Thread: Opinion on guys wearing make-up?

SIM-3205632 - September 18, 2018, 7:53 am

I've been thinking about this for awhile and i came across an article that said that 99% of the actors (male/female) wear make up i've also asked my girlfriend about this if it would be weird for a guy to wear make up.

What is your opinion on it?

notDiscoli - September 18, 2018, 7:54 am

I mean, do whatever you want but personally that doesn't seem very masculine to me.

Pyro - September 18, 2018, 7:55 am it's so fucking gay IMO ...

Agency - September 18, 2018, 7:59 am

Same Opinion lol, Make-ups are made for women, Why would a man wear a make-up? That's just weird.

DopplerAF - September 18, 2018, 8:11 am

Personal choice but still GAY as fuck.

Hexiah - September 18, 2018, 8:13 am

Just let people be who they want to be, like what they want to like and move on with your life.

Infamia - September 18, 2018, 8:14 am

Actors wear make-up because there's either that or actually getting punched 500 times to imitate the effect of, e..g, seriously bruised.

Besides that, it's a woman's thing to wear make-up, all men have to do is wear nice clothing, be well-groomed and have good hygiene.

SIM-3205632 - September 18, 2018, 8:38 am

Because beard dyeing is make up in a sense right? is that "gay" too then?

in what sense exactly.

Banter. - September 18, 2018, 8:41 am

I mean if it makes people happy then go for it, people like Jeffrey star etc lead a happy life etc so no one should judge people for wearing make up.

Guys can wear it to cover up scars or skin disorders etc so I mean I respect the choices and side with them 100%

Minnesota Nice - September 18, 2018, 8:49 am

I think guys coloring their hair is fine, and some dudes wear a little bit of concealer if they have redness. I personally don't care. I have considered dying my beard/hair a few times but never got around to it.

When they dye the outlines of their beard to make it look more sharp thats basically make up too right?

Quote:Cosmetics are substances or products used to enhance or alter the appearance of the face or fragrance and texture of the body. Many cosmetics are designed for use of applying to the face, hair, and body. They are generally mixtures of chemical compounds; some being derived from natural sources (such as coconut oil), and some being synthetics or artificial.[1] Common cosmetics include lipstick, mascara, eye shadow, foundation, skin cleansers and body lotions, shampoo and conditioner, hairstyling products (gel, hair spray, etc.), perfume and cologne. Cosmetics applied to the face to enhance its appearance are often called make-up or makeup.

Dying your facial hair, I'm pretty sure, isn't make-up seeing as it's a more permanent thing, moreso than cosmetics like what makeup women use which are usually only a day-long thing.

Everybody in film, tv, or anyone who appears on any mass broadcast wears makeup. Male or female. Hell, even pro league of legends players get a little makeup before they hit the stage. Outside of that, should guys wear makeup? No. But the fact that it's done for movies, tv, stream, whatever, is fine. It's normal.

I'm genuinely suprised how many people here think it's gay or unmasculine to wear make-up. Actors use concealer based make-up most of the time, to hide skin imperfections and such. I don't think that's weird. When you star in a movie or come on a TV show that millions of people are going to see, you will want to hide that one annoying pimple as well.

It's not really a big deal.

Can we stop throwing around the word gay? Unless you're shoving the makeup up another guy's butt it isn't gay.

The word you're looking for is feminine. Sure, it's totally feminine. It's completely against the social norms for men and will make most people look at you weird.

I think people should be able to look however they want. Why the fuck does it matter?

As for me personally, I would never wear it and I've never met a guy who wears it.

blobtown - September 18, 2018, 7:14 pm

I support and respect them as well.

I don't feel entitled to tell men (or women) what they can and cannot do.

Like some people tell men to not show emotions or cry. Or tell them to be big, masculine, aggressive, dominant, etc.

This just leads to insecurity issues (higher suicide rates in men than women) and even rape culture ("aggressive"/"has to prove themselves by getting pussy").

So I argue that we shouldn't project gender stereotypes or ideals onto others because it can be incredibly damaging lucky. - September 18, 2018, 7:24 pm

Couldn't give a shit less. I can even understand using it for small breakout spots if you care about that kind of stuff, but full face makeup usually gives me the impression that you're probably gay. Still wouldn't care regardless though.

All girls do is wake up, take a shower, put on 3lbs of makeup, take an Instagram selfie, and then finally carry on with their day. They prioritized using makeup and now the only girls that stick out are ones with legit 3lbs of makeup on their face acting like a barbie doll.

If you think about it, everything would be much better if makeup were never normalized. Girls would still be attractive w/o makeup and they wouldn't feel the need to use it to make them feel "pretty". There'd be less stress for them making them less bitchy, they'd probably be able to sleep an hour later every morning too. Could probably use their newly obtained time to give a blowjob too so it even benefits the men. Holy shit. They could even make breakfast instead of doing their makeup. I think I have just broke the world.

tldr; Don't use makeup, it is the EHHSENSE of all that is wrong with this world.

OP you need to think about the profit.

- is it low effort or not?
- does it cost much or not?
- does this enhance your look or makes you look bad?

If you don't make it too obvious while still enhancing your look then that's win-win IMO.

I was interested in men make up for long (people on reddit called me gay) because it's not fair that women can add few points in attractiveness scale to her look just with make up and men can't.

In the end I am not doing it but it's because I don't believe I can do this good enough.
