Thread: Mobale Responsive Theme

Omniscient - August 21, 2018, 4:15 pm

You can now try the beta version of HF's mobile responsive theme called Mobale. Only upgraded members have access to it.

Alter your theme in usercp options.

<https://hackforums.net/usercp.php?action=options>

It's very rough right now but iHydra, Xerotic, and myself are working to bring it up to standards within a week so we can make it HF's default theme.

Thanks.

TB12 - August 21, 2018, 4:17 pm

Thanks a lot! Excited to try it out

eightz - August 21, 2018, 4:17 pm

Posts and large font signatures like yours(Omni) make it look cluttered but I'll still be using it for the mean time as it looks great overall. I'm confident they'll optimize it way beyond expectations.

Just looking in mobile , I can notice the corner is sealed .

Nice theme mobale.

Lovin it so far, can't wait to see the final product. I love the scroll bar, the purple and blackish/grey,very sleek.

Amazing job boys!

Bad ass, going to have to play around with it.

Nice, can't wait to see the final version.

Do you want us to report things we notice that don't look 'right'?

Nachfolger - August 21, 2018, 4:39 pm

This won't become the forced theme, right? I'd love to still use the deVoid theme.

YourRage - August 21, 2018, 4:39 pm

Can someone post a SS of how it looks?

Not really since we are actively working on this and know it's messed up in many ways. It's going to take 2-3 weeks imho, maybe longer to really get it right. We do hope to get feedback but not for a few days until the theme is in a place we like it ourselves.

Just a lot of work ahead of us. All other projects for Xerotic are put on hold while this theme is being worked on. I myself have a server to configure for us to move soon.

You need to be upgraded to have access as Omni said.

Wrong options were chosen when exporting/importing the theme so many custom alterations were not kept

If anyone would like to see the updated changes then please use "Mobale 2". I have removed "Mobale" as an option currently until we verify our alterations and remove the corrupted "Mobale" and rename "Mobale 2".

It is looking nice. ?

This feels weird.... let's see here...

Lithe - August 21, 2018, 6:56 pm

Looks nice so far on a Google Pixel 2 XL. Some formatting issues are noticeable right off the bat but I'm sure those will be ironed out quick. The stars under usernames seem to be pretty low quality as well for some reason. With a few other QOL Changes this is a pretty cool looking theme already. Nice to see this feature finally being added to HF!

Main thing would be to make it auto-turn on when a phone is detected since I can see it getting annoying constantly switching.

Could you elaborate on the "constantly switching" part please. We have media queries set in place attempting its best to detect the screen width (in your case, mobile phone).

sneezing panda - August 21, 2018, 7:35 pm

Rough is right lmao. On my iPhone 7+ theres some weird spacing issues with the forum boundary boxes, text not in the box all the way.. Hopefully it'll be fixed quite soon enough though.

I think he means the need to switch in the user settings. Though I assume that that is because it's in a beta form right now.

Yeah my bad on the wording.

I'd prefer to not use that theme on my desktop and I'd have to switch between two themes depending on the device I'm using.

That will not be possible. Once this theme is ready then it will be set as the default theme for all users and the other theme will be removed from use. Omni prefers HF to have a single theme and this will be it.

Is the online list meant to be colorless?

Cloudflare caches CSS files and Omniscient isn't online to update it with the updated files. So... any CSS changes we do are not visible until CF cache is purged.

Still have some stuff to do. Have to make sure all plugins are incorporated. Still deciding on a good look for awards on the postbit now that we have the darkened box.

EDIT: Looks like the CSS was pushed through. Should see some new changes.

Uploader.sx - August 21, 2018, 9:15 pm

Not bad at all.

But were still used to the old HF, we find the old theme better for now.

Edit:

- the edit button wont work
- the awards wont show

Mr. Robot - August 21, 2018, 10:44 pm

Can I suggest possibly removing users join date from their profiles? Make it like so anyone who has been on the forum since say before a certain date it will show theirs for the point of being nostalgic and oldschool maybe 2012 before or something, but hiding it from anyone further on?

