Thread: Has anyone ever noticed it?

Has anyone ever checked out the last page of lounge? I know it's useless ?

but while checking I got this: <http://prntscr.com/kufuo5>

The entire last page is filled with poems? ???

I mean poems? they ain't related with hacking , heck they aren't cool.

So, can anyone explain why users at HF during 2008 were so into poems?

Spoiler (Click to View) I personally wanted to bump some of those threads ? , but getting a posting etiquette wasn't really worth it I guess ?

Whenever a board closes the threads get merged into an existing board so as not to lose the content.

In this case the literature board was close (I forget if that was the exact name).

Edit: I believe I am wrong and was only thinking of Support Forums:

All the inactive section will be merged with lounge

So may be in past HF had a separate poem section and now its taken out and merged with lounge ?

Hmm... my memory might be foggy but I can't find it ever actually existing. It was a suggestion on multiple occasions and denied.

Reading above post it make sense that different board were merged.

I remember group subforums being merged with the lounge as well. I should look for some old threads.
