Thread: Google Chrome has been blocked the file

DanioGaming - September 16, 2018, 6:14 am

Greetings, I have a problem with my file from Orcus RAT, when I want to download my file using Google Chrome, then it says like "The file is rarely downloading and can be dangerous". I can only upload a file, when I put it to WinRar and make a password, cause then its not blocking. I hope, that you'll tell me what to do. Regards

A trusted certificated would probably remove that warning.

You should probably refrain from using words such as "victims" if you want to keep your licence.

Cant you have the download winrar or 7zip when you are having them install your orcus stub?

DanioGaming - September 16, 2018, 9:20 am

And how can "verified" my file? Cause when someone are opening it, then its says "Unknown publisher" and there are a red icon, how can I make, that this icon will be another and that the publisher will be me or so?

Use the search function.

DanioGaming - September 16, 2018, 9:47 am

And why on Windows 10 is a SmartScreen showing up, when I'm trying to open my file? Is it because of no certificate too?

(You ever heard of "Slowing your roll"?)

EV code signing cert is probably between 300 to 1500 dollars USD, and yes EV cert is required. If you mass spread fully expect to have your certificate revoked, and no refund not sure why someone would need to mass spread either. There are many reasons for browsers flagging a download from site reputation to alternate data streams from browsers, which add it to files after download (aka zoneid). Seems you got a workaround.

Everytime you use the words "slave" and "victims" in conjunction with Orcus you kill a bit of Armada's soul.

+1 I must say though I do not see Orcus come up in my little home honeypot, which does say a lot about Orcus's management/Tos and the users. That is out of 11293 samples.
