Why are people using old cracked shit?

Not to mention infecting themselves...

Just find a suspicious process on your task manager, open its file location then delete them.
You can download NoBot, it wasn't blacklisted.

+1 those guys know their stuff.

( I dunno how you all operate but I never infected myself (knocks on wood) in 19 years with my own rubbish. You can always go to reverse.it and analyze the file, you can find the registry entries written .. files dropped and location, but try the white hat section first)
