while about 90% of the cars drove by with their phones out recording.. society is on its way down.

Sigma - August 12, 2018, 4:56 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 04:51 PM)James! Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So she was in the wrong?

Yes, she was the one who hit the person in front of her.

Crytic Coder.. - August 12, 2018, 5:00 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 03:33 PM)Arxius121 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Damn dude, that sounds pretty legendary of you. I hope she's okay.

(Aug 12, 2018 03:35 PM)Moon Rock Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That sounds pretty insane, how did she even end up flipping the car? Awesome that you were a witness and helped her out.

(Aug 12, 2018 04:29 PM)oRequiem Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I thank you for doing this, some people usually just bring their phones out and shit to get some of those clicks.

You sir are a hero. Thank you for this ?

(Aug 12, 2018 04:29 PM)TayK Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This right here. Glad for you OP, but please be careful in the future, if she had any terrible injuries, it could have ended WAY worse than it had.

(Aug 12, 2018 04:47 PM)Sigma????? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I cannot tell you how many cars drove by with their phones out recording everything. It was absolutely disgusting to see that.

The girl rode up the backside of a car and it just made her car do a 180 and land on the backside.

(Aug 12, 2018 04:48 PM)oRequiem Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thats whats wrong with us. People just watch and not take action.

It's just disgusting.

(Aug 12, 2018 04:50 PM)Sigma????? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This girl was screaming for help while about 90% of the cars drove by with their phones out recording.. society is on its way down.

ask Her Out now.. ? ? ?

Ravioli - August 12, 2018, 5:44 pm

Damn you're a great guy for doing that. I always watch those crazy car accident compilations on youtube and can't imagine actually watching something like that.

also change ur name to ligma

kanewe2 - August 12, 2018, 5:54 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 04:58 PM)James! Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Typical female drivers. Whilst you did a good thing, I'd argue you should have left her for her own stupidity. Should learn to drive properly. Ahaha. That's some shit I would say...

Anyways, people driving by and recording are showing the bystander effect. You guys complaining about it, but you'd be driving right by just like everyone else. Usually off duty civilians in the medical field are the first ones to actually act.

WageWolf - August 12, 2018, 9:12 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 08:38 PM)xadamxk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This^

It's nice you helped, but you can actually get sued for some serious $$ if you injure someone doing this.

If you ever have to, you get behind them in the car seat and support their neck until emergency response gets there.

Another interesting fact is that if someone needs an epipen injection, you have to "assist" them. You can't just do it on your own unless they are unconscious. In other words, put it in their hand and shove that shit into the side of their leg.

I had to get a few certifications years ago and sadly there are so many laws protecting victims in situations like this.

Indeed, the laws are unfortunate.

CyberError - August 12, 2018, 9:26 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 04:29 PM)oRequiem Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I thank you for doing this, some people usually just bring their phones out and shit to get some of those clicks.

You sir are a hero. Thank you for this ?

ahh i dont know which country you guys live in ?

but if something like this happen in my country everyone start rushing to save her

Toasties - August 12, 2018, 10:00 pm

You shouldn't get somebody out of a car when it's crashed. What if they had a broken back you would have done so much damage to their body by getting them out.

Vamure - August 12, 2018, 10:25 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 03:30 PM)Sigma????? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The accident happened right in front of me on the highway. The car flew up into the air and landed upside down. I pulled over and had to rip her car door open and gently take her out of her seatbelt so she didn't fall. She was okay just blood all over her hand and in shock. Pretty crazy seeing that; I felt so bad for her.

Much respect Stigma. I had a similar experience. Some drunk lady slammed into a familys SUV in an intersection at like 2am. Flipped one of the cars. Me and my twin brother had to pull the family out of the car. The little girl of the family would not leave my side until the police arrived. I was so fucking pissed. The lady who hit them openly admitted to me she was drinking that night. I had no sympathy towards her after that. ?

