

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Dropping out of highschool after already singing in

toox7 - September 23, 2018, 6:06 am

hey i'm wondering if it's actually possible to drop out of highschool even after signing up for it i think i have passed the legal drop out age (i'm 17 atm) and i want no FUCKING one to bother me with anything

i'm fed up with everyone (mom dad and family) trying to get me back because i think it's better for me to do so i live in france and i just moved there so i don't know much about the system

what can i do ? bymyself

Edit : on second line by no one i was referring to everyone around me irl (like school stuff and family)

thats the only way out for me to get help is thru this forum otherwise im gunna fking die

CaneloGG - September 23, 2018, 6:09 am

If you're 17 already why don't you just grind out the remaining year?

toox7 - September 23, 2018, 6:14 am

it's actually 2 more years or so because that's their law when ur a foreigner you automatically get set to a year behind so you adapt to their system

s1nister - September 23, 2018, 6:16 am

I don't really get it,

You have any plans about what you are going to do after dropping out, do you?

If not then just stay with your school there's a reason thousands of students across the Globe are grinding through that shit.

XanaxHeister - September 23, 2018, 6:24 am

Are you gonna sell marijuana and join some arabic potheads clubs you see on the streets? I live here so I know what dropouts do here generally pmtobefriend - September 23, 2018, 6:25 am you are fils de pute are you fils de pute?

mehranux - September 23, 2018, 6:28 am

What do you mean "singing in"

Nate - September 23, 2018, 6:30 am

Might as well just finish it, you don't know the difference it makes w a High school grad thing..

Its a big difference, and its worth it.

Its only 2 years.

High school should be fun.

toox7 - September 23, 2018, 6:34 am

(Sep 23, 2018 06:16 AM)s1nister Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't really get it,

You have any plans about what you are going to do after dropping out, do you?

If not then just stay with your school there's a reason thousands of students across the Globe are grinding through that shit.

The thing is that it's damn complicated and hard to express , i i think i could be more productive/achieve better things when out of school staying there literally doesn't help me in either ways and what made others get against me is that i don't get to give em a clean reply

Business - September 23, 2018, 6:40 am

I would say just finish out man. You already put 3 years in, what's another two? You might want that diploma some day. Mainly if you want to pursue higher education, but I don't think you do.

In that case... do what you feel is right.

toox7 - September 23, 2018, 6:42 am

(Sep 23, 2018 06:24 AM)XanaxHeister Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Are you gonna sell marijuana and join some arabic potheads clubs you see on the streets? I live here so I know what dropouts do here generally Defenitely No , well the good thing i aint even that social tbh so going out aint my type of shit

(Sep 23, 2018 06:28 AM)mehranux Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What do you mean "singing in"like sign up for the year (excuse my english)

(Sep 23, 2018 06:30 AM)N?te Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Might as well just finish it, you don't know the difference it makes w a High school grad thing..

Its a big difference, and its worth it.

Its only 2 years.

High school should be fun.I'm still learning the language which can be little challenging , i really hate hate hate hate what ever's related to any social activities in school or even participating in class etc basically every social interaction , i just wanna do things my self but its hard am getting too personal here

s1nister - September 23, 2018, 6:42 am

(Sep 23, 2018 06:34 AM)toox7 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The thing is that it's damn complicated and hard to express , i i think i could be more productive/achieve better things when out of school staying there literally doesn't help me in either ways and what made others get against me is that i don't get to give em a clean reply

I have been in the same place,

But let's be real you don't have anything to chase now, so being in school gives you a backup

And if you really do get an Ground breaking startup idea, it will be better to work on it part-time.

XanaxHeister - September 23, 2018, 6:50 am

The problem is that without the BAC you will do jack here. If you want to be self employed and make your own money, great, but that s a bit risky. I advise you to at least get the BAC and pursue your dreams.

toox7 - September 23, 2018, 7:21 am

Alright thanks guys for the help and suggestions really appreciated them

jesuschristisfake - September 23, 2018, 7:22 am

(Sep 23, 2018 06:06 AM)toox7 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) hey i'm wondering if it's actually possible to drop out of highschool even after signing up for it
i think i have passed the legal drop out age (i'm 17 atm) and i want no FUCKING one to bother me with anything
i'm fed up with everyone (mom dad and family) trying to get me back because i think it's better for me to do so i live in france and i just moved there so i don't know much about the system
what can i do ? bymyself

Edit : on second line by no one i was referring to everyone around me irl (like school stuff and family)
thats the only way out for me to get help is thru this forum otherwise im gunna fking die
I got in HS and literally dropped out the first week of it ? ?

