Thread: Would you guys be interested in a reddit account creation/upvote bot

Plento - September 20, 2018, 7:45 am

Basically, I have made a bot which turns out is very effective. It can create accounts in bulk with ease and I found them to have a 100% retention rate, which is great for new accounts. Basically, it has many detection evasive features like the accounts automatically browsing around on subs, upvoting random posts and it has a proxy circulation feature which prioritizes least recently used proxies to complete the tasks and what I find to be the most useful feature (and the reason I made this bot), it stops at X amount of accounts created/upvotes delivered, rather than x amount of attempts.

What I mean by this is many proxies will not work and if you set other bots to do 500 upvotes, the bot will attempt to do 500 upvotes, and only 200 of those might work, then it will stop. My bot will keep doing this until all upvotes have been successfully delivered or until all accounts have been successfully created.

Would you guys be interested in using this bot or services done by the bot, such as upvotes, accounts created specifically for you etc? How much could you pay for this? I want to feel around what would be the best course of action for me.

Would you guys be interested in a reddit account creation/upvote bot? No Reason: I don't use re-edit or whatever it is though you can try to sell it here as many people are interested in reddit bots. GL with your sales

Was that comment really necessary?

Anyways, I was just trying to see whether it would be better for me to sell the bot or the services done by the bot.

He is a toxic boy dont mind him.

The price really depends on how many upvotes it will do. Because you only know how much upvotes you need based on the top post in the subreddit. Try searching for other bots on HF and just put a bit lower price.

If you ever give out a vouch copy id love to try it out. Good luck with sales.

I've tested 1k and it works perfectly. They had a 100% retention up until 600-700 votes, where in the end I got about 800 in place of a 1000. But that's cool, just add more upvotes. Accounts cost $3 per 1000 via 2captcha so it's practically nothing. You can get on top of the big subs.

I think there are many open source Reddit bots so people already have something to work with.

I've used several reddit bots and they're simply shit. They have at least one fatal drawback. It held true for cheaper and more expensive bots. Mine is simply higher quality.

you could give it a shot if you upgraded. made a clean and simple UI and sold it.

Do I need to upgrade to sell here? I've got a good and simple UI.

I'm not sure now and days, I know you'll probably make more sales being upgraded and wellknown though.

It's an interesting idea. I don't know that I would use it personally, but I know someone out there would.

Reddit's systems for catching Spam is very good. You would likely have to get much more creative in your first paragraph in the future.

I can fully bypass reddit's spam system. My brand new accounts get 100% vote retention and the bot has not failed to work ever so far. I know there are people who buy this stuff but I'm afraid it's too saturated. There are many threads for this on this forum and a whole lot more on marketing forums.

I think that people would be interested in it. Would might want to include other features as well. Like post views maybe comments too? One thing you don't want is a post with 100 up votes and 10 views.

How much were you thinking of selling the bot op sounds cool

I knew people would be interested. ?

Just out of curiosity, how much would you pay for something like this?

Probably 50 usd. You should make a thread and sell it. Like above users said.

I'm not the OP of this post. I was just curious to how much someone would spend on a program that could offer these features. ?

Hi,

No harm done! I have done similar things in the past and I am sure that I will do it again in the near future.

I don't think I would use it, but you never know I might, if the thread OP make it available to the public here. Only time will tell though!

opsplayer - September 20, 2018, 6:59 pm

Thanks was worried about the mistake lol and yeah only time will tell. Op hasn't replied. we will see!

No harm done! Yeah, the OP might have gotten off of the night or something like that. I am sure they will respond within the near future.

Only you can see the number of views. I'm sure I could add a bot which send visitors to a site, that's VERY simple to make. Also, read below.

I've seen reddit bots on THIS forum going for more than that PER MONTH, although I think that is too expensive. You can earn a lot of money from this. I have made the $50 since posting that, and am looking to make more. It's too easy to make money selling the services done by the bot, so I feel like $50 is too low.

But I understand, you were just saying how much you personally would pay.

That's actually a setting in each subreddit. Most of them have it set to block the view count from the public for an hour or two. I didn't think it would be hard to make. ?

I've honestly not had to worry about that, ever. But if you feel like it's important, I think there are lots of free bots like this on the internet and people charge like $5 to make a custom one :D

But I might add it tho.

I see the potential in this, however, I do think that if you were to start selling it, you would want to make it a software limited to a certain amount of users at a time, i.e. 5 to 10 users, software is quickly "caught onto" if sold in masses, especially when it is a bigger community as Reddit.

Not to mention, keeping the software exclusive would give you a chance of upping the price furthermore (I would not suggest it, but you could.)

I'm not very interested in Reddit myself, though, I do believe that the right people could turn their investment in such a program into a gold mine.

Software becoming public and/or software being over-used always gets caught onto, so if you are looking towards profiting without having to work full weekends to keep up with updates, I would suggest selling it as privatized.

Absolutely. It would be pretty dumb to make it public. The best course of action might be to sell it for a monthly license. There are bots like this, but I believe this is the best one at this point in time. There is even a recent bot on this forum; don't know if I can or should link to it.

One can do wonders with this if they know what they're doing. I'm just selling front page services around the web.

How can you bypass the reCaptcha on register?

SUI-3183372 - September 23, 2018, 11:09 am

I'd be interested and would likely buy upon seeing a demonstration of the bot working in action.

Great. I still haven't decided the price and the payment model (monthly or lifetime). I'll let you know.

Plento - October 10, 2018, 1:36 pm

I have decided on a price of $200 for unlimited access. It's well worth it if you know what you are doing and you can make the money back fast. I will make a sales thread soon but do PM me anyway if you are interested. Thanks.

My bot does upvotes and account creation but not subscribers. It has some really good features tho. Its price is $200 for lifetime use.

I think its better to provide the service than to sell the bot itself. There is a huge market behind viral social media. If you want to step up the game just offer some sort of commenting bot with a neural network to manipulate the subreddits with comments :).

It's better to do both. As far as these niche forums are concerned (like this one), there are already plenty of people selling upvotes and accounts.
