Thread: Client charged back, what should I do now?

Bear - October 1, 2018, 3:53 pm

This is from when contracts were still not as widely implemented, hence no contracts for the transaction with this guy. He is currently banned because of some misunderstanding with Omni, atleast that's what he told me.

So the thing is, a very trusted client of mine, who had bought over $2k worth of service from me had a paypal chargeback for a $50+$40=$90 payment. I am pretty sure it was a stealth paypal and he probably used someone else' CC.

I am broken between the debate of: should I report this guy to his school and mess his academics up, irrespective I lose the paypal review? Or should I just eat the cost and be a some sort of bigger man?

Help me pick a side guys...

Leads - October 1, 2018, 3:57 pm

It's really up to whether you think he deserves it or not. Try to get into contact with him, see if it was a misunderstanding or something. Or at least fight it and wait until you see if you lose or not before trying to fuck his shit up.

Business - October 1, 2018, 3:57 pm

I think your user title will inspire your final answer.

I would personally try my best to get the funds back from the chargeback, but other than that I would leave it be.

Brill - October 1, 2018, 4:07 pm

being a bigger man is putting a little man in his place

The client faked to be a US marine who is deployed and is taking online classes. Hence I went out of my way to help him. Hence the light rage from my side about this incidence.

.fury - October 1, 2018, 4:08 pm

yeah br0 go fuck his life up!

about this incidence. I think you should just save your time and forget about him. You'll make another $90. That being said I'm just not very vengeful.

This slight push towards being kind is actually making me want to just leave it. Thanks man.

SIM-3257834 - October 1, 2018, 4:11 pm

Report him to his school, stop being light on scammers. They deserve to have their life fucked up.

Leads - October 1, 2018, 4:12 pm

Imo he should be taught a lesson, or he'll probably go and scam other people. same thing happened to me where a dude (previously hf member who also got banned by omni) pulled lies out of his ass for months and scammed a shit ton from me. I was proxy selling for him so i ended up having to refund everyone from my own pocket. These are pathetic scum people

Elysium - October 1, 2018, 4:13 pm

In reality, what all would his school do seeing as this was something that took place off-campus on his free time? In my honest opinion, I don't think they would do anything short of possibly notifying law enforcement of your claim.

Lol. Dude got his last 2 semester's worth of credits because of my work, not his own. What I am providing might be seen as unethical, but I am not taking $$ away from anyone's pockets nor am I harming anyone.

This guy literally scammed someone else by using their card, so now its between me and that person where as he is enjoying his credits from school without any issues.

PerfectStorm - October 1, 2018, 4:24 pm

Well if he is an avid scammer he deserves the report.

Leads - October 1, 2018, 4:27 pm

Imo pathetic scammers deserve whatever comes to them.

Voltaire - October 1, 2018, 4:44 pm

If he's a kid, I say teach him a lesson. I did this once over $2. They really learn fast and won't do it again.

Plus, it's someone else's credit card on the acc. If it was your cc, wouldn't you want this kid fucked up?

Almonds - October 1, 2018, 4:49 pm

No mercy, I guess.

Surely he would have explained himself.

Ah, I see. Your signature didn't load before my first response so I didn't realize the nature of your services. If this is the case, I say contact him letting him know he has a short period of time to make this right or you are reporting him.(If you have a method of contacting him still) If he doesn't respond, report him.

gore - October 1, 2018, 9:22 pm

It's $90... and you want to contact his school and try and screw over his life? For...$90.....

How about you try to reach out to him or do a community alert on his account so when he's back he can't fuck over anyone else? Why try and ruin someone's life over money, especially a measly $90...

Whiz_ - October 1, 2018, 9:25 pm

No mercy, that's what scammers deserve

TicTacs - October 1, 2018, 9:32 pm

Give him 24 hours to stop the chargeback. If he doesn't, fuck him up. He can take a valuable lesson away so he won't mess with others in the future.

A scammer is a scammer, but it's up to you.

Pikachu - October 2, 2018, 2:10 am

You should just do what is right. Don't deal with this kid anymore. He inst worth it. You will make your $ back and then some, karma will punish the scammer.

Just try and get a hold of the guy somehow, if you know his school just find him on social media and message him about it. If he doesnt give you back the cash fuck him up :)

JTMBoss - October 2, 2018, 2:22 am no need to possibly ruin someones life over such a little amount of money.

3robimayne - October 2, 2018, 2:22 am

If he already bought over 2k from you, then just take -90 man.

kids will be kids tho. we all did dumb stuff when we are younger doesnt mean we should possibly be punished for the rest of our life.

