Thread: TwitchHelper AKA Rus3000es AKA xna81425 - Exit Scammer

The Sanity - September 17, 2018, 11:02 am

Hello all,

This thread is to inform you all about a user named TwitchHelper. He is already known to some of you by other usernames - Rus3000es and xna81425. He is a repeat offender in exit scamming and he will most likely continue to do the same over and over again. I am sorry to all those who have bought his product as you will most likely lose your access to it in the coming months, either because he would try the same tactic I'm about to expose, or he would be banned after he's been caught and have no reason to continue to provide support/updates.

It all started with this thread <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5674655> xna81425 sold a bot to a user for $400 BTC, but then never provided the bot, claiming the user wanted to do "PayPal fraud" so he didn't want to send him the bot, but would not provide a refund either. The thread there shows the entire situation and it's obvious how much of a scammer he is. It's important to look at post #6 on that thread by the user Jincos (Jul 24, 2017 06:58 AM)Jincos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Purchased his Twitch spammer which does not work at all, user even closed the sales thread. I wouldn't doubt it if he scammed you OP. GL with this.

Here we see the first multi-exit scam about to take place. On top of selling this fake HTTP bot, he had a Twitch Spammer and Twitch View Bot that he was selling. The spammer was complete & operational on a website TwitchSpammer.com I believe, and eventually stopped working and nobody would get any support. He said nothing about it until he was about to be exposed and then he decided to create a thread which can be seen here where he claims a user named Jopy "Deleted all the files on his VPS" so his service has to be cancelled because he doesn't have the code to the bot anymore (who doesn't have their code on their own machine and stores their only copy of their bot/code on a VPS? Nobody.)

The thread for this is here:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5692639&pid=55596425#pid55596425>

You can look at the main post to see xna's post and read through the entire thread for the juice but I want to highlight Sickness' comment here which highlights xna's actions, of renaming all his threads (because he can't junk them) and trying to cover his tracks.

In the end he was caught in his lies in this thread and after this he disappeared. His final message after his disappearance sent to a user on Discord:

Now let's move on to Rus3000es. I noticed him pop up with the exact same threads and writing style as xna81425 immediately.

He did the same thing as xna81425 when he joined - give away free followers, give away free Twitch Prime accounts, etc etc to gain reputation. Unfortunately he wasn't able to get enough responses and get enough reputation to feel comfortable with upgrading his account & selling it himself, so instead he wanted to try proxy selling it through someone else to see if it helps his sales numbers. That user, DoctorSheep, has no foul part in this, he unwittingly just assisted this person with his exit scamming by proxy-selling for him, and has no fault in doing so because he did not know. TwitchHaven or TwitchHeaven has the exact same features as the previous bot that xna81425 tried to sell off before exit scamming, which were edited/removed when he tried to hide his tracks after his scam report came out. No problem, we can just use Rus3000's thread and compare the features of TwitchHaven and TwitchHelper.

TwitchHeaven:

View Bot

Follow Bot

Chat Bot

Whisper Bot

Account Creator

TwitchHelper:

View Bot

Follow Bot

Chat Bot

Whisper Bot

Account Creator

Besides having the same features, both are coded in Java, interesting...

And the final idiot move from this exit scammer is to write his threads in the exact same manner and the exact same text almost...just look for yourself and compare TwitchHaven/TwitchGod with TwitchHelper.

Here are some more evidence for those curious:

He follows the same pattern every time. If not for this thread I'm sure he would have just "disappeared" and "reappeared" with a new TwitchAssistance or TwitchServices or TwitchMaster bot and tried to claim sales from the exact same customers.

I posted on his threads last night exposing him and he has been online multiple times since then but has not replied to any of my posts. I also exposed him when he was Rus3000es and all he did was ignore my posts and didn't deny anything I said, did not try to provide any proof showing what I said was wrong, and he's unable to do so because everything I've written is factual.

I suggest everyone who is considering to buy his product fully read this thread and examine the evidence then make your decision.

And to any staff reading this, I suggest you look into these 3 accounts and I'm sure you will be able to see it is the same person. The IPs may not match, but I am willing to bet they are either the same ISP or same VPN provider if he uses a VPN. This guy is stupid enough to use the same VPN w/ different IPs for all his multis.

Once again I apologize for all those who bought his product - I may be expediting his exit scam by posting this thread as he will surely not provide further updates/support once he's banned, if you are able to get a refund I highly suggest you do so.

Good catch. Interesting username in that chat screenshot though. Your username in it seems really similar to a guy who is famous for getting banned and making new accounts on here

I missed that. My bad

He just pushed an update for the subbot yesterday due to it having problems. TwitchHelper was updated 2 or 3 days ago to add new features.

After a while you will see how things change. He is a multi.

What does that have to do with anything? If you look at the thread for TwitchHaven, it was also updated on a regular basis.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

The point is that he's already exit scammed twice and will either end up doing the same here or he'll end up getting banned at some point for being a multi and a scammer, and then everyone will stop receiving those updates because why should he provide anything once he's banned on HF? Better to return with a new product and re-sell to all those same customers, right?

It's quite clear this user is incompetent of maintaining a simple service / tool on HF here and would rather just scam than continue to provide a service to those who pay for "lifetime" packages. As we all know on HF, "lifetime" is usually 1-3 years not actually "lifetime", but in his case, even shorter, more like 3-4 months, if you're lucky.

The point of this thread is to make people aware of the user, make them aware of the risks of buying his product so they can make a good decision, and if Staff read it and find anything showing he is a multi-user then they can act upon it. In the end even if this thread does not result in him being banned or him taking this opportunity to exit scam, its still a success because it will have encouraged him to change his ways and continue to provide the software and fix any issues and not exit scam, so that's a great outcome as well.

He has seen this thread and has seen both my posts on both his threads over the past 2 days but has chose to not reply to a single one of them.

GrandpaSherman - September 19, 2018, 2:28 pm

Here's me now eating my own words, which is fine since I knew all about who he was and his scams. But he still had good programs, and I've gotten my money's worth so far.

Now in the future will I purchase said programs again? Nah not really I might just get someone to crack em

The Sanity - September 25, 2018, 10:17 pm

User locked all his threads and changed his name, then got his account closed.

His programs / services are no longer active or being sold on HF.

Also, I believe there is a cracked version of his tool being floated around that is working...haven't looked for it or anything, but it does exist.

Locking this thread now.