I was never a type of a kid for it anyway, so, do what you think it is the best for you but please, PLEASE think about the consequences and what that brings you in the long run, you'll always be able to get a degree, I'm 21 now and I can freely sign up for online classes or shit like that and the diploma is basically a GED level or higher.

So don't worry about missing out on your education opportunity now or whatever, just chase whatever the fuck you feel like chasing, cuz remember it's always easy to get back to school and learn shit, unless you are a plain lazy dumbfuck ?

mehranux - September 23, 2018, 7:28 am

(Sep 23, 2018 06:42 AM)toox7 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Defenitely No , well the good thing i aint even that social tbh so going out aint my type of shit
like sign up for the year (excuse my english)

I'm still learning the language which can be little challenging , i really hate hate hate hate what ever's related to any social activities in school or even participating in class etc basically every social interaction , i just wanna do things my self but its hard am getting too personal here
Ah I got it sorry

toox7 - September 23, 2018, 8:45 am

(Sep 23, 2018 07:22 AM)Aesthetik Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I got in HS and literally dropped out the first week of it ? ?

I was never a type of a kid for it anyway, so, do what you think it is the best for you but please, PLEASE think about the consequences and what that brings you in the long run, you'll always be able to get a degree, I'm 21 now and I can freely sign up for online classes or shit like that and the diploma is basically a GED level or higher.

So don't worry about missing out on your education opportunity now or whatever, just chase whatever the fuck you feel like chasing, cuz remember it's always easy to get back to school and learn shit, unless you are a plain lazy dumbfuck ?

that's what i fcking needed tbh
i know going for that move is gonna lose me a lot of ppl but hey , fuck them ill just do it for me i know who i am so yeah with my parents being living with their old mentality its actually affecting me badly and preventing me to take actions my self tomorrow i got exams and i really dont wanna go it's annoying me af btw i'm sure of what am doing / saying

DrDoof - September 23, 2018, 12:00 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 06:42 AM)toox7 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) i really hate hate hate hate what ever's related to any social activities in school or even participating in class etc basically every social interaction , i just wanna do things my self but its hard am getting too personal here

I'm the same, and it fucking sucks, but not having a HS diploma sucks even more. My brother who is 35 is still working the same low paying job because he can't get anything else/better paid even though he has three kids he has to provide for. Don't do this to yourself man. Get done with HS. You don't even have to like it just do the absolute minimum and focus on your own shit for the remaining time (which should be a lot of free time if France's HS is anything like Sweden's).

reBELLYus - September 23, 2018, 12:12 pm

Stay in school. If you drop out, mark my words - you will regret it.

If you ever need any help, I'm here.

Kenjataimu - September 23, 2018, 12:14 pm

"the system sucks, i hate everyone grrr"

Do what you want. Not like you will make a positive impact on people around you.

Vossen - September 23, 2018, 12:18 pm

Sorry, but you have no plan whatsoever and just say "well I'm gonna be so much more productive when I dropped out and gonna chase my own dreams". That's pure bs and never gone well.

I was in a similar position, where I'm from we've got 3 years of high school (before earning the highest possible degree) and after a year or so I developed a strong urge to just drop out. The difference is, while you seem to not have any real plan whatsoever, I've already worked on other side hustles while going to school. Still, I did not drop out. At the end of year 12 I could've easily lived off the money I've been earning already, still I finished. Just because you NEVER know what could happen in the future. Seriously. Without a real plan even, your chances of ending on the street are definitely increased.

So, just do yourself a favor and finish school. If you really want to drop out, work on becoming your own boss first, because that's what you effectively need to be. No one is going to hire an high school dropout except for McD maybe. And as you already said you're not the guy to socialize after school, you should have more than enough time to do so.

Traum - September 23, 2018, 12:26 pm

So I can kind if relate to this as I dropped out one year before finishing my A levels. It actually helped me immensely with my personal problems and I got a new view on life.

However it also showed me that education is very important and that you should get as much of it as you can.

I'm now going the harder route by doing my A levels in three years while working at the same time. In hindsight I should have grinded that one year and I could be far ahead now.

Lukas - September 23, 2018, 12:48 pm

You need to have money to move. Where are you going to get a job without a high school diploma?