Meow - October 2, 2018, 2:26 am

Just reply to the chargeback & win it? No need to 'fuck him up'.

gundamwinger - October 2, 2018, 2:31 am

Better to just forgive him. You can earn back the $90 in the future.

Business - October 2, 2018, 2:33 am

Hey man did you make your final decision?

Snowwy - October 2, 2018, 2:41 am

Can you try reaching out to him? Give him a chance to pay you back otherwise I would notify the school. Fuck him. I hate scammers, obviously.

I Fucking hate these type of bastard chargeback on paypal , it does ruin your paypal health too mind it , so go report that mf

Calibur - October 2, 2018, 2:46 am

Try reaching out and let him know about it. If he doesn't want to pay you back or return your money, then report him. Im so tired of chargeback as well so fuck that kid up! If that kid get away so easily he'll surely gonna do it again. Fucking scums.

Think OP is being too soft. He might need a Bounty Hunter to do the dirty work.

That too ^

But one way to look at it, if they've scammed before, chances are they'll do it again, teaching them a lesson is what stops them.

Letting them get away with it, will just inspire them and be like "O that was easy to scam, I got away with it, no harm done to me, I should do this more often."

Voltaire - October 2, 2018, 5:43 am

Tell him to turn himself in to his school and attach you on the email or you will do it for him. Don't go easy. Feel free to send me his name OP I'll give you every single thing you could ever want on him. Free. I hate scammers.

Tsach3vTP - October 2, 2018, 6:13 am

play uno reverse card and chargeback him back

JuiceWRLD - October 2, 2018, 6:32 am

Fuck this guy up. I hate scammers and time wasters, if you're broke don't fucking waste my time.

#minirantover

Banter. - October 2, 2018, 6:41 am for $90 i would be the bigger man.

GRAHAM OAKMONT - October 2, 2018, 9:38 am

Could've been an error in the transaction, you've made a lot of other profit on him. I'd hold back on fucking up his life until you can talk to him.

ZeekHD - October 2, 2018, 11:00 am

In my opinion you should try to contact him, if he's willing to give you the chargebacked money back forget about it, if he don't take actions.

botmun - November 8, 2018, 11:17 am

Not doing anything will obviously exacerbate this kind of behavior and he will scam more people. But you've made good profit too so can consider that as well.
Let me know what you do.

lavampiree - November 8, 2018, 11:19 am personally I would try to deal with it before taking any further action Imo.

Vagues - November 8, 2018, 11:24 am

Nah screw him up. He'll never learn till it backfires on him.

mycatisadog - November 8, 2018, 11:25 am

I mean personally I'd be reporting him to his school, everyone should do their end of the contract or they deserve the consequences.

Lavish Living - November 8, 2018, 11:28 am this is over a month old, what'd you end up doing @OP? was he not willing to just pay it using a main pp?

ZwClose - November 8, 2018, 11:36 am

What will you personally gain from reporting to his school?, just contact him to resolve, if you can't then just let it go. Not worth the countless hours.. and he paid 2k and charged back 100.

Cryptic™ - November 8, 2018, 11:40 am

If the dispute was for a large amount I would recover it for a cut

Many users have hired me in the past to win their disputes.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?pid=53901354#pid53901354>

(Don't buy the eBook as I don't sell it anymore and it was just one of my methods, but if you read the posts you will see I've recovered large amounts for people with my private methods.

I usually charge 20-30% depending on the amount.

<$100 is nothing and I wouldn't really waste time pursuing that guy and ruining his life lol

Foursenal - November 8, 2018, 1:13 pm

@Bear Report him to the school. Why the fuck should you feel bad? If he fucks you over, you fuck him over, it's fair play. Just tell him if he's willing to lose his academics for it, force him to cancel the chargeback or pay you back. If not, report it.

Trappy - November 8, 2018, 1:15 pm

Give him a week or so to pay you in Bitcoin. If he fails to do so report him.

Bear - November 8, 2018, 4:25 pm

I decided to not report him. I will just wait till paypal lets me know whats the result of the dispute in a few days.

stupiidgevin - November 8, 2018, 5:10 pm

Just got scammed too Bear. It fucking sucks smfh. This site caters to people who are memebrrs only. I can't even view their trust scan. Scammed for $190 of bitcoin

Rule of thumb is, never go first if you have crypto. Its super simple. If anyone doesnt want to deal with that, then they can go deal somewhere else.

stupiidgevin - November 8, 2018, 5:17 pm

Ugh i messed up badly. Jesus people in this world scamming people

grindz - November 15, 2018, 10:06 am
