Description

User has a list up for multiple gift cards for sale - XBOX currency was what I was on the hunt for. I proceed to send him a private message to get a deal going on and discuss the rate and price. Once we settled that part of the deal we moved on and made a contract that I initiated. He accepted his contract and I accepted my contract, cool. I send the cash first to his paypal ($65) as goods and services and he stalls the deal for a while. I message him periodically to follow up and make sure he's getting the codes for me. It isn't until 25 minutes until he asks for my email so he can forward the amazon message with the code in the email. Sketchy at first sight, he had sent me a $30 code via email (I never redeemed it or anything). I message him and ask him what's up - telling him he promised me two $50 codes as stated in the contract. He proceeds to tell me that he's having trouble looking through his messages finding the code, that he's going to get three $30 codes and a $10 code. In my head I'm thinking okay, cool. Another 20 minutes pass and he continues to stall to keep me occupied while he supposedly messages other customers. I get impatient, I figure something is going on so I add his discord and talk to him through there - he tells me he's leaving his house for 15 minutes that his "flatmate" would take care of me. Those 15 minutes turned into 2 hours. Until now he checked back on his discord and replied to my two messages consisting of "Yo..." he says "you won't win your chargeback" and he proceeds to change his discord title name to "GetScammed" pretty blatant at this point.

THESE SCREENSHOTS ALONE WILL REVEAL HIMSELF AS A SCAMMER - TLDR ALL SUMMED UP. HE REVEALS HIMSELF AT THE END, NO SHAME.

I was also scammed for $100 pp by this member. I've disputed the contract but haven't opened a scam report. I can provide additional screenshots of my conversation with him on discord if needed. This scam needs to be removed.