Java - September 23, 2018, 1:03 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 06:06 AM)toox7 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) hey i'm wondering if it's actually possible to drop out of highschool even after signing up for it i think i have passed the legal drop out age (i'm 17 atm) and i want no FUCKING one to bother me with anything

i'm fed up with everyone (mom dad and family) trying to get me back because i think it's better for me to do so i live in france and i just moved there so i don't know much about the system

what can i do ? bymyself

Edit : on second line by no one i was referring to everyone around me irl (like school stuff and family)

thats the only way out for me to get help is thru this forum otherwise im gunna fking die

You're 17, you have spent over 10 years in school, why would you quit now? That's like running a 100 meter race and stopping at 90 meters.

My advice, just finish high school. Life doesn't get easier after high school, so I am not sure what you are hoping to accomplish by leaving school.

GRAHAM OAKMONT - September 23, 2018, 1:08 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 06:06 AM)toox7 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) hey i'm wondering if it's actually possible to drop out of highschool even after signing up for it

i think i have passed the legal drop out age (i'm 17 atm) and i want no FUCKING one to bother me with anything

i'm fed up with everyone (mom dad and family) trying to get me back because i think it's better for me to do so i live in france and i just moved there so i don't know much about the system

what can i do ? bymyself

Edit : on second line by no one i was referring to everyone around me irl (like school stuff and family)

thats the only way out for me to get help is thru this forum otherwise im gunna fking die

What state are you in? Many states it's legal to dropout at 16. Anyways, enjoy working at McDonalds locked in your orphan parents basement for the rest of your life.

tripac - September 23, 2018, 1:13 pm

I cant tell you anything about legal stuff however I can tell you that if you miss your high school you will miss something very cool. I had the best fun and the best time while i was in high school, now when I finished my high school and im going to college now I can tell you that i miss HS so fucking much. Yes you will be stressed sometimes, yes you will be under pressure, yes it will be hard sometimes but trust me it pays off, I learned so much shit about life I learned so much on my mistakes and on the mistakes of others. Thats the point of high school and since your in europe (same as me) i can tell you that you will have the same expirience as me no matter what oscast - September 23, 2018, 1:28 pm

Pass with d's. It's not that hard, you will regret it.

pmtobefriend - September 23, 2018, 1:29 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 06:42 AM)toox7 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Defenitely No , well the good thing i aint even that social tbh so going out aint my type of shit

like sign up for the year (excuse my english)

I'm still learning the language which can be little challenging , i really hate hate hate hate what ever's related to any social activities in school or even participating in class etc basically every social interaction , i just wanna do things my self but its hard am getting too personal here

finish it especially when you are half way, or else you wasted years before. just finish it, and try to work on your problem aka anxiety or whatever it's called

XanaxHeister - September 23, 2018, 1:54 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 01:08 PM)GRAHAM OAKMONT Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What state are you in? Many states it's legal to dropout at 16. Anyways, enjoy working at McDonalds locked in your orphan parents basement for the rest of your life.

France's legal dropout is 16, if you have the agreement of your parents.

NoneStar - September 23, 2018, 2:33 pm

Just finish HS man it's worth the degree.

falkenburry - September 23, 2018, 2:46 pm

If you drop out you'll regret it later on toox7 - September 23, 2018, 2:53 pm

it appears i'm Lacking emotional support and some motivations or apparently more valid reasons that's really helpful since it's hard to find such replies somewhere else nor even from my own "entourage"

but yeah thanks to everybody who helped im glad i turned to the right place

Fein - September 23, 2018, 3:00 pm

I was in a similar situation, trust me you want to try to ride it out man. Either that or find an alternative way of education that's accredited, you may want to drop out but it isn't always the best solution.

jesuschristisfake - September 23, 2018, 3:05 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 02:46 PM)falkenburry Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If you drop out you'll regret it later on Why? Because your parents say so?

Follow ur heart and not what society tells you. Unless you plan to become a doctor, an astronaut or anything, then don't drop out obviously.

That being said, I just got my SECOND job, no HS degree no shit, hard work pays off, it's the game a lot of ppl are too scared to play and just play with the safe route, but the reality is you can lose a job even if you have a degree, it's pointless and it brainwashes you. Believe in yourself!

Oh and don't become a cop

WageWolf - September 23, 2018, 3:08 pm

Try to get into an online program if it is that bad. Get through it and graduate, without it, quite frankly, it will be hard to get a job, you will be reliant on the internet for the most part to earn.

Traum - September 23, 2018, 3:12 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 03:05 PM)Kid Klxut Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Why? Because your parents say so?

Follow ur heart and not what society tells you. Unless you plan to become a doctor, an astronaut or anything, then don't drop out obviously.