I just feel like it has more of a negative impact being directly on peoples posts and could serve a purpose of being more inviting to newer users.

Either that or just put in something like

'Sometime in 2017'

'During 2016'

'Oldskool 2k12'

I don't know, something along those lines maybe.

Maybe just remove the month from it unless you look at their profiles. Just have the year, I just thought a cool little 'reference' to something according to the date - maybe a notable thing each year would be kind of cool as well as give 'more' of an even playing field for newer users.

I will say other than that it looks pretty damn good right now, obviously you guys are working on things (time is difficult to read and I feel like the HF logo is a bit dark for the writing).

I personally use a 'pipboy' looking theme userscript that makes it look really fucking nice though.

RRRaptor - August 21, 2018, 10:49 pm

Mr. Robot - August 21, 2018, 10:51 pm

Also don't know what happened here with the warning level if it's moving bytes location according to being higher or just if it's moved because ones my own profile and ones another users.

Perfect. I'm sure once it's 100% finished this is going to be insanely useful. Is our trust scan still going to log every IP if we get on mobile and use our LTE or 3G and are traveling? I remember I lost it and couldn't stop laughing when I saw some kid complaining about how his trust scan had like 24

IPs shown in red from getting on mobile and going out and using HF and how he was concerned it made him look fishy and was deterring deals. So my thought is, is there any change to this or is pretty much staying the same and logging every carrier IP? If it still logs carrier IPs then I imagine after this comes out then that part of the trust scan you can render obsolete if you don't already? Maybe I have a wrong understanding but yeah it will totally kill this right here or am I wrong:

Either way, very excited for a mobile version. Sounds like frustrating work you are all wrapping your brains around tbh, I'm about to start googling to see if anyone's ever converted MyBB to mobile or whatever, now I'm curious.

Yikes... as it is now the purple is harsh to read with on forum titles. Also, this theme has character and is a big part of HF, at least color wise, may as well just update this one to be "mobile friendly".

Will there be an option to have a desktop view of the forums if we are on mobile? I almost ALWAYS prefer using desktop views on my phone.

That stat is only for login IPs. So when you literally login with your password. If you are just browsing and going from IP to IP then it doesn't log all of that info in Trust Scan. Many people already use HF on mobile. This should hopefully improve navigation and possibly just as important it should improve SEO.

Also, this may sort of be off-topic, but I've tried using mobile a few times, and I've successfully logged in and browsed around, but if I go browse Instagram and Twitter for an hour or two, I come back and I'm logged out..every time. Is this normal, or is something going on? It's pretty convenient being logged in on Safari, but it's not convenient having to log in every time I visit the site.

I assume you mean in postbit. I tend to agree with that. If anything it could be added to the avatar as the alt tag like "Mr. Robot Joined April 2015" so members can hover over your image for that.

I agree. You have to understand though, it takes time to adapt to changes.

Personally I feel like it's best to keep the theme simple and clear like it is right now but truth is, SEO is the beating heart of HF and if it's not up-to-date with Google's requirements it'll get fucked.

I like it a lot. Stats under profile is centered and that looks much better imo. Overall it's a nice design, the clock/date in the top-right corner should have a white font so it's easier to read.

Will the Wiki have the same theme eventually?

One thing that I've noticed already is that there's no option for quick-editing posts and threads.

Look I get you think you're helping but I think it's more of a pain than anything right now for them. They're still working on it and until they need it I think it might be easier to just leave it as is and let them get to a point where they are nearing the end of fixing common errors.

Apologies if my post came across rude or whatever, didn't mean it like that. I just flicked on the theme real early on and I had to restrain myself from posting up a clean list for them of everything but they might want to move things around still which could end up corrupting locations/linking again anyway which is pointless.

theme error (Click to View)

The related threads section extends beyond the rest of the page, making an odd empty space that the rest of the page ignores. This happens on iOS (safari) and android (chrome)

Would we be getting the option of different colours for Mobale? I know I can't be alone in preferring the grey/black theme to the purple one.

