Thread: Allowed to sell for a scammer?

Priesto - August 17, 2018, 4:26 pm

Is it against the rules for a ban evading scammer to have another member proxy sell for him on here? Just wondering, was going to PM Staff but I don't have 35 posts.

Riddick - August 17, 2018, 4:39 pm

Well it certainly sounds like a bad idea even if it were allowed.

CPA Exposé - August 17, 2018, 4:46 pm

Does that sound like something that would be allowed to you?

TB12 - August 17, 2018, 4:50 pm

It's common sense this wouldn't be allowed

Crust - August 17, 2018, 5:03 pm

Why would you even wanna sell for a scammer?

Prox - August 17, 2018, 5:07 pm

Omni made a thread a while about how proxy selling is no longer disallowed, even for banned members.. But I think it's an incredibly stupid idea to proxy sell for a scammer who is ban evading.. Omni would probably ban you anyway if he found out.

This right here should be common sense, come on OP?

Priesto - August 17, 2018, 5:35 pm

I already talked to the member who's reselling and said he doesn't care as long as he doesn't get scammed as well.

I don't think your getting the point here. Why would you want to deal with a scammer? Your probably going to end up getting scammed

Yeah... that's not how it works lmao. He's gonna be the one ending up scamming bruddah.

If you sell for a scammer your account is on the line not his.

Bluffer - August 17, 2018, 5:56 pm

Why not have a little common sense ffs?

Xycon - August 17, 2018, 6:10 pm

I suddenly became clairvoyant, I predict a ponzi scheme going bad, or a multi, or a dumbass.

I get the point, I talked with the guy selling and said it's a bad idea but oh well. Selling for this guy is most likely just going to get his account fucked over once people complain about the method being complete shit

OP got his answer as we can all see.