How old are you, 16? Education is important.

jesuschristisfake - September 23, 2018, 3:17 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 03:12 PM)Traeumer Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How old are you, 16? Education is important. Education is important, but that can be anything really, finding a job is easy

Don't get scared bruv, get out of your comfort zone and try doing something for yourself instead of relying on school, I'm 21, currently doing fine with my life, dropped out of HS the first week I got in, it's just hard work!

#noregrets

Traum - September 23, 2018, 3:22 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 03:17 PM)Kid Klxut Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Education is important, but that can be anything really, finding a job is easy

Don't get scared bruv, get out of your comfort zone and try doing something for yourself instead of relying on school, I'm 21, currently doing fine with my life, dropped out of HS the first week I got in, it's just hard work!

#noregrets

The thing is it enables further education. Job experience can only get you so far. Being able to receive more education by finishing HS has a lot more value as it opens up a whole new spectrum.

jesuschristisfake - September 23, 2018, 3:24 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 03:22 PM)Traeumer Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The thing is it enables further education. Job experience can only get you so far. Being able to receive more education by finishing HS has a lot more value as it opens up a whole new spectrum.

Ya but that completely depends on OP and his will to study and "progress" in his career, unless he is not a visionary and has his own shit going on through his brain

I'm just sharing the views from my perspective how I think it is, OP if you have a feeling you can change the world with your ideas, just do it and don't waste your time on school systems

Business - September 23, 2018, 3:44 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 02:46 PM)falkenburry Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If you drop out you'll regret it later on That's definitely not always the case!

LoveOverFear - September 23, 2018, 3:46 pm

Damn bro stay in school or your gonna be a bum o the streets, no one nows a days give out free handouts, you have to earn that ish now.

Good luck OP.

Kenjataimu - September 23, 2018, 3:47 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 03:17 PM)Kid Klxut Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Education is important, but that can be anything really, finding a job is easy

Don't get scared bruv, get out of your comfort zone and try doing something for yourself instead of relying on school, I'm 21, currently doing fine with my life, dropped out of HS the first week I got in, it's just hard work!

#noregrets

I guarantee you aint shit.
What you working a shit manu job?
posting on your snapchat with 100 dollar bills #hustle

kid gtfo of here.

Lukas - September 23, 2018, 4:18 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 03:17 PM)Kid Klxut Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Education is important, but that can be anything really, finding a job is easy

Don't get scared bruv, get out of your comfort zone and try doing something for yourself instead of relying on school, I'm 21, currently doing fine with my life, dropped out of HS the first week I got in, it's just hard work!

#noregrets

You're probably one of the individuals who thinks working fast food is a career that you're meant to do for your life's entirety.

Finish high school. If you don't want to go to college, attend a technical school and master in a trade such as welding, automotive, or something else. There are literally so many CAREERS out there for you, but you won't be happy living off a $15/hr fast food job for the rest of your life.

jesuschristisfake - September 23, 2018, 4:41 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 03:47 PM)Thiizic Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I guarantee you aint shit.
What you working a shit manu job?
posting on your snapchat with 100 dollar bills #hustle

kid gtfo of here.

Ahhh... all these Computer Engineering kids ?

bro, not everyone is destined to work as a fucking Computer Engineer or a programmer you fucking dweeb

EDIT: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5863922>

Whoah bro you made it! You can spend $1k on a fucking mattress, well done piece of irrational shit

(Sep 23, 2018 04:18 PM)Lukas Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You're probably one of the individuals who thinks working fast food is a career that you're meant to do for your life's entirety.

Finish high school. If you don't want to go to college, attend a technical school and master in a trade such as welding, automotive, or something else. There are literally so many CAREERS out there for you, but you won't be happy living off a $15/hr fast food job for the rest of your life.

No, but if you have no other shit to work, do it for a while until you figure out where you want to invest your money and time

It's the close-minded ppl who think they'll have to work something for the rest of their life if they don't finish HS, you guys are just scared of living and not trying

You can deffo finish HS down the road if you'll feel like it, let him chase his shit now and explore his options instead of being another fucking computer engineer like you two scared ass idiots]

My point is that nobody should push themselves to finish HS if they feel like they are not meant for it, you're just killing your mental power and creativity and shit, remember that some of the greatest ppl alive haven't finished their education.