SysAdmin - August 12, 2018, 11:14 pm

All in all people, OP was trying to save the girls life, we all know that. Just try to be a bit more careful next time OP. Approach the car from the front, so the victim does not move her neck when she suddenly sees you, talk to the victim and the first thing you do is Hold. Her. Neck. And you hold it until emergency personnel arrive on scene. If she's in shock, be calm and tell her over and over again that she'll be fine, just not to move her neck.

If anything happens inbetween those minutes that threatens her life, life takes priority over injury, drag her out if you have to.

I believe you are still protected by the Good Samaritan Law in the US though.

oRequiem - August 12, 2018, 11:30 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 09:26 PM)CyberError Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) ahh i dont know which country you guys live in ?

but if something like this happen in my country everyone start rushing to save her United States, some people just watch my dude.

CyberError - August 12, 2018, 11:31 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 11:30 PM)oRequiem Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) United States, some people just watch my dude.
aah i thought you guys are friendly

oRequiem - August 12, 2018, 11:32 pm

(Aug 12, 2018 11:31 PM)CyberError Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) aah i thought you guys are friendly
The US is a shit hole, but most places have shitty people.

GloryToBe - August 12, 2018, 11:44 pm

You could have hurt yourself but she could have gotten hurt, it was a good thing you did.

Givenchy - August 13, 2018, 3:16 am

Great intervention, we aren't allowed in my country to help someone in this sort of scenario's.

Vamure - August 13, 2018, 3:18 am

(Aug 12, 2018 11:30 PM)oRequiem Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) United States, some people just watch my dude.
Yes yes they do; it's fucking pathetic. The same accident I posted earlier; there were at least 10 people just standing with their phones out. ?

SysAdmin - August 13, 2018, 3:23 am

(Aug 13, 2018 03:16 AM)Givenchy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Great intervention, we aren't allowed in my country to help someone in this sort of scenario's.

I highly doubt they don't let you guys help. Anyone could help on scene, we're actually required by law to stop at a car accident.

Givenchy - August 13, 2018, 3:25 am

(Aug 13, 2018 03:23 AM)SysAdmin Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I highly doubt they don't let you guys help. Anyone could help on scene, we're actually required by law to stop at a car accident.

We aren't allowed to remove people from their car or their helmets. We have to wait on the ambulance.

SysAdmin - August 13, 2018, 3:29 am

(Aug 13, 2018 03:25 AM)Givenchy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) We aren't allowed to remove people from their car or their helmets. We have to wait on the ambulance.

Oh, that. Well, as I said, you shouldn't remove anyone from their car or their helmets unless you're either trained to do so (Firefighter, Paramedic, Medic, First Responder) or if the victim involved in the incident is in imminent danger to life. Hence why you're allowed to pull people out of the car if you believe that the victim will die unless you intervene and pull the victim out of the car (In cases of HAZMAT Incidents, Car on Fire, Heavy Bleeding that cannot be controller while the victim is inside the car etc..). All you can do is calm them down and hold the neck, they need to be as still as possible in order to prevent any further injuries to their spine.

Vamure - August 13, 2018, 3:36 am

(Aug 13, 2018 03:25 AM)Givenchy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) We aren't allowed to remove people from their car or their helmets. We have to wait on the ambulance.

That's how it is everywhere. If you see that you NEED to step in; do so. There are times it's needed. If it's going to cause more harm than help; obviously don't step in lol.

(Aug 13, 2018 03:29 AM)SysAdmin Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Oh, that. Well, as I said, you shouldn't remove anyone from their car or their helmets unless you're either trained to do so (Firefighter, Paramedic, Medic, First Responder) or if the victim involved in the incident is in imminent danger to life. Hence why you're allowed to pull people out of the car if you believe that the victim will die unless you intervene and pull the victim out of the car (In cases of HAZMAT Incidents, Car on Fire, Heavy Bleeding that cannot be controlled while the victim is inside the car etc..). All you can do is calm them down and hold the neck, they need to be as still as possible in order to prevent any further injuries to their spine.

Yea what he said!

