Thread: Auto group buy-ins with bytes?

Leads - October 1, 2018, 5:56 pm

A feature that allows group owners to sell group spots for their chosen amount of bytes. The option can be here in the form of a button, beside the "Join Group" options.

Group owners can set the price and it could be coded to be fully automatic.

Features can be added such as setting a limit of how many buy-ins can be bought, increasing the buy-in price by x% after every x buy-ins, etc.

Thoughts?

It would be more beneficial with real money. If I were a group owner, there's not a single chance in the world that I would let scum join my group for bytes.

Or you could just simply uncheck bytes option and make it invite only?

I like the idea, however, I don't think it will be implemented any sooner even if Omni took it into consideration, considering there is so much work pending already.

With all the updates coming, and 90% of them having a Bytes implementation, let's give them some time to crank those out before requesting more. I know he recently posted about possibly making Bytes available for purchase, but it seems like he's taking his time picking new features since they are so busy.

Not a bad idea, but perhaps a bad time.

I think this is a really good idea. Xerotic could whip this up quickly if they decide to implement it.

I have other ideas and plans.
