From what I saw on the source code it uses selenium which means to get any amount of good views it will take ages.

Sorry for the long Response time

if you run it 24/7 youtube will detect it, on the github repo no updates are committed but in my version it change to a "normal user activity" and views videos and likes things

Then it googles a bit and do other webstuff for 1-2 hours then we go back to youtube and continue.

youtube's bot detection is really good, it was a try if i can handle it somehow, but i found no way this script is working but youtube reset all abos and likes form Exchange sites after 2-4 weeks automaticly, so it make no sense to use it, but if somehow is interested how a bot can be done, here is a simple example code.
