Thread: Get tons of free kcups coffee on Amazon

So I discovered this by mistake - there is a 40-pack of coffee for sale at amazon in which the main default seller, named Deals on Call, sends incorrect items that don't match the listing page, along with a few expired cups. the first time this happened, I complained via chat and they refunded the money and said that i should keep the coffee because they can't accept returns of an item that can expire. So i ended up with 35/40 perfectly fine cups of free coffee.

Next time before i ordered the same thing, i checked with amazon first and they said the issue was fixed (since amazon is doing the fulfillment) and that it would be correct...it was not - same issue, got a refund and got to keep the coffee. I had a few friends do it and they had the same thing...so we started placing larger orders.

most recently, I did an order of 52 BOXES OF COFFEE - all came in different packaging and with different coffee brands than described on the amazon page, got a refund for the full $1,189.43 and a fully free 2,080 kcups, of which maybe 150 are expired.

Here is the item, I had to leave out the periods from the link because it doesn't let me post links yet:

This only works if you buy from the Deals on Call seller - the others send the correct item. Don't know how long it will last until Amazon stops letting this guy sell, but in the meantime it's lots of free coffee to be had! ?

I was trying to include screenshots of the chat but my account can't post images yet.