As far as themes go, simply changing the colour scheme is a simple thing to do that a lot of users would enjoy imo.

Xerotic - August 23, 2018, 7:07 pm

Anyone check out the theme on mobile width lately? We are working on a neat new navigation bar. The sidebar in UserCP will collapse and be added to the hamburger button up top.

CTRL + F5 if you don't have the latest CSS/JS.

VirtualFrost - August 23, 2018, 7:38 pm

I think the only thing I'd change on mobile view right now is how post bits look for profiles, I feel like having their profile picture + userbar on the left and then display their stats on the right of their profile picture and userbar will cut down the size so there isn't as much scrolling.

I tried to edit it myself but it's a little difficult doing it only through chrome so I just drew boxes instead of what I'm talking about

<https://i.imgur.com/W0qDKhM.png>

The only issue I see with this idea is the user stats box obviously won't have enough information to be as tall as the avatar + usertitle + userbar

Aside from this I'm actually really impressed with the theme, especially on mobile.

I didn't set the theme but when I reload the page, it automatically appears it to me (while browsing the premium marketplace).

Then when I go back to the index the theme went to the old style(dark grey style). Why is it?

Update:

Now I enabled it because it is responsive and beautiful and that's how this forum should be.

It's just weird that I didn't do anything yet it applies itself.

We decided to make it work that way to always keep track of the author. We do not have any options boxes to remove it, though it could be accomplished personally if you had a userscript do that for you. I suggest trying it out though with scrolling. It is pretty helpful.

Yes, I will be looking into breadcrumb options for mobile. I actually use the breadcrumb quite often so only displaying the index page and the current page (the former being easy to navigate to from any page anyway and the latter you are already on) is pretty useless IMO.

(Aug 24, 2018 10:17 AM)Froggy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The "possibly related threads" section at the bottom stretches the page horizontally. So even though the width of the posts fit on the screen, I keep accidentally scrolling sideways because of that bottom section.

We are working on finding all of the tables that do not like to stay in the correct horizontal position. Noted, thank you.

(Aug 24, 2018 10:19 AM)Froggy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Was trying to edit my post but don't see the option on mobile

I clicked on the little binoculars on the top (mobile) which I now assume is View new posts (not completely sure), and the search is also too long horizontally so I have to scroll back and forth to see the info

That should be resolved. I fixed the EDIT button. And yes, the binoculars is currently "View New Posts". I am considering making it the "Search Favorites" link instead, which actually defaults to "View New Posts" if you don't use the "Search Favorites" feature.

Currently you cannot go back to deVoid theme.

When this theme is 100% we'll likely allow both but Mobale will be default. For now we need everyone to help us bug fix and test.

Deutsche Bank - August 25, 2018, 12:42 am

I see I am a minority on 4:3 resolution.

Feels like HF is more like facebook at the moment. Post content is way too small for it to be the main focus. This is a forum after all. Some peoples signatures take up more space than the post itself, and personally I find it extremely obnoxious. I don't give a fuck about your shitty money making ebook and would rather read your post.

Also on 4:3 if you could widen the margins it would be ideal, the site feels extremely squished. I'll take a screenshot if it's needed.

EDIT: I mean seriously, this just sums it up. Don't get me wrong, the theme looks nice, but I would at least like it to be a bit more functional. The focus should be the content, not the site itself.

Vitani - August 25, 2018, 2:08 am

I love how you guys have improved it on mobile already! Been using it this morning and it's so convenient to browse HF now. I'm excited!

A few bugs I did notice on the mod side of things:

1. We can no longer view soft deleted posts

2. When giving a warning the warning level bar looks strange (not a major issue but I thought I'd post it anyways)

Example: <https://i.imgur.com/zVPChys.png>

Aside from that, on mobile browsing the profile information still takes up a lot of room on a thread, but I see you guys are already working on that.

