4 weeks ago a started to trade and sell bitcoin for paypal.

I have heard people saying this is high risk and stupid but for me it have worked well.

I have taken a 60%fee and if you know where to look there are a lot of people that just want to get bitcoin without any complicated verification.

I got about 15%chargebacks but since i never ever relesed bitcoin untill i could cash the paypal out it wasnt a problem.

That was all o think. Now im gonna ceep selling the bitcoin for paypal and then i gonna get in to rats and hacking. Allways whanted to learn.

Where do you sell your bitcoin? If you don't mind me asking. I hope the success continues!

Billy - September 9, 2018, 7:55 pm

Jeez, selling your bitcoins got you some nice profits.
Congrats.

I respect the hustle that's awesome keep at it bro

PerfectStorm - September 9, 2018, 8:08 pm

Well congrats bro, just make sure you dont get limited :/

How do you make sure that you don't send the bitcoin before you can cash out the paypal cash.
How long do you let people wait?

If pending payment i dont releese bitcoin.

Advise is to never use your real name and adress in paypal. That way they cant require money from you if you would get chargeback.

Teach em the ways
please OP

Zexi - September 10, 2018, 9:40 am

I was thinking of doing that myself because i am estabilished on a few sites with that kinda rate but realised how much cancer you deal with (chargebacks and stealths) its not worth it.

Gratz on ur earnings nonetheless

Congrats OP keep it up.

Correct. I made that misstake at first. 200 dollar chargeback inmy real name. Not fun.

I also use rdp and never more than 500 dollar on eavh account
