nutsaholic - August 14, 2018, 10:29 pm

Most Upgraded users are annoying because they just get free sh*t off non upgraded members by saying 'give me a vouch copy'

I've seen so many upgraded users spam the fck out of new threads, just stop you chimp

If you get offended by this, you are one of the aids upgraded users most likely.

& before you roast me for not being upgraded, i could of bought it & still could. But I don't care enough too /thread

EDIT: Seeing a lot of mixed reviews, I'm just playing devil's advocate so don't hate. love yall smelly upgraded&non upgraded users

Popdog - August 14, 2018, 10:35 pm

It's because upgraded members are more trustworthy.

RonzaX - August 14, 2018, 10:50 pm

Why not contribute to the forums if you've been on here for a while imo it feels like you're salty about something personal and ranting about it on hf

I would know, I do it all the time.

So you're gonna bitch about not getting the shit upgraded members get; but then refuse to upgrade. Logic.

Most huge members that are trustworthy; are upgraded. Obviously we're gonna pay-it-forward to the site with a small donation; for a big upgrade. Like you said; if you don't like it, dont get it. But I don't see how you're gonna sit here and complain about this type of thing. It's pretty obvious. I personally would never give a vouch copy to an un-upgraded member. #leech. ?

Not really. Only stupid people, immature children, and people new to the site that don't understand what an upgrade is would believe upgraded users are "more trustworthy". A repertoire of positive feedback for deals, high quality posting, and prominence for being a good member of the community is what should constitute whether a person is "trustworthy".

"A repertoire of positive feedback for deals, high quality posting, and prominence for being a good member of the community is what should constitute whether a person is "trustworthy"." - I 100% agree. But when was the last time you saw people giving vouch copies to un-upgraded members. It's pretty rare; so I get where OP is coming from.

But I also get both sides; like I stated. I personally wouldn't give any vouch copies to a non-upgraded members. If they don't feel the need to give back to the site that's helped a ton of us; why would I want to hook them up ?

I think a person who has done 20+ successful deals in the marketplace and has posted a lot of helpful things deserves a vouch copy more than someone who paid $20 for a membership that ultimately is just a benefit for them on the site. I have spent $50 on the site for my l33t and ub3r upgrades. I didn't donate for the benefit of the site though, I donated so I could get the perks that come with the upgrades, and I'm not afraid to admit that.

Oh no; I totally get where you're coming from my dude. There are probably tons of un-upgraded members who are better off with a real vouch copy for review; I agree. I just personally wouldn't do so; I just personally would give my "vouch copies" to people who gave back to the site as well. If that makes sense? They can be upgraded, have 10,000 posts; and there's still a chance I wouldn't give them a vouch copy if I didn't see fit.

Brendan - August 14, 2018, 11:05 pm

Just ignore them? Lmao, I see upgraded users (even R00T, imagine that) act like complete assholes, and I just move along because what's the point of calling them out?

Once again I get where you're coming from. It's also very rare to see a non-upgraded member with that amount of "successful deals"; mainly due to them leeching and dipping. Once again; its all personal opinion. I'd have no issues giving a vouch copy to someone like that; but it's rare.

The vast majority of members on this website probably have an average IQ, upgraded or not. I don't think you can make the argument that non upgraded members are "probably" smarter than upgraded members. There's smart people, average people, and dumb people... I have seen each and every one of those people in the upgraded and non upgraded groups pretty equally.

Agreed. Just because someone has an upgraded account does not mean they're "smarter" or "more intelligent" than someone without.

And the reason it is rare is probably because many people on this site frown upon non upgraded members and ultimately think they're scammers who will charge back their payments, and when this occurs time and time again to the same person, they typically end up just upgrading to get rid of the "scammer" stigma.

He's talking more of vouch copies. I would never deny a non-upgraded member a purchase lol.

Because it's a "safer" bet to give a vouch copy to someone who's "big" and will actually leave an honest review; rather than someone who's not known. But once again it goes both ways; there are members who just use their friends for fake vouches / reviews.

Obvi ranks come with perks, cause that's the incentive to buy it.

That's why I'm glad reputation is a thing

If you really think you "contributed the same amount" as others; come on dude. You're from 2015; with 600 posts. I'm 3 months old; and have over 1k+ posts .

Mr. Robot - August 14, 2018, 11:29 pm

1. It feels like you are salty because your vouch isn't as valued as someone who has say contributed 30,000 posts + donated over $10,000.

2. Before you roast me for not being upgraded, i could of bought it & still could. But I don't care enough too /thread

Then upgrade and contribute otherwise stop talking out your ass. I see 0 contributions in all your posts that are of any value to the forum, nothing that would come up in someones google search which brings valuable members or anything helpful.

3. Post 24 you say you have contributed just as much as someone who has purchased an upgrade... That's simply not true.

You haven't funded the forum in any way, you haven't made any contributing posts/threads that would encourage new members to join who might be willing to pay and I will have another look in just a second to see if you have actually purchased any products from users who say buy stickies.

EDIT: Yep.

To be honest, I made this thread for the clickbait of it & sorry to trigger you. I can tell this pissed you off & I've heard quite a bit about you & you're contributions.

& I have purchased a few money making ebooks & stuff back when i was a noobie and didn't realize most were scams.

& you'd be right by looking at my account to say I haven't contributed a lot to the forums seo wise, most of the help that I do for people is through dms, like giving tips on growing ig's/ewhore & other stuff.

Growing IGs and Ewhore accounts isn't contributions. Those are both disgusting things.

I have barely any contributions myself - my biggest thing is my username which brings people to the forum. I'm not saying you can't be a valued member but i'd be lying to say you'd be missed right now.

I just hope after googling your skype that your mc-market account wasn't banned for scamming.

Editing thread contents like that I believe is against the rules. Not 100% sure about the entire process of it.

I'll tell ya what. My experiences on Hackforums have been nothing but positive - Even when I have false accusations against me, people attacking/harassing me or whatever. I come here to help people, learn new things and have fun. There's nothing wrong with not contributing much but when other peoples input is valued more there is usually a reason for it. I think you get that now.

Don't even stress, just keep it chill and focus on doing what you want to do. If you want to contribute, go for it. You will find the more you contribute - the more others will help you in return.

By the way you are welcome OP.