I love that you got rid of the black bars on phone and stretched it out a little more, are you planning to do the same by default, even if you're not browsing on phone? (For example on desktop)

When closing a thread, the quick edit box no longer becomes a lighter color. Not sure if that's a bug or what you are going for, but mentioning it just in case.

Also the "HR" line is almost invisible as it's not much darker as the post background. Maybe consider making it purple?

Ultimately the design of HF has always had my personal touch and sensibility. Full credit to Xerotic and iHydra for making this happen. Without them I doubt I'd be able to do this. Unfortunately my huge weakness is JS and I'm not fully up to the newest CSS standards (HTML5).

I just think the area that displays user info takes up too much space.
If we can make people's avatars a bit smaller and/or move some things on mobile, it'd be easier to read a thread.

Idk example: <https://i.imgur.com/U1053dV.jpg>

Focus should be on the content, no?

fair dinkum

My last quarrel for mobile is the user information being too large as other people have pointed out. I'd suggest putting the avatar and user information side by side rather than on top of each other. Lots of wasted space. Could make it look real nice too.

Decim - August 26, 2018, 6:42 am

The new design looks much more modern. A few things seem off though:

- the number of awards per line feels too long
- the horizontal line separating the awards from the userinfo seems kind of redundant since that info is in a box of its own

And most important of all,

- I can no longer flex on these newbs with my OG registration date.

Juffar - August 26, 2018, 12:06 pm

I was told to post this here instead of sending it as a PM which I did at first so the grammar will be a bit messy as it was sent to another staff member at first.

I have made a list of small "errors" in the design (subjective of course but I think that most of them aren't supposed to look the way they do now).

Signature Marketplace Settings:

Small text on error messages:

I have noticed that the text on most error messages is very small compared to rest of the texts.

Example:

Username History Search

Search page (this might be how it's supposed to look)

<https://i.gyazo.com/a39ee04ab923c7ffceaa83ddf1a36a15.mp4>

On the other theme it was aligned next to each other if you get what I'm saying. It looks a little messy now when it's all aligned under each other. But again, that might be how they want it to look.

Advanced Private Message Search

Same as the above, this might be how they want it to look but I'm including it anyway.

<https://i.gyazo.com/b98ea70dcd538171ff7357e4e3b41e20.mp4>

The results after a search is the same:

<https://i.gyazo.com/ed0a4232b322504d848299ddb49e890a.mp4>

Quote Date/Time

I already told you (Omniscient) about this but he might have forgotten because he's so busy so I'm including it as well.

In quotes where the quoted post was made less than 24 hours ago the "()" which normally surrounds the date is written before the date.

Reporting a profile

If you go to a profile and click "Report profile" this is the error message that you get.

The text is unrelated to reporting a profile and most profiles are older than 48 hours (haven't checked if the same error occurs on new accounts younger than 48 hours) it will be hard to report profiles.

I previewed this message that you are reading now and the designed got odd here as well.

One thing more.... don't know if it has been posted already or not -

Say, I went to Members Contest and then open a thread. While browsing on a desktop version the path at the top reads - Hack Forums > General Topics > Member Contests (I mean the complete path to Home page)

Whereas in Mobile Theme, it just says Hack Forums > Title of the thread opened.

Hope, I made myself clear.

You have a pretty old (several days) cached version of the CSS/JS files. Flush your cache for HF or reload these files:

<https://hackforums.net/js/response.js>

<https://hackforums.net/cache/themes/theme12/global.css>

<https://hackforums.net/cache/themes/theme12/response.css>

<https://hackforums.net/cache/themes/theme12/navbar.css>

<https://hackforums.net/cache/themes/theme12/alerts.css>

There will be a couple other random CSS files too, but those are the main ones.