Ømen Xiii - September 23, 2018, 4:54 pm

Just finish it out bud. I dropped out after 3 weeks into my sophomore year and hella regret it years after. Just stick it out.

delphiX - September 23, 2018, 6:33 pm

bro wrap up with your education it very important despise any obstacles u face

Nate - September 23, 2018, 6:33 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 06:42 AM)toox7 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Defenitely No , well the good thing i aint even that social tbh so going out aint my type of shit
like sign up for the year (excuse my english)

I'm still learning the language which can be little challenging , i really hate hate hate hate what ever's related to any social activities in school or even participating in class etc basically every social interaction , i just wanna do things my self but its hard am getting too personal here

Theres lots of people who complete high school without having much socail interaction. I saw plenty of kids just sticking to them selfs. its really not that hard. If you want to be by yourself, just mind your own buisness

But I mean thats not healthy, you should want to interact. You should see a psychologist, for anxeyty, or social disorders.

Not tryna be rude. But there is obviously something wrong, if you dont like to interact. This is a sign of Asperger syndrome.

G??gle - September 23, 2018, 7:34 pm

I quit school for a full time job I really enjoyed. Few years later they fired me and I had nothing. School is really important but you'll probably believe me once it's too late.

(Sep 23, 2018 03:47 PM)Thiizic Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I guarantee you aint shit.

What you working a shit manu job?

posting on your snapchat with 100 dollar bills #hustle

kid gtfo of here.

What he said^^^^^^

Kenjataimu - September 23, 2018, 8:44 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 04:41 PM)Kid Klxut Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Ahhh... all these Computer Engineering kids ?

bro, not everyone is destined to work as a fucking Computer Engineer or a programmer you fucking dweeb

EDIT: <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5863922>

Whoah bro you made it! You can spend $1k on a fucking mattress, well done piece of irrational shit

Looks like I hit the nail on the head lol. I dont do computer engineering or programming.
Keep hustling that 9-5 shit though.

Quote:You can deffo finish HS down the road if you'll feel like it, let him chase his shit now and explore his options instead of being another fucking computer engineer like you two scared ass idiots]

My point is that nobody should push themselves to finish HS if they feel like they are not meant for it, you're just killing your mental power and creativity and shit, remember that some of the greatest ppl alive haven't finished their education.

What are his options?

Work a 9-5 shit job with no education. While your flipping burgers or working in a factory thinking about how you are going to start a business or idea thats going to make you rich.

You go home everyday, and instead of grinding and following your dreams you think to yourself "I will do it tomorrow, I worked hard today and deserve to treat myself." Then you sit at home playing games or going out partying. Rinse repeat.

You realize that most of the "greatest" people who dropped out of school did so because it:

A. wasnt challenging

B. They were ALREADY running a business

If you feel like you arent meant for school and a shit job is your calling then thats fine. We need people like you.

falkenburry - September 25, 2018, 4:49 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 03:44 PM)?usiness Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's definitely not always the case!It's not always the case but it sure is most the time. It's best to have it to fall back on, not everyone is gonna drop out of school and become rich like Bill Gates.

pmtobefriend - September 25, 2018, 5:05 pm

(Sep 23, 2018 03:17 PM)Kid Klxut Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Education is important, but that can be anything really, finding a job is easy

Don't get scared bruv, get out of your comfort zone and try doing something for yourself instead of relying on school, I'm 21, currently doing fine with my life, dropped out of HS the first week I got in, it's just hard work!

#noregrets

ur the same fag who posted on a thread showing a gucci bag saying 'cop it '

Imao u have some big ass retardation mate

Business - September 25, 2018, 6:06 pm

(Sep 25, 2018 04:49 PM)falkenburry Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's not always the case but it sure is most the time. It's best to have it to fall back on, not everyone is gonna drop out of school and become rich like Bill Gates.Not everyone WANTS to be rich like Bill Gates.

falkenburry - September 25, 2018, 7:20 pm

(Sep 25, 2018 06:06 PM)?usiness Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Not everyone WANTS to be rich like Bill Gates.He was just an example. It's dumb to drop out, everyone I know that did has regretted it.

Business - September 25, 2018, 7:28 pm

(Sep 25, 2018 07:20 PM)falkenburry Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He was just an example. It's dumb to drop out, everyone I know that did has regretted it. It's true that it is a good thing to have. Sometimes people are going through a lot in high school and need to focus more on their mental health than school.

I went through a lot in HS, but I never thought about quitting.

SIM-3257834 - September 26, 2018, 2:02 am

I highly recommend not dropping out of HS, it's practically a free education. What people don't want to admit is a GED or equivalent is seen lower than a HS diploma.