Tsachev - August 13, 2018, 3:46 am i bet if it was a guy, you'd drive by and shout "learn to drive motherfucker!"

spradebassen - August 13, 2018, 5:19 am i really hope you didn't lift her up immediately without properly inspecting the situation

could've destroyed her neck and paralyzed her for life

(Aug 13, 2018 03:29 AM)SysAdmin Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Oh, that. Well, as I said, you shouldn't remove anyone from their car or their helmets unless you're either trained to do so (Firefighter, Paramedic, Medic, First Responder) or if the victim involved in the incident is in imminent danger to life. Hence why you're allowed to pull people out of the car if you believe that the victim will die unless you intervene and pull the victim out of the car (In cases of HAZMAT Incidents, Car on Fire, Heavy Bleeding that cannot be controlled while the victim is inside the car etc..). All you can do is calm them down and hold the neck, they need to be as still as possible in order to prevent any further injuries to their spine.

oh there we go, what i was searching for oRequiem - August 13, 2018, 8:11 am

(Aug 13, 2018 03:18 AM)Vamure Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes yes they do; it's fucking pathetic. The same accident I posted earlier; there were at least 10 people just standing with their phones out. ?

Yeah, like wtf is going on in this world.

SysAdmin - August 13, 2018, 9:13 am

(Aug 13, 2018 08:11 AM)oRequiem Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah, like wtf is going on in this world.

I can explain;

Stupid people on the fucking road.

Deaghaidh - August 13, 2018, 11:19 am

(Aug 12, 2018 03:30 PM)Sigma????? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The accident happened right in front of me on the highway. The car flew up into the air and landed upside down. I pulled over and had to rip her car door open and gently take her out of her seatbelt so she didn't fall. She was okay just blood all over her hand and in shock. Pretty crazy seeing that; I felt so bad for her.

Don't do that ever unless the car is smoking that can mess up c-spine and leave her paralyzed I've have so many people do this when I'm doing 911 it's crazy it was very thoughtful though glad she wasn't hurt or anything serious.

(Aug 13, 2018 03:29 AM)SysAdmin Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Oh, that. Well, as I said, you shouldn't remove anyone from their car or their helmets unless you're either trained to do so (Firefighter, Paramedic, Medic, First Responder) or if the victim involved in the incident is in imminent danger to life. Hence why you're allowed to pull people out of the car if you believe that the victim will die unless you intervene and pull the victim out of the car (In cases of HAZMAT Incidents, Car on Fire, Heavy Bleeding that cannot be controlled while the victim is inside the car etc..). All you can do is calm them down and hold the neck, they need to be as still as possible in order to prevent any further injuries to their spine.

Thank you I see too many "heros" potentially ruin someone's life

Sigma - August 13, 2018, 11:24 am

I see you guys are right. I probably should have left her and just supported her neck. Helped her calm down would have been the best option. She was just screaming and the car was smoking and leaking oil so my instincts were to get her out ASAP.

Deaghaidh - August 13, 2018, 11:27 am

(Aug 13, 2018 11:24 AM)Sigma????? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I see you guys are right. I probably should have left her and just supported her neck. Helped her calm down would have been the best option. She was just screaming and the car was smoking and leaking oil so my instincts were to get her out ASAP.

If the car was smoking you were legally allowed to pull her out and protected under the Good Samaritan law just remember next time what to do stabilize c-spine call for help

NotAFed - August 13, 2018, 11:28 am

You uhh, got proof of this accident?

n0XZe - August 13, 2018, 11:29 am

You're probably the first person on earth not to get their phone out and start recording for YouTube bro! nice work! start wearing a cape buddy

Deaghaidh - August 13, 2018, 11:31 am

(Aug 13, 2018 11:28 AM)NotAFed Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You uhh, got proof of this accident?
We get a bad accident everyday it's not really a surprise

oRequiem - August 13, 2018, 1:59 pm

(Aug 13, 2018 09:13 AM)SysAdmin Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I can explain;

Stupid people on the fucking road.

Yea, like I recently saw a video about a cop texting and driving while hitting a guy on a bike. It was like a week ago.