Bluffer - August 28, 2018, 1:37 am

Only feedback I can provide right now is that I'm a bit disappointed we can no longer see the registration date of a user without clicking onto their profile. It's something that will take some time for me to get used to.

That said I really love this theme and realize sacrifices had to be made for the overall betterment of the site.

NoSuchAgency - August 28, 2018, 1:55 am

Would there be room to include what forum you're browsing in the nav bar? Sometimes clicking from the new posts button, I have to stop and go back to see what forum it was.

No big deal or anything but would be nice

SIMAAS - August 28, 2018, 7:06 am

I love the new theme! The only things I very much dislike is that when scrolling the profile of the poster follows as I know stuff like that is the worst UX, the joining date doesn't show anymore.

and is there a logical reason for this being THAT WIDE?

The mobile version does indeed include an alert icon at the top of the screen. It is the bell icon.

Otherwise you might mean before the full mobile version takes effect and there is the "Account Control" dropdown?

Xerotic - August 29, 2018, 10:26 pm

I altered the breadcrumb to the point where you might notice visual bugs if you have an old cached version of the CSS.

Make sure you have the fresh copies of these two files:

<https://hackforums.net/cache/themes/theme12/global.css>

<https://hackforums.net/cache/themes/theme12/response.css>

Mobile breadcrumb is now better for navigation. You can easily go back one step instead of jumping straight to the home page. On desktop view the first item (formally the text "Hack Forums") was changed to a "home" icon.

(Sep 1, 2018 09:37 AM)xadamxk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No, flushing your dns has to do with resetting the cache of address url/names. For example, when you go to hackforums.net, it maps the IP of HF with the domain name. That way the next time you go to HF, it doesn't need to look up the IP.

Flushing your DNS clears that registry.

Right, it only triggers when the post height has reach a height higher than the author info height. It could be 500px or 5px taller. Once the post/signature side is taller, it will start scrolling.

So this is just a small UI issue, nothing too major or needs to be fixed now, I also haven't checked to see if this issue has been reported already but I don't want to go through 42 pages of responses. But the Warning Level is inconsistent of it's location on a user's post. In this below image you can see that one user doesn't have the warning level, the user under has the warning level at the bottom of his profile preview, and my profile preview has the warning level of 0% in a different location.

Ignore the quick actions, those are out of order because of the HFX plugin.

We'll take a look at what's going on with the Warning Level position.

Stickied threads titles in the RAT section are over sized. Other sections are not like this.

Those are threads which you haven't read yet.

Just tested on my Galaxy S8 w/ Chrome, does not look like your picture. Both stickied and normal are same 'font-size'. I'd bet it's how Safari handles the 'viewport' or browser-based font-size. Anyone else on Safari experience this issue? This is the forum being used as an example: Remote Administration Tools

Update: Maybe this would be another reason why:

<https://developer.mozilla.org/en-US/docs/Web/CSS/text-size-adjust> I'm unable to replicate this issue.

Ok here, I threw in an example of another section without the problem and also read the threads in that section from before.

This is after reading those threads:

And this is another section's stickied threads, along with an unread stickied thread:

Safari doesn't support text-size-adjust, which was referenced in that documentation. So don't size difference shouldn't be an issue if safari doesn't support auto adjustments based off the viewport.

Tested on a physical iPhone 6S w/ Safari, I get the same issue as you. Larger font-size for stickied threads. I couldn't replicate it virtually.

I actually also get this using the Chrome browser on my iPhone 6, stickied threads have larger title text than regular. All stickied threads have been read as well. I wonder if maybe it is a screen width thing if both Safari and Chrome do it? But this is also inside the Premium Sellers section as well.

If I'm not mistaken, Apple does not let any browser on the iOS Store use their own engine (for reasons of security) and so any browser would have this issue since it's most likely a -Webkit issue tagged with iPhone devices. I couldn't replicate on Android but iPhone 6S also has this issue.

Oh fair enough, that could make more sense.
